The Teenie Weenies.

BY WM. DONAHEY.

THE Teenie Weenies receive a great many letters from boys and girls from all parts of the country asking the little folks to come and visit them. The Teenie Weenies are so busy each week getting ready for the Sunday paper they never have the time to visit their friends, so the Lady of Fashion suggests this plan as the next best thing.

She suggests that the boys and girls cut out the Teenie Weenie pictures on this page, paste them on cardboard, and they will then have a full set of Teenie Weenie dolls.

"It isn't because we don't want to come and visit you," the Lady of Fashion says. "We just can't; our pictures will have to visit you in our place."

"This is the way to make the dolls stand up," says the Old Soldier, who has given the matter much thought. "First you cut out each Teenie Weenie with a pair of shears. Cut along the black line around the figure and then paste it on cardboard and allow it to dry.

"When it is dry you carefully cut away the cardboard along the black line about the figure. When the Teenie Weenie picture has been pasted to the cardboard and cut out, you lay the figure on another piece of cardboard and with a pencil trace around the edge of the lower half of the figure.

"Cut this out along the line which you have traced and bend it a little about a half inch from the top. Now put a little paste on the top part which you have bent and paste it to the back of the figure from which it is traced."

The figure marked "Back of Old Soldier" will show you how the back of each Teenie Weenie doll will look when finished.
