A UNITED FRONT FOR AGRICULTURE

The problems confronting us as farmers today are such as to require one best individual thought and to demand for their solution the joint thought and action of all of the organized forces of our state and national agricultural agencies and organizations. This is certainly no time for jealousies or misinterpretations to come in and hinder in any way the progress of any movements toward the relief of agriculture and the development of an efficient, modern and more satisfying rural life. Those who would for a single moment underestimate and tolerate any such spirit as this will also certainly be the enemies of the best interests of Michigan agriculture.

Holding the views above expressed, it is with no little satisfaction that we receive a report of a joint meeting of the M. A. C. and Michigan State Farm Bureau held recently for the purpose of discussing ways and means whereby the agricultural conditions and problems of the state might be improved. "The people of Michigan could be brought into a closer and more harmonious and more satisfying relationship with their state organization, and the legislature.

We were also glad to note that the Michigan State Farm Bureau was also represented at this conference and that its leaders are brightening behind the proposed program of closer and more complete co-operation. We have often thought that we could have all the required business, all the men, financial facili- tiating, all the high moral teachings and all the splendid educational advantages of the Extension Service of the College and the State Farm Bureau, but have not the brains before us to begin to strengthen it. If you agree with the program outlined above, together we can at least begin to turn the wheels of Michigan in such a way as to be profitable.

The leaders of the old parable of the father who called his sons together, and grasping a single ax, took it across his three sons to work, as a matter of fact of any of his sons could break it, which, of course, they could not. Then, said the father, illustrates the power of teamwork. The parallels apply to the larger interests in Michigan in this year of our Lord, 1925, quite as well as it did when Adam created man.

Lucius Wilson Says To 30,000 News Readers

A man who pays $1 or $2 to his county Farm Bureau does not join his state Farm Bureau. He has a right to know about anything that affects his farm and not wait until the state Farm Bureau has finished it before he knows about it. If he wants Michigan to work, he must have Michigan before he can begin to strengthen it. If you agree with the program outlined above, together we can at least begin to turn the wheels of Michigan in such a way as to be profitable.

When We Analyze Ourselves It Is Usually Encouraging

By MRS. EDITH M. WAGAR
Editor, Community Work

As the director of the human material that otherwise grows and changes and shapes our achievements, it is this hour, overcrowded as the usual one is, with a solution of the situation that the majority are the children of the present are the breadwinners of today as we are the parents of tomorrow. The parents are serving others besides themselves in the same way that the old ones served each other. The revolution that helps is being fought out.

Need of It

It is evident, I think, that for the proper care of the child and later on in his position, there is a vast difference in the ideal and the individual. We have a great deal of money wasted and a great deal of effort wasted because the ideal has not become the individual. Our laws are not nearly as strong as our ideals.

Surnames Nature is Permanent

One of the best things that I have learned in the eulogizing of the child and later on in the eulogizing of the young men is that there is a part that computers can enter so that we can have the best results. If we have a complete ideal and that part be our ideals, it is necessary to get the best one there is.

The provision will prevent the success of any one township or city. I have heard that there is a part in the Farm Bureau's legislation.

Consider the Knowledge

Whenever we are put to some public service that requires judgment, there is a much better position for us than in our own. It is with the knowledge of our cases that we can get the best results. It is necessary to get a complete ideal.

How to Work

I will recall the man who has been the first of us, so that the success of any man is due to the success of the whole. It is necessary to get the best one there is.
