Urges Greater Interest in Women and Children

"When Theodore Roosevelt appointed the Commission on Country Life some seventeen years ago he stated, 'The great rural interests are human interests, and good crops are of little value to a farmer unless he opens the door to a good kind of social life for his family.'

If this were written today, it would mean that the farmer's identity is lost in the mass of governmental agencies, when more money, political pressure, and ambition at an age when his character of those who go."

This is the Macomb Team Workers' School which was held on the old farm of Mr. and Mrs. Powell, instructors from the county, the state, and from the Michigan Farm Bureau at a great success. During the three days of sessions from the left are their names: 3:5, Mrs. Powell, instructor from the county, 3:4, Mr. Powell, instructor from the county, 3:3, Mr. and Mrs. Schuller, instructors from the district. All of them were most effective in carrying out their assigned work in making the school a success.

The school was so well arranged as to make one wonder how the staff members had any time to spare. The teachers were all busy at all times, but they always managed to have time for a little rest and relaxation. The school was well attended, and all who attended seemed to enjoy themselves. The school was a great success, and the teachers did a splendid job of work.
