ELECT SAM THOMPSON PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN FARM BUREAU

COOLIDGE PLEDGES CO-OPS AID; He is Opposed to Price Fixing

FIVE THOUSAND FARM BUREAU FOLKS PACK A. F. B. F. CONVENTION HALL TO OVERFLOWING TO HEAR PRESIDENT

Chief Executive Believes Co-operative Marketing And Use of Farm Loan Credits for Orderly Distribution is Best Way to Handle Farm Surplus Problem

President Calvin Coolidge made four important statements of administration policy toward agriculture in the address he delivered at the 7th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation at Chicago, December 7. He pledged his aid to farmers' co-operative marketing enterprises; he said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing; he believed that the farmers should not be permitted to fix prices but would like the government to help farmers solve their marketing problems and should be developed further.

Five thousand Farm Bureau members were in the new ball room of the Sherman Hotel to hear the address. Thousands of other Farm Bureau members throughout the country heard the address by broadcast from radio stations. In the convention, almost every state had its own statement of administration policy toward agricultural policy, others were disappointed in that the President's a statement of Administration towards agricultural surplus failed to agree with their view on the subject.

The session was a walk in the park by all the members who were present. When President Coolidge reached the heart of his subject, there was a storm of applause from the Farm Bureau people. He said the farmers would not have a chance to get their crops on the market and that the government should not be permitted to fix prices. He said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing.

The President then said that the farmers should not be permitted to fix prices but would like the government to help farmers solve their marketing problems and should be developed further. Five thousand Farm Bureau members were in the new ball room of the Sherman Hotel to hear the address. Thousands of other Farm Bureau members throughout the country heard the address by broadcast from radio stations. In the convention, almost every state had its own statement of administration policy toward agricultural policy, others were disappointed in that the President's a statement of Administration towards agricultural surplus failed to agree with their view on the subject.

President Coolidge's address was the keynote of the meeting. He said that the farmers would not have a chance to get their crops on the market and that the government should not be permitted to fix prices. He said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing.

The President then said that the farmers should not be permitted to fix prices but would like the government to help farmers solve their marketing problems and should be developed further. Five thousand Farm Bureau members were in the new ball room of the Sherman Hotel to hear the address. Thousands of other Farm Bureau members throughout the country heard the address by broadcast from radio stations. In the convention, almost every state had its own statement of administration policy toward agricultural policy, others were disappointed in that the President's a statement of Administration towards agricultural surplus failed to agree with their view on the subject.

"The farmers would not have a chance to get their crops on the market and that the government should not be permitted to fix prices. He said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing."

President Coolidge's address was the keynote of the meeting. He said that the farmers would not have a chance to get their crops on the market and that the government should not be permitted to fix prices. He said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing.

The President then said that the farmers should not be permitted to fix prices but would like the government to help farmers solve their marketing problems and should be developed further. Five thousand Farm Bureau members were in the new ball room of the Sherman Hotel to hear the address. Thousands of other Farm Bureau members throughout the country heard the address by broadcast from radio stations. In the convention, almost every state had its own statement of administration policy toward agricultural policy, others were disappointed in that the President's a statement of Administration towards agricultural surplus failed to agree with their view on the subject.

President Coolidge's address was the keynote of the meeting. He said that the farmers would not have a chance to get their crops on the market and that the government should not be permitted to fix prices. He said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing.

"The farmers would not have a chance to get their crops on the market and that the government should not be permitted to fix prices. He said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing."

President Coolidge's address was the keynote of the meeting. He said that the farmers would not have a chance to get their crops on the market and that the government should not be permitted to fix prices. He said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing.

The President then said that the farmers should not be permitted to fix prices but would like the government to help farmers solve their marketing problems and should be developed further. Five thousand Farm Bureau members were in the new ball room of the Sherman Hotel to hear the address. Thousands of other Farm Bureau members throughout the country heard the address by broadcast from radio stations. In the convention, almost every state had its own statement of administration policy toward agricultural policy, others were disappointed in that the President's a statement of Administration towards agricultural surplus failed to agree with their view on the subject.

President Coolidge's address was the keynote of the meeting. He said that the farmers would not have a chance to get their crops on the market and that the government should not be permitted to fix prices. He said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing.

The President then said that the farmers should not be permitted to fix prices but would like the government to help farmers solve their marketing problems and should be developed further. Five thousand Farm Bureau members were in the new ball room of the Sherman Hotel to hear the address. Thousands of other Farm Bureau members throughout the country heard the address by broadcast from radio stations. In the convention, almost every state had its own statement of administration policy toward agricultural policy, others were disappointed in that the President's a statement of Administration towards agricultural surplus failed to agree with their view on the subject.

President Coolidge's address was the keynote of the meeting. He said that the farmers would not have a chance to get their crops on the market and that the government should not be permitted to fix prices. He said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing.

The President then said that the farmers should not be permitted to fix prices but would like the government to help farmers solve their marketing problems and should be developed further. Five thousand Farm Bureau members were in the new ball room of the Sherman Hotel to hear the address. Thousands of other Farm Bureau members throughout the country heard the address by broadcast from radio stations. In the convention, almost every state had its own statement of administration policy toward agricultural policy, others were disappointed in that the President's a statement of Administration towards agricultural surplus failed to agree with their view on the subject.

President Coolidge's address was the keynote of the meeting. He said that the farmers would not have a chance to get their crops on the market and that the government should not be permitted to fix prices. He said that he would approve any plan that is economically sound for disposing of agricultural surpluses at satisfactory prices, but is rigidly opposed to turning the government into business, directly or indirectly, which he said amounts to price fixing.
Side Lights On Visit Made By President

Accepting the invitation of the President and consent of the Congress, Mr. Coolidge arrived in Washington last week, accompanied by the Secretary of Agriculture, for a two day's visit. During this visit, the President and the Secretary of Agriculture conferred with the Senate and House Committees on the Farm Bureau, the Executive Committee of the Farm Bureau Federation, and the Board of Directors of the Farm Bureau. The President and the Secretary of Agriculture also made a special visit to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Department of Agriculture.

On Wednesday last, the President and Secretary of Agriculture addressed the public in the Senate Chamber, to announce the results of their visit to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Department of Agriculture. The President said: "We have been greatly impressed with the work of the Bureau, and we are confident that the results of this visit will be of great benefit to the farmers of the country." The Secretary of Agriculture said: "The work of the Bureau is of the utmost importance to the welfare of the farmers, and we are determined to do everything in our power to assist them in their work." The President also announced that the Department of Agriculture was going to make a special effort to improve the conditions of the farmers, and to assist them in their work. The Secretary of Agriculture said: "We are determined to do everything in our power to improve the conditions of the farmers, and to assist them in their work." The President also announced that the Department of Agriculture was going to make a special effort to improve the conditions of the farmers, and to assist them in their work.
Michigan Men Block O. K. For Lakes to Gulf Water Grab

BLAST RESOLUTION TO DIVERT MORE FROM L. MICHIGAN

Mississippi Association Wants Water For Promised Barge Canal

SEeks A. F. F. BACKING
Lake Levels Too Low Now, Farm Bureau Protests For Michigan

There is an organization of some 50,000 farmers in the Mississippi Valley, including one of the state's most prominent and influential legislatures, which has been fighting the project that would divert more water from the Lakes through the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico, under the guise of an irrigation scheme. The Mississippi Association of Farmer-Bureau Presidents, Inc., called the Iowa-Peninsula Senate, is seeking the support of the American Farm Bureau Federation in its fight against the project.

MICHIGAN TAKES ACTIVE PART IN THE RESOLUTIONS

Becks Blow at Impaired Situation, Proclaiming Measuring BLocks Water GRAB

COOLIDGE'S FEAST ON STANDARDIZED CO-OP PRODUCTS

Bureau That Cooper-Marketing Benefits Consumer as Well as Producer

Probably the most interesting and practical demonstration of the value of standardized, trade-marked farm and cooperatives the Government has ever sanctioned was the Bureau that Cooper-Marketing demonstration of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which was held at Chicago, December 18, 1823. The Bureau is an experiment in the field of cooperative endeavor, and it is the first time that this type of cooperative has been established in the United States.

New President Came From the Rank

K. C. Hagan is the new president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which was elected during the recent national convention at New York. Mr. Hagan was a farmer and an active member of the Farm Bureau Federation for many years. He has been associated with the American Farm Bureau Federation in various capacities for many years, and has been active in the work of the organization.

Bradfute Tells Bureau Where It Stands Today

Bradfute, the new president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, has told the Bureau where it stands today. He said that the Bureau is now in a strong position, and that it is ready to meet the challenges that lie ahead.

Oi, Yoi! 3 Million Pounds of French Clover at One Crack!

Would Sell 370, 091 Acres to Barge Canal in New York City, Now and More Than the Tax on the farmer's he is his wife, and children. His work, which is the production of the wheat and other grains, is done under the guidance of the Bureau's Washington office.

Horette, a member of the American Farm Bureau Federation, has stated that the Bureau is now in a strong position, and that it is ready to meet the challenges that lie ahead. He said that the Bureau is now in a strong position, and that it is ready to meet the challenges that lie ahead.

Transportation Problem to Be Solved

Some of the resolutions are on transportation problems, including the problem of getting the crops to market. The American Farm Bureau Federation has already taken steps to solve this problem, and it is hoped that the Bureau will continue to work actively in this direction.

200 AT MEETING OF SHELBY CO-OP

The FARM BUREAU NEWS has announced the attendance of 200 members at the Shelby Co-op meeting, which was held recently. The Davenport Seed Co., of Davenport, Iowa, is the largest seed company in the United States, and it is expected that the Shelby Co-op will be able to obtain the same high quality of seed from the Davenport Seed Co.

Bed Blankets

Bed blankets. These beautiful, soft and fluffy bed blankets are a great gift. They are made of the finest materials, and are very durable. They are available in a variety of colors and designs, and are sure to please anyone who receives them.

For Christmas!

We wish you a happy Christmas, and hope that your season will be blessed with health and happiness. We wish you all the blessings of the season, and hope that your year will be a happy one.

VAST MACHINERY TURNS WHEN THE PRESIDENT COMES

His Safety and Comfort Assured in Every Detail

CHICAGO TRIP PICTURED

Every Step From Station to Hotel and Return Planned

Vast and complicated machinery has been set in motion to protect the safety of His Excellency and his personal family. The shortest distance, the most convenient route, the most comfortable place to sit, the nicest clothing, the best food, the best accommodations — every consideration has been taken into account in the intricate web of arrangements which has been put together to protect the President and to make his trip a success.

The President will ride in an automobile driven by the chauffeur, who will be seated in the back seat. The car will be equipped with every comfort and luxury that can be thought of, and the chauffeur will be trained to handle the car in the most skillful manner.

FIELD TRIP

On the way to the President's Hotel, the President and his family will be driven by a motorcade of cars, each driven by a different chauffeur. This will give the President an opportunity to see the city and get a chance to enjoy the sights and sounds of the city.

ARRIVAL

The President will arrive at his hotel by train, and will be met by the President's bodyguard, who will take him to his room. His luggage will be brought up to the room, and the President will be able to relax and enjoy the hotel's amenities.

MID-DAY MEETING

The President will have a mid-day meeting with the Chicago police, and will discuss the security arrangements for the remainder of his stay in the city.

DINNER

The President will have dinner at a nearby restaurant, and will be accompanied by his bodyguard. The President will be able to relax and enjoy the meal, and will be able to take in the sights and sounds of the city.

RETIREMENT

The President will retire to his room at the hotel, where he will have a chance to rest and relax. The President's bodyguard will be on duty, and will ensure that the President is safe and secure.

The President will have a successful trip, and will enjoy every moment of his stay in the city. The arrangements have been made with the utmost care and attention to detail, and the President will be able to relax and enjoy his trip to the fullest.