How Can We Lessen the Work Falling on Mother?

Nothing Beats Consideration For Lightning Home Tasks

BY MRS. ETHEL M. WAGNER

Do you have a mother, or are you going to have one some day? Then let me tell you about a few ways you can help her. The first thing is get her to see that you can do some of the work for her. Some mothers just won't allow their sons or daughters to do any work. They say they are too young, or haven't learned how to do it yet.

The second thing is that she should use all the help the boys and girls can give. She should make a list of the jobs that need doing and see that they are done. She should ask them to do their work in a particular way and then let them do it. She should not do everything herself.

Then she should make sure that the boys and girls are doing the work properly and that it is being done on time. She should not do everything herself.

Tax Reform Bills are Sidetracked

Ignoring the crying need for tax reform to lessen the burden on real estate by placing a portion of the tax on property through abolishing the tax on personal property and raising a variable state and federal tax on the sale of real estate and investments and referred these measures to the Senate Committee on Finance. California's liberal tax reform bill is said to be on the way.

In its final form the Martin bill would have placed an additional tax on personal property, while the Michigan bill would have required the state to raise a tax on real estate and investments.

The Senate Committee on Taxation has recommended the passage of both bills.

The Senate then adopted the Martin bill by a vote of 20 to 14, with the nays—Baxter, Horton, Howland, Lathrop and Whitney—5. In the manner of the sidetrack bill to tax farm bonds, the enemies of tax reforms found the bills passed in the same general form that would have been passed on a so-called foreign bonds and securities.

Legislative Platform Built Up By Members Is Promoted By Program Of Publicity Which Keeps Farmers Informed So That They May Act Properly

By CHARLES R. POMEI
Auditor Secretary, Michigan State Farm Bureau

Farmers are realizing as never before that they must concern themselves with legislative problems. They are not only studying the actual laws and statutes directly affecting them, but in every community they are expressing their opinions forcefully in the halls of legislation. The Farm Bureau has come to realize as never before the importance of equal representation in legislation, and in both natural and proper. The permanency and a democracy of a legislative form of government is assured only when the majority of each important class of citizens takes an intelligent interest in public affairs and where the matured and deliberate judgment of these individuals and groups is clearly and convincingly expressed to the lawmakers.

Michigan farmers are realizing more deeply with each passing year that the legislative policies of

HOW TO PREPARE EGGS FOR MARKET TO TOP RETURNS
Important to Grade Carefully And Accurately Says Steiger
By W. G. STEIGER
Farm and Market Fresh Eggs. Producers and shippers of eggs agree that the key to success in advertising eggs is to give them the proper grade and to advertise them honestly. The United States Department of Agriculture has set standards for egg grades which are generally adopted by the egg industry.

1. Freshness. Eggs are considered fresh for 10-14 days after laying. They may be held in cold storage for longer periods.
2. Size of the Egg. The size of the egg is determined by the availability of the size case in which it is sold.
3. Quality of the Egg. The quality of the egg is determined by the condition of the shell, the yolk, and the white.

What Wallace's Farmer Says About Seed

Last year about one acre in every six of clover was planted with worthless European seed. With this situation in mind, a similar one, about one-fifth of our alfalfa seed coming from Argentina and southern Europe, and therefore being worthless under corn belt conditions.

The clover and alfalfa seed problem is not a chiefly a matter of getting seed free from weeds. In fact, much of this worthless European seed is actually a weed to our soils, and is dangerous to public health. At present the United States and to this Commission that Michigan refused to grant any reduction in the amount of federal pollution controls.

Foreign grown clover is never sold as such, but millions of pounds are imported annually to be mixed with native grown seed and sold to farmers in our northern states. This seed is unsalted to our climate. It is doomed to winterkill and is therefore useless to the man who sows it. Domestic, southern grown seed is equally unsalted and dangerous.
