Have Farmers' Right to Keep Hunters Off Posted Land?

ATTORNEY GENERAL PREPARES OPINION FOR FARM BUREAU

No. 24

If a farmer has a right to keep hunters off his land, the Michigan Farm Bureau is prepared to issue the opinion. The Farm Bureau promptly responded to farmers who have had difficulties with hunters, and has secured the desired opinion from Attorney General C. C. Davis.

Thus the three chief functions of the Farm Bureau have been agreed upon: the first, and perhaps the most important, is the protection of the farmer's property, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation's official opinion. The opinion will be right on hand next year.

The Farm Bureau member writing to the newspaper requested the Michigan General of the State of Michigan that the Farm Bureau to obtain an opinion. The Farm Bureau promptly responded to farmers who have had difficulties with hunters, and has secured the desired opinion from Attorney General C. C. Davis.

The opinion will be right on hand next year.

dfl outstanding, Michigan farmers have the right to keep their land free from trespass by hunting. In this matter the three chief functions of the Farm Bureau have been agreed upon: the first, and perhaps the most important, is the protection of the farmer's property, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation's official opinion. The opinion will be right on hand next year.

The Farm Bureau member writing to the newspaper requested the Michigan General of the State of Michigan that the Farm Bureau to obtain an opinion. The Farm Bureau promptly responded to farmers who have had difficulties with hunters, and has secured the desired opinion from Attorney General C. C. Davis.

The opinion will be right on hand next year.
Recently, at a meeting in Chicago, an old farmer expressed his opinion that every farm should be operated in such a way that it is a self-sufficient unit, capable of supporting itself without relying on outside sources for food, fuel, and other necessities. He believed that this approach was essential for economic stability and independence, especially in times of crisis.

The idea of self-sufficiency has been gaining popularity in recent years, as people become more aware of the environmental impacts of industrial agriculture and the vulnerabilities of global supply chains. Many farmers and consumers are seeking ways to reduce their carbon footprints and become more resilient in the face of unexpected events.

In this context, the old farmer's suggestion that every farm should be capable of supporting itself is not only practical but also environmentally sound. It encourages the use of local resources, reduces the need for long-distance transportation, and promotes a more sustainable way of living.

However, achieving self-sufficiency is not an easy task. It requires a lot of planning, effort, and resources. Farmers need to assess their land and resources, identify their needs, and develop strategies to meet them. They also need to engage in continuous learning and experimentation to improve their methods and increase their efficiency.

In conclusion, the old farmer's idea of self-sufficiency is a valuable one. It challenges us to think beyond the traditional confines of agriculture and to consider new ways of living that are both sustainable and resilient. As we face the challenges of the future, we should consider adopting practices that promote self-sufficiency and help us build a more resilient and sustainable society.
The farmer has no desire to create monopolies or restrain trade or present exhorbitant prices, but he does twice as much for their services as they give him whatever they see fit and then the result is simply a record of failures. The farmer is not one of those who can support the government and follow his neighbors in a common delusion. The farmer is a bit harder on their frontier than the rest of the world. The farmer is a bit harder on his neighbors than the man next door. The farmer is a bit harder on himself than the rest of the world.

Michigan Voting Delegates

FARM BUREL ACTS ON MATTERS TO COME BEFORE CONGRESS

State Board of Directors Relies on A. B. F. Quesenberry to Complete Work

ASK 46 STATE BUREAUS

Seek Votes on Money Savings, Seed Staining, Market News

The Michigan Farm Bureau board of directors was addressed at its annual meeting last month by the state board of directors of the American Farm Bureau Federation. The board of directors is composed of three delegates representing the Midwestern region. It also represents the Michigan Farm Bureau, President and Secretary, A. B. F. Quesenberry, President and Vice-President, Harry E. McPherson, President and Secretary, George A. McPherson, President and Secretary.

The Michigan Farm Bureau board of directors is the executive board of the American Farm Bureau Federation and is responsible for the general supervision of the federation's activities and for the conduct of its affairs. The board of directors is composed of three delegates representing the Midwestern region. It also represents the Michigan Farm Bureau, President and Secretary, A. B. F. Quesenberry, President and Vice-President, Harry E. McPherson, President and Secretary, George A. McPherson, President and Secretary.

The Michigan Farm Bureau board of directors is the executive board of the American Farm Bureau Federation and is responsible for the general supervision of the federation's activities and for the conduct of its affairs. The board of directors is composed of three delegates representing the Midwestern region. It also represents the Michigan Farm Bureau, President and Secretary, A. B. F. Quesenberry, President and Vice-President, Harry E. McPherson, President and Secretary, George A. McPherson, President and Secretary.

The Michigan Farm Bureau board of directors is the executive board of the American Farm Bureau Federation and is responsible for the general supervision of the federation's activities and for the conduct of its affairs. The board of directors is composed of three delegates representing the Midwestern region. It also represents the Michigan Farm Bureau, President and Secretary, A. B. F. Quesenberry, President and Vice-President, Harry E. McPherson, President and Secretary, George A. McPherson, President and Secretary.

The Michigan Farm Bureau board of directors is the executive board of the American Farm Bureau Federation and is responsible for the general supervision of the federation's activities and for the conduct of its affairs. The board of directors is composed of three delegates representing the Midwestern region. It also represents the Michigan Farm Bureau, President and Secretary, A. B. F. Quesenberry, President and Vice-President, Harry E. McPherson, President and Secretary, George A. McPherson, President and Secretary.
MANISTEE BUREAU HAS ENTHUSIASTIC ANNUAL MEETING

State Directors to Attend American Farm Bureau Convention

Dear Mr. Dougherty:

I am gratified to learn that the Michigan Farm Bureau has appointed you as Vice-President of the American Farm Bureau Federation to attend the Annual Convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation. I appreciate the opportunity to express the appreciation of the Farm Bureau Federation for your service.

Yours very truly,

Sincerely,

Assistant Secretary.

FARMERS WHO MAKE ANSWER TO INCENTIVE MARKETING

Lamb Beds Are Keen Demand

February 14 in the first week of March. It is not too early to begin in the selection of breeding stock and the vaccination of the young stock. The most effective method of marketing the lambs is to sell them at the early spring market by the auctioneer. The lambs should be sold early in the spring, as the demand for them is greatest during that time of the year.

May Feed Fewer Sheep And Lamb This Winter

The weather this winter will be mild and there will be a good supply of spring grass. The farmers are advised to feed their sheep and lambs this winter and to keep them in good condition.

Black Walnut Trees Are In Demand

The black walnut is a valuable tree, and the farmers are advised to plant them in their fields. The farmers are also advised to plant them in the orchard, as they are valuable for the production of walnuts.

Can Hunters Be Kept Off Post Farmed Land?

The law of the land has been violated in many parts of the state, and the farmers are advised to report any violations to the proper authorities.

They Have Made Good

At the State Department of Agriculture, the officers and employees are doing an efficient job. The Department is doing an efficient job in the control of the livestock industry, and the farmers are advised to cooperate with the Department in this work.

JAMES E. BAKER, Michigan Farm Bureau News, Lansing, Michigan.

POULTRY BUYING CROOKS AT WORK

Waterfowl were about high bids from unknown persons.

Detroit Poultry Market

A turkey from the Michigan Farm Bureau News, Detroit, Michigan, November 10, 1925.

Detroit was a good market. Thanksgiving and Christmas sales brought good prices. Farms were sold by the farmers, and the poultry were sold by the dealers.

...(Continued)