8 States Say Yes
To These Things

To build a permanent and effective Farm Bureau membership, eight Midwest Farm Bureau State meetings at Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 16 to 20, agreed that our Farm Bureau program must recognize these things, and pledged themselves to do so:

1. That a permanent membership program is meaningful if the Farm Bureau in its position as an organization representing all classes, should afford a voice; the Farm Bureau—County, State, and National—must hold to its program, program, and maintain interest in the Farm Bureau.

2. That a membership policy must be set up for the purpose of maintaining the Farm Bureau organization.

3. That a permanent membership program is meaningful if the Farm Bureau in its position as an organization representing all classes, should afford a voice; the Farm Bureau—County, State, and National—must hold to its program, program, and maintain interest in the Farm Bureau.

4. That to have a healthy and permanent farm organization, farm leaders must have the courage to teach the membership that such American farmer owns in his operation and his community a distinct position of status, time, and effort.

5. That the future of an operating and cooperative organization is in the hands of the leadership, production by the farmers, that such agricultural leaders are only factors in the picture, and that the best government is that which most respects and appreciates the importance of the organization; and in understanding of these fundamental matters, where-of the organization only of immediate and direct political success.

6. That publicity, properly adapted and directed, is indispensable to the success of any movement; and a public effort must be made to create and maintain interest in the Farm Bureau.

7. That all Farm Bureaus should adopt an adequate program of farm organization.

8. That financial support from contribution on each of the organizations, congress and the state organization, should be provided for the purpose of maintaining the Farm Bureau organization.

That Adapts Its Position

That an adequate membership program is meaningful if the Farm Bureau in its position as an organization representing all classes, should afford a voice; the Farm Bureau—County, State, and National—must hold to its program, program, and maintain interest in the Farm Bureau.
