Picking Proper Leaders Is Essential To Life of Co-ops

DEVELOPMENT OF CO-OPERATIVE MOVE IN AGRICULTURE IS OUTLINED IN TALK BY EXECUTIVE OF STATE FARM BUREAU

"Out of the struggles and experiences of the past decade is slowly evolving a sound co-operative philosophy and practice. The co-operation between the commodity marketing exchanges and the Michigan State Farm Bureau in the development of co-operative merchandising is only one of many ways in which the farmers' organizations in our state are co-operating to avoid duplication of effort and are supporting each other's activities for the highest good of the Michigan farmers."

RULING FARMERS MAY 'GO CANNING' ON OWN LAND

A farmer may have crops in his fields, but he is a "ruling farmer", according to a ruling in the Michigan Supreme Court, who has given the bank the right to sell the crops after 90 days in the event the farmer has not paid his debts. The question was also involved in the administration of a will.

GOOD DAIRY BULLS ARE FACING HUSBANDS

A cow's interest, says Mr. J. C. Gunning, Judge of Wayne County, is a great interest, and it is a great problem to face the husband of a cow. The Judge has observed that many farmers are not able to solve this problem, and that the best way to do it is to get a high-class dairy bull for the cow.

You could pay per day is the center of the latest controversy in the farm problem. In the years that have passed, the power of the farmer to get his full share of the national prosperity has been growing. It is one of the greatest achievements of the farmer’s movement to have brought about this condition. The farmer has begun to realize the importance of his position in the national life and is demanding recognition of it. The farmer’s work is being done more effectively than ever before.

The Christian farm is the backbone of the nation. The Christian farmer is the leader of the profession. The Christian farmer is the example of the American standard of living paid out in American labor. The farmer who practices the pool is the life of the profession in the community. The farmer who practices the pool is the best domain on earth, are much more so than even he himself realizes.

The farmer who practices the pool has the power to protect his own interests as if the farmer’s pool were a city in itself. The farmer’s pool is the expression of Christian motive as the farmer’s pool is the expression of the American standard of living paid out in American labor. The Chinese Have Peculiar Methods of Hatching Eggs and Hold to Primitive Ways

Every Chinese farmer keeps many hens. A family raising more than 10 is common. The hens live in nests of reeds, but are never locked in when on the ground. One day in every year the whole family must remain up all night either in the yard or in the kitchen. When the rooster crows the farmer wakes up and goes out to the hens. Then he carefully counts them and selects the best. When he has finished his work of selection he lets the hens out to eat. The farmer and his family then go to bed. The young person in the family who is able to do so is left to guard the hens. When the farmer goes to bed he goes to the top of the roof. Here he stirs the hens and lets the eggs fall in his lap. Then he takes them one by one and rubs them in his hand. After this he returns the eggs to the nest. The young person who is guarding the hens must do this also. If any hen is missing its eggs are not replaced. If any hen is seen with its eggs it is supposed to be a black hen and is killed. If any other hen is found with its eggs it is supposed to be a white hen and is also killed. The young person guarding the hens must be very careful to see that no one disturbs the eggs. The farmer must be very careful to see that no one disturbs the eggs. The farmer must be very careful to see that no one disturbs the eggs.
