Increased tariffs on about a dozen farm commodities are being organized in the United States, and the American Farm Bureau Federation is breaking ground on a new campaign to support this plan.

With interests of agricultural commodities continuing to stabilize, the time is ripe for this organization to put the emphasis on tariff matters, according to M. C. Dively, general manager of the Farm Bureau.

The greatest agricultural countries of the world are the same countries that have the highest tariffs.

HITS "HARDENED OIL"

Find Coconut Oil Colored. As Imported Might Be Butter Substitute

A notification has been issued against the entry and importation of "hardened oil" of coconut, it was announced yesterday, and such oil will be dutied at an eight-cent-per-pound duty, instead of the one-cent duty now provided for palm oil. The notification is in response to a petition from the Association of Butter Producers against the importation of such oil into the United States, as they believe it will be used as a substitute for butter.

The notification states that the oil is not to be allowed in the United States, and that such oil is taxed at the rate of eight cents per pound, instead of the one-cent duty now provided for palm oil. The notification is in response to a petition from the Association of Butter Producers against the importation of such oil into the United States, as they believe it will be used as a substitute for butter.

Farm Bureau Members Among First To Appeal For Suspension

Immediately following a controversial meeting of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau and other agricultural organizations in Chicago, leaders of the Illinois Farm Bureau issued a statement refusing to sign a letter to the Interstate Commerce Commission opposed the suspension of rates on shipments in the east.

The statement was issued in the face of charges that the Bureau had been asked to take part in a campaign to oppose the rate suspension, which would have called for a 25 per cent reduction in rates.

Shippers have been in conference to discuss the possibility of suspending rates on shipments from the east for a period of 90 days.

Umbrellas First Used As Protection In Sun
When James Hewer, an Englishman, came to America in 1695, he brought with him the first umbrella. People were amused at the sight of this strange new contrivance, but by the time Hewer returned to England, the umbrella was already in use in the colonies. Hewer had used his umbrella to protect himself from the rain, but it was soon noticed that it could also be used to provide shade from the sun. The umbrella became a symbol of protection and comfort, and it has remained so ever since.
