Secretary Manager Sound Optimistic Note for 1929

Report of Past Year Proves State Organization Is Moving Steadily

Edgar B. Hoeppner

In spite of the fact that the past year has been one of the most prosperous in the history of the State Farm Bureau, there has been another year of activity. The total number of members increased by 6,377, or 14.12 per cent, from 44,296 on January 1, 1927, to 50,673 on January 1, 1928. The total amount of insurance policies written during the year amounted to nearly $600,000.

In addition to the district report offices of the Farm Bureau in each of the counties, many other new members were received through the efforts of the district presidents and new members interested in organization work. The membership of the county organizations has increased in every county, and in many cases the gains have been very large.

The new arrangements made by the State Farm Bureau have been greatly appreciated by the members. The district presidents have been fully doubled, and the new arrangements are being enforced on the members with great success. The district presidents have been very active in organizing new members, and in many cases the gains have been very large.

In conclusion, the past year has been one of the most prosperous in the history of the State Farm Bureau, and the gains in membership and insurance policies have been very large. The new arrangements made by the State Farm Bureau have been greatly appreciated by the members, and the district presidents have been fully doubled.

Traffic Service

Important accomplishments along the line of traffic service for individual clients has been noted. In the past year, the Farm Bureau Traffic Service has handled over 6,000 individual cases, resulting in appreciable savings to the clients. The service has been maintained, can be substituted for the usual service of the client, and a number of clients have been maintained who would otherwise obtain the services of other organizations.

The legislative program for the year has been very active. The Farm Bureau has produced an annual average of 2,000 bills and resolutions, which have been considered by the legislature. The bills and resolutions have been signed into law, and have been maintained, can be substituted for the usual service of the client, and a number of clients have been maintained who would otherwise obtain the services of other organizations.

ANNUAL CONVENTION

The annual convention was held in the city of Pontiac, Michigan, on January 9, 10, and 11. The convention was attended by over 1,000 delegates from all parts of the state. The convention was held in the city of Pontiac, Michigan, on January 9, 10, and 11. The convention was attended by over 1,000 delegates from all parts of the state.

Due to the fact that we are spending a considerable amount of money, the work of the convention has been very successful. The convention was held in the city of Pontiac, Michigan, on January 9, 10, and 11. The convention was attended by over 1,000 delegates from all parts of the state.

While 1928 has not been a prolific year in the organization of membership campaigns, there has been a steady increase in the number of Clinton leaders in Clinton County. This has been occasioned by the fact that the Farm Bureau has maintained a membership committee in each district, and has been successful in organizing new members.
