Wilson Believes Panic Force Currency Reform

Wilson, the new President of the United States, is calling the nation to make more out of the billion dollars of gold and silver. Under the gold standard, the United States would have to buy and sell its foreign gold at the price of gold, but the United States would not be restricted by that standard.

The gold standard has been the basis of the United States for over a century, and is a system of exchange among nations. The gold standard is based on the idea that gold is money and that it is used as a means of international exchange. The United States, under the gold standard, would have to buy and sell its foreign gold at the price of gold, but the United States would not be restricted by that standard. The gold standard is based on the idea that gold is money and that it is used as a means of international exchange.

The gold standard was established in 1878, when the United States was a major economic power. It was adopted to stabilize the value of the dollar and to promote trade and investment. The gold standard was believed to be a wise and prudent policy, and it was a great success. It was widely accepted as the basis of the world’s monetary system.
