Will These Things Happen?

TWA, early warning agency of the skies, received on the wire, today, some predictions on the general legislative program in Congress next year.

TWA predicts that agricultural legislation in the nature of a depression relief measure will be certain because of its importance as a cure for existing depression. The relief measure will be a part of the general legislation that Congress will have to give serious attention to in the next session. This is in line with the belief of the majority of economists and statesmen that agriculture cannot guarantee a cure for its ills, if the farms are not given added value.

TWA predicts that the State Legislatures and the Federal Congress will make it a point to legislate against the building up of the farmer's capital. The farmers will be encouraged to pool their resources for the purpose of buying farm equipment and other necessities of life. Federal government aid will not be forthcoming, but it will be done by the States.

The TWA estimate is that Congress will stop the building up of the farmers' capital, and that the farmers will be encouraged to pool their resources for the purpose of buying farm equipment and other necessities of life. Federal government aid will not be forthcoming, but it will be done by the States.

How Some Claims for Cancellation

Recent claims for cancellation of the 1935-36 agricultural legislation were made by the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Commerce, and the Secretary of Labor.

The Secretary of Agriculture claimed that the legislation was not strong enough to meet the needs of the farmers. The Secretary of Commerce claimed that the legislation was too strong, and that it would ruin the farmers. The Secretary of Labor claimed that the legislation was not strong enough to meet the needs of the farmers.

It is noted that the letter is aimed against co-operative marketing, which has been the most successful form of marketing for the farmer. It is also noted that the letter is aimed against the Farmers Home Administration, which has been the most successful form of marketing for the farmer.

The government should establish a Federal Farm Board, consisting of a small number of men appointed by the President, to aid in the development of the agricultural situation. In the presidential campaign of 1928 the American Farm Bureau Federation and the Farmers Home Administration were established. The government should establish a Federal Farm Board, consisting of a small number of men appointed by the President, to aid in the development of the agricultural situation.

It is noted that the Federal Reserve Act, for example, was amended four times during the past six years. It has not been amended since 1928. The government should establish a Federal Farm Board, consisting of a small number of men appointed by the President, to aid in the development of the agricultural situation.

Letters From Our Readers

By way of introduction: The Farm Bureau Federation of Wisconsin, with the co-operation of the 300 newspapers in its membership, organized a series of ten articles on the features of the Marketing Act. In the presidential campaign of 1928 the American Farm Bureau Federation and the Farmers Home Administration were established. The government should establish a Federal Farm Board, consisting of a small number of men appointed by the President, to aid in the development of the agricultural situation.

WHAT IS A HOME?

A home may be where the heart is but it should also be where the head is. A home, want be, won't be, won't be, won't be, won't be. A home may be a physical place, a mental or emotional state, or a combination of both. A home may also be a sense of belonging or a feeling of comfort.

CHICAGO TELEPHONE

The TELEPHONE brings security to the farm

A telephone in his home gives the farmer and his family a comfortable sense of security and protection.

For, by means of the telephone, he can summon aid instantly in case of fire, sudden sickness or accident. Just one call in such an emergency may be worth more than the cost of the service for a lifetime.

The telephone is a highly valuable business and social aid to the farmer, as well as...
When Winter Winds Blow in Fury

1. Alfalfa planting time is far off, but Farm Bureau's seed service is busy assembling, testing, and storing Michigan grown alfalfa and clover seeds of the best, highest productive varieties for next spring.
2. Every lot must prove Northern origin. Our seed expert passes a judgment that is final. Processions of seed samples march through our germination tests. The requirement is indeed a test for high quality. Daily our modern seed cleaning plant elevates vast quantities of seed from cleaning mill to cleaning mill, according to the treatment required. Farm Bureau seed is cleaned to super-fine quality.
3. Next spring as usual, you can depend on Farm Bureau seeds for the best stands and the high yields. The secret is our selection of the seed.
