The Michigan Farm Bureau Federation contacted Ingalls Wool Company, a wool cooperative located in Jackson, Michigan, to discuss the possibility of joining forces in a local co-op. The proposal was well-received and the two organizations are currently working on setting up a meeting to discuss further details.

New Year's Resolutions

It's that time of year again, and if you don't need to start your resolutions, you probably should! Otherwise, you may end up being one of those people who makes great resolutions at the beginning of the year, but by the end, you've forgotten all about them.

Elect King Director of National Wool Co-op

Mr. P. B. King of the National Wool Co-op, who was recently appointed as the new director, spoke about his plans for the future of the organization. He emphasized the importance of maintaining a strong relationship with the farmers and ensuring that the co-op remains competitive in the market.

What To Feed Birds

Birds are a common sight around farms and can be a great addition to the natural ecosystem. What you feed them can make a big difference in their behavior and health.

Left to right: Henry King, former Secretary of Agriculture; Orville Atwood, president of the greatest of the state Farm Bureau Federations; and John O. Swain, who served as governor of Wisconsin and was recently elected to the National Farm Bureau Federation. The organization was founded in 1922 and has since grown to become one of the largest organizations representing farmers in the United States.

For exceptionally severe infestations of insect larvae are used. General Chemical Company's Orchard Brand Specialties service for war. It's all in the hands of those we designate to act for us.

When strength was spent and hopes were cheated in years of suffering, your same calm smile, still glinted through your tears; And after that, the thought I fought through We fought again, and went...because of you.

Back in the old days, when the hill was steeped, they used to throw up what they called a "thank-you-man." 8° of ridge to check the wheel and give the team a chance to blow and get its breath back for the pull ahead. In a way this Seely Golden Jubilee is like that...just a "thank-you-man" in the middle of the hill.

Today his car ran no man's chase. No wave length is barred against him. Bankers ask, anxiously, about his health. Staremen, like weather vanes, what to his slightest wish. And Seely-Roebuck, who fifty years ago sold all the farm, has no reason to regret the decision.

The farmer likes the idea of shopping sitting down...of those little mighty moving-chair journeys through Stardust. He likes to hunt the markets of the world bound into a book and laid in his lap. He likes the money-back guarantee that never argues or ails, and give the team a chance to blow and get its breath back for the pull ahead. PLANT DISEASES FORECAST COMING

Long Range Predictions May Help Farmers With Control Plans

Elnora G. McFarland, New York state college of agricultural and technical sciences, reported on her new method of estimating the expected disease situations a few weeks ago. She explained that her new method is now almost ready for use by county agents, and the first results of its application prove that it will do a great deal to reduce the losses from blight, mildew, and other diseases.

A Talk with Bennett About Seeds
The Ring of Optimists is the Men Who Helped a "Good Crop" from Seed of Unknown Origin

When farmers of former times planted their land, saving seed from what they considered the best lots, had as much to do with the harvest as the choice of the land. In the last generation, the pendulum has swung the other way. The seed company today is the grower's best assistant. The work of the farmer has become more and more specialized. Today, a farmer could not plant even a small acreage without the aid of the seed company. The future of farm crops is placed in the hands of the seed company. It is they who judge the future of the crop. The farmers of today are not so much_subject to the weather as they are subject to the seed company. The future of the farmer is placed in the hands of the seed company. Its work is so important that it is almost impossible to overestimate its importance.

FARM TRENDS

May 27, 1938

John E. Bennett, President

The farm is the most important single economic activity in the world. It supports an overwhelming majority of the world's population. The farm is the backbone of the nation's economy. The farm is the source of the nation's wealth. The farm is the foundation of the nation's security. The farm is the key to the nation's future. The farm is the heart of the nation's life. The farm is the soul of the nation's spirit. The farm is the mind of the nation's soul. The farm is the body of the nation's body. The farm is the spirit of the nation's spirit. The farm is the heart of the nation's heart. The farm is the soul of the nation's soul. The farm is the mind of the nation's mind. The farm is the body of the nation's body. The farm is the spirit of the nation's spirit.
THE PICTURE TELLS THE STORY

THE SECOND SUMMER

The plot at the right was sown to Michigan grown seed, such as the Farm Bureau provides Michigan farmers. Note how thick and luxuriant the stand is! Plenty of cheap legume in a field of alfalfa like that. For this year and the years to come.

The plot at the left was sown to NOT adapted to Michigan seed from the southern States or South America—known origin, but not adapted here). Winter killing ruined that plot. A field sown to such unsadapted seed would suffer a similar fate.

The seed for each of these plots appeared equally good. So did the stand the first summer. How can you tell hardly alfalfa seed from that will pass out the first winter? You can't by looking at it. You must know that you have seed of guaranteed northern origin and winter hardiness.

FARM BUREAU GUARANTEES northern grown, winter hardy alfalfa (and clover) seed of the most productive varieties for Michigan. They are genuine varieties such as Grimm, Hardeigan, Michigan Variegated alfalfa—heavy yielders, free from weeds and crop mixtures. Their purity, quality and germination are top notch. See our guarantee below, as it appears on our seed analysis tag, which describes seed as "Michigan Grown," etc.

It's expensive, and almost needlessly so, when a farmer sees a promising stand of alfalfa (or clover) winter killed, or riddled by summer diseases that unsadapted alfalfa or clover can't resist.

Planting time is far off, but Farm Bureau's seed service is busy assembling, testing, cleaning and storing Michigan grown alfalfa and clover seeds of the best, highly productive varieties for you next spring.

Every lot must be of northern origin. Our seed expert passes a judgment that is final. Projections of seed samples march through our germination tests. Our requirements are indeed a test for high quality. Daily our modern seed cleaning plant elevates vast quantities of seed from cleaning mill to cleaning mill, according to the treatment required. Farm Bureau seed is cleaned to super-fine quality.

The next spring as usual, you can depend on Farm Bureau seeds for the best stands and the high yields. The secret of our selection is the Co-op of FARM BUREAU seed for you.

As a deforestation factor in Michigan the cutting of Christmas trees annually during the preceding seasons is negligible, believes E. C. Mandenberg, in charge of orchard and nursery inspection for Michigan State College.

"As a rough, but I believe fair estimate, I would say that seven trees between 15 and 20 feet tall, 30 Christmas trees are cut in Michigan each winter," Mandenberg said. "If we zakład, this would mean that in 1924 about 70,000 trees were cut within the State, the surplus of several thousand trees being burned or thrown away.

Manufacturers don't think that God's gift of evergreen trees or evergreen trees improved by men is of much importance to people generally believe. As exceptionally valuable raw material, however, there is no doubt that the Christmas tree is much in demand, particularly in large cities. Every year the Christmas tree business increases, and the price of trees which the tree are frequently sold, too high.

"All of the trees annually cut in Michigan could be grown in a good farm garden, and the possibility of growing Christmas trees in the State is well within the reach of all classes of people. We have long been interested in the annual Christmas tree plantations in the State, and have always been interested in the Christmas tree business.

"Thousands of Christmas trees are shipped into Michigan each holiday season from various parts of the country, but the Michigan Christmas tree plantations have an excellent chance of competing successfully with the Christmas tree business in the future."
