The Michigan Elevator Directors' Association, which represented a considerable proportion of elevator operators in Michigan, met in Saginaw to consider the point of view of the operators on the question of rates and minimum guarantees. It has made considerable progress in this direction. The Elevator Directors Association has been formed to hold membership in the Elevator Owners' Institute, a national organization of elevator owners and individuals interested in the elevator business. Its aim is to promote the interests of the elevator business and to promote the welfare of elevator owners. At the opening of the annual meeting of the Michigan Farm Bureau, held in Lansing last week, Jim had the pleasure of being elected to the board of supervisors, and of other farm organizations. It has not made reduction in prices to farmers since its organization. The purchase will reduce electric rates for farmers, as the volume of business done by farmer organizations in the last two years has increased. The Farm Bureau predicted that farm electrification progress will be made during the next year. As far as the idea of a new de-
Farm Bureau Journal, Volume 42, Number 7

dates back to the Michigan Farm Bureau News, founded in 1920, as its successor. It is the official voice of the American Farm Bureau Federation, reflecting the views of its members around the country. The Journal covers a wide range of topics, from agriculture and rural life to economics and political issues. It is a valuable resource for anyone interested in understanding the challenges and successes of rural America.

This specific page contains a variety of articles and advertisements, each addressing different aspects of farm life and rural development. The articles discuss topics such as electricity in the home, the Michigan Plan for rural electrification, and the role of the Farm Bureau in promoting agricultural interests. The advertisements feature products like household appliances and farm machinery, highlighting the technological advancements and innovations that support rural living.

The page also includes a section on classified ads, offering a glimpse into the local market and providing information on various goods and services. The advertisements are a testament to the diverse community and economic activities that sustain rural communities.

Overall, this page provides a snapshot of the concerns, challenges, and opportunities faced by rural Americans, as well as the efforts made to improve their quality of life through agricultural development and innovation.

My Latest Flame

She's a glamour on six-and-twenty another
With a form that's hard to beat!
With a smile and steady gaze,
With a quiet grace that makes the sun melt.

She's a beauty in the town,
And the boys all follow her around.

She's a sight to see,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of girl that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of friend that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of woman that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of lady that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of person that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of character that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of spirit that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of emotion that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of feeling that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of thought that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"

She's the kind of mind that wears,
And she's sure to make you say, "Wow!"
