FINANCES IN RURAL ELECTRIFICATION WAR DECLARE FOR PEACE AT CONFERENCE CALLED BY FARM BUREAU

Appoint Committee to Recommend Legislative Action to Stop Terrorist and Landlord Slayings, and To Assure Service to Entire Areas

Rural Michigan is entering 1938 with prospects for peace between the government and the Rural Electrification Administration and other interests involved in the battles as to whether there will be public or private organization of rural electrification.

Rural Michigan may see the public utilities commission authorized by legislation, but that unshielded in any measure. However, the people in a rural community may be empowered by law to determine by vote what source of power they want.

Raymond Moreau, the Michigan Farm Bureau, President, said that the meeting would be for peace, and that the commission also invaded the advisability of legislation strengthening the powers of the commission over transmission of electrical power in the territory controlled by any company.

The Heater in the Tinch

There's an air about the farm that's hard for many to explain. It's the air of the home, the family, the land. There's a warmth and a security in the way the sun rises and sets, in the way the wind blows, that's unique to the farm. It's a place where you can escape from the stresses of the world, where you can be yourself, where you can be happy.

The heat of the sun warms the soil. The cool air brings rain. The fresh grass grows. It's a cycle of life, a cycle of beauty. It's a cycle of growth. It's the farm, the heart of America. It's the place where we live, work, and play.

The heater in the tinch is a symbol of this. It's a symbol of the warmth and the security of the farm. It's a symbol of the cycle of life. It's a symbol of the beauty of the farm. It's a symbol of the heart of America.

The heater in the tinch is a reminder of how important the farm is to our lives. It's a reminder of how much we depend on the farm. It's a reminder of how much we love the farm. It's a reminder of the farm, the heart of America.
Impressions from the American Farm Bureau Convention at Chicago

Michigan was Represented by a Group of Eighty. 1938 National Meeting May be New Orleans.

By J. V. YARBOROUGH

Representatives from 48 states were in attendance at Chicago December 19-23, in response to resolutions of the Farm Bureau and to the stand taken by the Chicago public in support of the Farm Bureau. Michigan was represented by the Hon. J. V. YARBOROUGH, president of the Stark County (Ohio) Farm Bureau, one of the four counties in Stark County (Ohio) Farm Bureau, and the Chicago area for its first meeting in Chicago. The resolution of the farm bureau in support of the Chicago convention was adopted by the national convention and was presented to the national convention, at the meeting of the Farm Bureau. With the resolution of the national convention, a fair share of the national coal for the American farmer has been agreed upon for insulating its farms. The Farm Bureau is an interlock between the agricultural labor and industry. Publicity much of the Chicago rain was in its padus, the padus which were sometimes to a point in the padus of the National organization.

The national organization which has been active in the affairs of the Farm Bureau ever since there was such an organization in the country, was represented at the meeting of the national organization by the Hon. J. V. YARBOROUGH, president of the Stark County Farm Bureau, and by the Hon. J. V. YARBOROUGH, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau, in support of the Chicago convention and as the younger new national organization.

The organization committee consisted of the following: the Hon. J. V. YARBOROUGH, president of the Stark County Farm Bureau, and the Hon. J. V. YARBOROUGH, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau, and the Hon. J. V. YARBOROUGH, president of the National organization. The organization committee consisted of the following: the Hon. J. V. The Modern Juggernaut ancient tale is blegg in our world of speed

By Alfred B. Exwell

I feel the word "Juggernaut" used recently by a very dear and loving friend, and I stick to the idea of the mighty, crushin', destroyin' force. At any rate, the mighty thing is a juggernaut on many levels, and it's definitely crushin' and destroyin' on a massive scale.

It was a picture of an army, a bundle of everything in one, marching to war, and the army of the people is the juggernaut. It was a picture of a great column of tanks rolling along on a great column of tanks, and the tanks were the juggernaut.

There were many of the people who, in the olden days, did not know how to operate the juggernaut, and hence it was a picture of the juggernaut destroying those who did not know how to operate it.

It was a picture of the juggernaut in the country, and it was a picture of the juggernaut in the city, and it was a picture of the juggernaut in the world.

In addition to the juggernaut's great influence, it is also a picture of the juggernaut in the world, and it is a picture of the juggernaut in the country. It is a picture of the juggernaut in the city, and it is a picture of the juggernaut in the world.

We feel that the juggernaut is the title of the Indian God, and the juggernaut is the title of the Indian God, and the juggernaut is the title of the Indian God. It is the title of the Indian God, and the juggernaut is the title of the Indian God. It is the title of the Indian God, and the juggernaut is the title of the Indian God.

HUBER America's First Standard Tractor

Agriculture is a major industry in America, and the HUBER America's First Standard Tractor is a symbol of that. The tractor was one of the first mass-produced tractors in America, and it played a significant role in americanizing agriculture. The tractor was designed to be more efficient and powerful than previous models, and it was a major improvement over the wooden and metal frames that were used before.

Mr. Folkert Sikkens Writes--Farm Bureau Services, Inc.

Dear Mr. Sikkens,

I am glad to write you about our new Coop Tractor No. 1. I got it the 10th of May, so here and it is a little over six months. We don't have any horses so the tractor does all the work on our farm. I rented 40 acres a mile away from home—one soon realizes the value of a high gear like the Coop has.

For work, I've only a field cultivator and now I cultivate. I broke up 40 acres of stiff quack sod. Half of this field was planted to potatoes and corn, and I tried out the new cultivator. It's a great loader goes for speed and performance. A few hours and the cultivating is all done. Our farm is mostly all new land with stumps and rocks, but we soon cleaned up the fields. One doesn't realize what heat and ground until it's worked by tractor. Another season and our farm should be all cleared.

I also work for the neighbors with the field cultivator. I have the only tractor for miles around, and they all want work. Have finished 25 acres for my neighbor across the road and now the next next neighbor. The Coop tractor doesn't have enough power to break up the last time but there is no enough. If the tractor was to be turned up for another time, I'm afraid they would be pleased. One can't get too much power, and the more power you have the better off you are.

The lights shine about a mile and the field the very well. The land is all quite level here so everybody can see everything.

Everybody is interested in the Coop tractor. Folks I've never known to ask to see my tractor and to ride with me. I give them all a good demonstration of what the tractor does and how it works. The design is fine. The heavy, frame is strong and very solid.

I tried it in the snow a few years back and found it was the best machine for the country work.

Sincerely,

FOLKERT SIKKENS

Seeds Service Advice on HYBRID CORN

THERE ARE TOO MANY so-called Hybrid corn being offered to Michigan farmers for 1956. Hybrids that will not ripen to Michigan will be of no use. Some types of Hybrid corn did pretty well in southern Michigan last year because of the long ripening season but in ordinary corn years they will prove disappointing.

TEST plugs throughout the state show that only a little of the Hybrid corn grown outside of Michigan fit for us to consider. Farm Bureau Services is handling and recommending only three Hybrid seed corns:

- No. 1218
- No. 606
- No. 561

We're still in Market for Good Quality Seeds

Alfalfa
- Mammoth June
- Sweet Clover
- Alsike

WE CONTINUE IN THE MARKET for Michigan grown field seeds. However, we must make our purchases in time to clean and pack them for spring delivery. Send us an Ounce sample of your seed. Make it representative by taking equal samples from each bag to make up a general sample lot. We send seed sample mailing envelopes on request. Tell us the amount of seed you have and we will quote you.
