I am happy to extend an invitation to every farm family in Michigan to become members of the Farm Bureau. The annual Roll Call campaign will be conducted by County Farm Bureaus during the next few weeks.

There never has been a time in the 25 years of the history of the Farm Bureau that so many people are looking for more than the protection and advancement of the men, women, and children on the farm.

Farmers need the Farm Bureau. Our experiences before Congress and before the state legislature prove the value of farm people in being represented on all questions by a strong, active, and well informed organization. The Farm Bureau expresses effectively the views of nearly 600,000 farm families.

The farmer's relationship to private interests can be served and protected best through a strong farm organization which voices the unified viewpoint of thousands of individual farm people.

In these times of greatly disturbed and uncertain conditions, not only is a sound farm organization essential to the protection of the farm family, but only through strongly organized effort can we as farm people do our full duty in producing food and winning the war.

I invite you to join fellow farmers in the Farm Bureau. We are working together on national, state, and farm problems.

American Farmer and the War

Chairman of the Board,
American Farm Bureau Federation

We are writing to you from the midst of a very first day of dread that threatens the endurance of our freedom and democracy.

To preserve our family life, the tradition of our homes, our right to live to the full enjoyment of our faith, our choice, we have sent the finest of our young manhood from the farms and from the cities to the battlefronts of the world.

Powerful and treacherous enemies have directed attacks against us from the East and from the West. The demand upon American resource and American strength has been great, yet in one year the American farmer and the American people have made the valiant effort.

The year has seen our might increase and the tide of victory turning our way, but only with greater hardship and greater sacrifice can American victory be achieved. The final decisive victory that must be the door to be forever closed to ruthlessness and destruction.

The American farmer will strive to produce the food and fiber that the continued war effort will require. He will give his labor and his son to the cause. He asks only an equitable and judicious distribution of the huge and efficient use of our resources and national, the former of special privilege and advantage, and the last of national and ethical advantages.

The American farmer stands ready and will fight and toil with all loyal Americans for the achievement of an amiable peace and a lasting security.

What About Farm Prices Now?

Would you believe that the TOTAL GAIN in wages and salaries exceed MORE than the total of all farm incomes for the year?

Jesus Jones, secretary of commerce, said December 19 that total gains in wages and salaries would exceed 117 billion dollars. Wages and salaries scored the largest gain. They exceeded 60 billion dollars for 1942 as compared to 61 billion last year.

That’s a gain of 19 billion for wages and salaries earner in one year. Total farm income has been estimated at 15 billion dollars for 1942.

The federal government has been holding that farm prices must be held down to levels that are already at a level that may not be exceeded without danger of inflation.

Now, Secretary Jones lets us know that wage and salary earners, while they could have bought twice as much production with their gains for the year and would have had considerable change left.

The relation of farm to national income has been before Congress since the last war. The Farm Bureau has been a leader in the strong effort to bring farm income up and into a parling relationship with the income of other great groups.

Questions suggested to agriculture by the report of Secretary Jones would be taken up by the Farm Bureau with the new Congress and the new price administration at Washington.

Right now the Farm Bureau is telling Congress that farm party prices should include the cost of all farm labor. That would add 3 billion dollars to the nation’s food cost. That would add 19 billion gain in one year by wage and salary earners.

Unity in Agriculture

President, American Farm Bureau Federation

The Farm Bureau is interested in the welfare of all farm people. No restriction as to tenure, size of farm or commodity denies the right of any farmer to become a member of American Farm Bureau. The membership includes all kinds of farmers and all types of agriculture.

The American Farm Bureau Federation believes that the first duty of the farmer, the economic and social problems of agriculture is to attain fair prices and income sufficient to pay all farm indebtedness and maintain good standards of living.

To the extent that farm income makes it possible, we urge that every effort be made by the voluntary co-operation of farmers and their organizations, all working together; to improve the housing conditions and standards of living of owners, tenants, sharecroppers and workers.

We consult the unit with which that The National Groups, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives, the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation and other organizations of farmers worked together as a team in several important legislative battles during this year.

We call upon our leaders, our members, and upon all farmers to impress upon their representatives to be more complete and organization, and union of American agriculture. Any movement that tends to arouse class antagonism in agriculture, to array small farmers against large farmers, tenants against land owners, commodity group against commodity group or section against section is an American, and must be resisted.

Farmers Spoke in November

Senator Alvin of Vermont predicts that two-thirds of the next U.S. Senate which takes office January will see eye to eye with the farmer on matters affecting agriculture. In early December the senator was said to have been on the part of administration and other agencies planning for the farmer a tendency to take cognizance of what happened in the November elections.

"If the general farm price situation isn’t corrected soon by executive agencies," said Senator Alvin, "they know full well that the next Congress is likely to look matters on its own hands and make some far-reaching changes.

HEAVY DEMAND MAKES PROTEIN FEEDS SCARCE

Everyone in the Business of Feeding Men Make Changes

By HENRY H. DONALD

Farmers report good yields. Can you go 20 years before cheating on your bills of feeding men? If you can’t speak these ingredients properly, your clients will be left behind in the dust.

If you can’t speak these ingredients properly, you cannot be the best for your clients. They need the best for their businesses.

The demand for protein feeds has been tremendous in recent years. The problem is not with the availability of these feeds, but rather with the price. Farmers are being hit hard by the high cost of these feeds.

The trend seems to be that protein feeds are becoming more expensive. This is due to the limited supply of these feeds and the increased demand. Farmers are being forced to make changes in their feeding practices to accommodate these costs.

Some of the changes that farmers are making include:

1. Decreasing the amount of protein feeds they purchase.
2. Using alternative feeds such as soybeans and corn.
3. Feeding lower-quality feeds to their livestock.
4. Increasing the use of forage crops such as alfalfa and Timothy hay.

These changes are necessary to keep up with the current demand and cost of protein feeds. Farmers are adapting to the new market conditions and making adjustments to their feeding practices to remain competitive.

In conclusion, the demand for protein feeds has created a need for change in the feeding industry. Farmers must adapt to the new market conditions and make necessary adjustments to their feeding practices in order to remain competitive.

MECHERLE OFFERS $1,000 AND A CHALLENGE

Would Aid Juniors in Their Effort to Buy $10,000 War Bond

Forty-two county Junior Farm Bureau units have a $1,000 challenge offered to them by Edward W. Mechel, president of the Farmers Insurance Group, Inc., under whose aegis the Michigan State Farm Bureau has been organized. The challenge is one of Juniors only, and it is expected to stimulate a lively Juniors' interest in the war bond drive.

It Happened in the Michigan Junior Farm Bureau

KALAMAZOO COUNTY

James E. Bateson of Farmington, Mich., county vice-president, reported that approximately 187 EHS juniors attended the district meeting held in the school auditorium of Hope High School in Kalamazoo. The meeting was attended by sixty members and fourteen guests, including American Nashk of the 7th district. The program included a talk on farm buying at which President Young called a state meeting and party was planned for the county. The meeting and party was enjoyed and added to our growing list of Juniour Farm Bureau groups.

SAUGUIN COUNTY

Miss Gaylord of the county Juniors gave a report of the projecteur's year. The group has held four meetings, and the projecteur's year is to be started by the group. The meeting was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Young. The meeting is to be held on April 1, 1945, and the group is to have a fair program and programs of the monthly meetings.

COLLEGE OFFERS NEW FARM ACCOUNT

It is Especially Adapted for Farm Income Tax

Our guns and equipment are second to none, and we are ready to go into action when the call comes. But we are not yet able to be of much help to the government because we are unable thus far to get here. We are working hard to raise the money we need to support our men, and for that reason we are unable to send any men to the front.

Community Farm Bureau Activities

The activities of the Community Farm Bureau are centered around two main areas: education and community service.

Education

1. Training for Junior Farm Bureau members in the areas of farm saving, insurance, and real estate.
2. Preparation of a series of group discussion meetings on various agricultural topics.
3. Educational programs for community groups, such as 4-H clubs and community organizations.

Community Service

1. Voluntary work for farm organizations, such as the Farm Bureau, the Cooperative Extension Service, and local farm clubs.
2. Assistance in organizing and running farm sales and fairs.
3. Participation in community service projects, such as food drives and blood drives.

Keeping your calls short helps speed war calls...

"My telephone line never carries war calls," you may say. And that's probably true. But every call you make requires the use of lines and central office equipment that may be needed to speed vital military and war production calls... and equipment that cannot be expanded now because the necessary materials are going into tanks and planes and ships instead.

Keeping your calls short may seem unimportant. But, with war on the wires, saving a minute or two on each of the millions of calls made daily is treendously important to our country. Your family's cooperation in keeping calls short will contribute to the war effort.

Resolutions Adopted by American Farm Bureau Federation, Chicago, Ill.

We will continue to be the real living force of free enterprise in the practice of trade unionism in this industry. As a result of this convention, we will continue to seek to end the most extreme forms of abusive practices which are used to force members to remain with the union.

We feel that these practices are very harmful to the interests of those who are members of this convention. We believe that they are contrary to the principles of free enterprise and to the spirit of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

We are of the opinion that this convention must be held in order to prevent the growth of any further abuses in this industry.

We therefore demand that this convention take place immediately.

Open Form Feeds

Open form feeds were originated by us as farmers' organizations. Contents of closed form feeds had to be guessed at. Farmers' feeds are open formula and list the ingredients pound for pound on the feed tag, because:

1. They enable the farmer to check on the balance between animal and vegetable proteins in poultry and hog feeds.
2. When made by a reputable manufacturer interested in HIS welfare he knows just WHAT he is paying for.
3. The farmer can get the idea of dollar value of the feed.
4. He can consult with the Michigan State College as to feeding value of the ration.
5. He can tell the DIGESTIBLE protein and the total digestible nutrients in the ration he buys.
