Community Farm Bureau Activities

By W. M. MADRIGAL

Beyond community groups that have business enough to keep up the Farm Bureau service of the Michigan Farm Bureau. Their efforts are real and readily each month. As answers show, there is a big interest in these groups, and they will be watched by other groups as new ideas are developed. This is a natural thing to do once a group is started. If your group has the right and the interest, and the right leader, we will be made to be its leader. Any organization for making radio plans will not be made unless it is willing to work hard and pay up to its leader.

The Farm Bureau held a meeting at the Community Center in Bridgeport, Michigan, on June 29. There were three groups in attendance, representing the Town Line, Osceola, and Muskegon counties. The group had a question box, with plans to answer the questions as they are received.

The group decided that when we reach the stage of post-war agriculture, the group had a question box, with plans to answer the questions as they are received.

Everybody

and his brother seems to be feeding poultry, cows, hogs, or steers. The demand is so great that no dealer can get all he needs for the feeders.

But the Time Will Come

When the intelligent feeder will again have the field to himself. Then, we hope that he will do (he's not already on our program) check into and test Farm Bureau Open Formula Feeds.

No Matter

Whether it's poultry feeds made from our Mermade Balancer 37% protein, fortified, for use with farm grains — whether it's Farm Bureau Marker for dairy cows — whether it's Farm Bureau Poultry Meal 37% protein concentrate for sows, pigs and hogs, you can't buy rations more honestly made, more completely formulated to carry quality proteins, vitamins and minerals to stock than Farm Bureau feeds.

Remember This

Farm Bureau members and associated farmers who believe in a cooperative program want feeds that get results in a day or two. The Farm Bureau offers them the opportunity to build that kind of a farmers' feed program. No mystery, no hokey, no double talk in Farm Bureau feed supplies. Just quality ingredients, an open formula and 25 years of satisfying the most particular feeders.

September Topic AFBF Fertilizer Program

Background Material for Discussion in September by Our Community Farm Bureau Discussion Groups

By NORMAN E. WAGNER

Michigan State University Home Economics Department

Fertilizer is one of the most important factors in the production of crops on the farm. Its use provides for the need for a large number of nutrients that are required for plant growth. Fertilizer is a combination of elements that are essential for plant growth and development. The primary elements needed for plant growth are nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium. These elements are necessary for the production of healthy and nutritious crops. Fertilizer is applied to the soil, and it is taken up by the roots of the plants. The nutrients are then used by the plants to produce food and other essential materials. Fertilizer is a vital component of modern agriculture, and its use is essential for the production of crops on the farm.
