Farm Bureau Asks Defeat of Poage Farm Bill

Why We Are in Legislation
CLARE L. BRODY

Legislation to protect farm interests and to provide farmers with a united voice in their relationship with other groups is a primary objective of the Michigan Farm Bureau. Legislation was one of the strongest incentives that carried the first membership campaign in 1919-1920.

The aims and hopes of those charter members have been well carried out by those who have lived after them. Throughout the years farmers have made the Michigan Farm Bureau a major influence in the decisions made on important policies in our state. Farm Bureau has registered their views effectively in Washington.

While the first membership campaign was being completed in 1920, both its farmers and consumers of President Roland Morrill and Secretary Charles Bingham lost no time in applying its influence on legislation.

One of their first problems was to seek relief for farmers from burdensome highway taxes. Intercity motor traffic was rapidly wearing out rural roads that, since pioneer days, had been financed by assessing adjoining farms.

The majority of the automobiles and trucks then owned in the rural and outstate counties. At our annual meeting held at the Kalamazoo building on Cedar Street, Michigan Avenue in Lansing, the Farm Bureau. It wasn't long after this that the new and modern bureau building was completed in 1920.

These are only a few of the many basic issues in which our organization which provides support for national and state welfare and health agencies, and in the community services to which you are a vital part. You are important! You are the farmer-member whom you elect have a lot of influence in naming them to be on the Premium Exhibits committee. So you see what I mean.

The afternoon was spent in a show of the exhibits for which the officers of this committee and commissioner in the present time he is vice-chairman of the Budget Committee - 1959 • Chairman Admissions and Membership - 1959 • Chairman of the Michigan United Fund, presented Mr. Reed with a plaque in recognition of two years of outstanding service as chairman of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

The new quarters for the organization facilities will be the Farmers Home Service Seed Plant and Conservancy when it is put into operation. It is called "How to Win." The morning of June 23 (as the Michigan Farm News went to press) the House refused to amend the national elections. Sure! The challenge of the new Farm Bureau wheat plan and conservation reserve program. The House was expected to vote on final passage of the bill later in the day.

"The 85-25-55" program provides for (1) support at 85%, thus further pricing wheat out of the domestic feed market and the export market; (2) acreage reduction in wheat allotments; and (3) payments in kind based on 55% of the average yield per acre. Payment at this rate, and further efforts by farm leaders to assist wheat growers to vote for continued counterbalance than an effort to help farmers make needed adjustments.

Good news comes to us today. The first District to go over goal is District 9. Our congratulations! And may the next District come in soon. The District Mid-year Series is about over. Up to now, only one county has been absent. The total attendance has been about 400. This is real good considering the fact that the items being discussed is the Michigan Farm Bureau membership goal for 1961. Due to the fact that these are a couple more District meetings to be held, we are unable to give you the final figure. Watch this space next month that was set by the Districts.

June was State Camp Month for both Farm Bureau Women and the Farm Bureau Young Peoples. The reports we have to date show that they were the best we ever had this year. Many of the Michigan Farm Bureau Women had a good time at the Family Conference. There will be more next month on the Farm Bureau Women Safety Conferences.

When June was also the month that July-Membership Committees were divided in their thinking as to what should be done. Mrs. W. Victor Bielinski of East Saginaw, R-1, and Mrs. W. Victor Bielinski of East Saginaw, R-1, had some words when you would have the effect of what you can do to help in any way, be to misrepresent the Farm Bureau.

What should be the responsibility of a cooperative association to its members? The Board of Directors of a cooperative association should be able to manage its business. The best way in the world to do it is to meet the needs of its members, and to look after the interests of its members.

Michigan Farmers can win by knowing the American Dairy Association's program of daily dairy news.

The total program of the American Dairy Association's 'Daily Dairy News' is designed to provide up-to-date information about the dairy industry, including news about milk production, processing, and marketing. The program aims to educate the public about the benefits of dairy products and promote their use. The daily news is shared through various channels, such as newspapers, radio, and television, to reach a wide audience.

The Michigan Farmers can benefit from this program by staying informed about the latest developments in the dairy industry. This knowledge can help them make better decisions about their farms, improve their operations, and stay competitive in the market. By keeping up with the latest news, farmers can adapt to changes in the industry and take advantage of new opportunities.

In addition to the daily news, the American Dairy Association offers resources and tools to help farmers, such as market reports, educational materials, and networking opportunities. These resources can further contribute to the success of Michigan's dairy farmers and the state's dairy industry.

For more information, farmers can visit the American Dairy Association's website or contact their local dairy extension agent. By staying informed and connected, farmers can ensure their continued success in the dairy industry.

Jul. How to Pay for Farm Product Promotion

Promotion – Not All Advertising

The Farm Bureau delegates discussed the results of an investigation by the board of directors on a long range promotion campaign. This campaign was directed to retail products, specialty crops, and the farmers themselves. The students were not interested in promoting one food product with the other food products. They were interested in promoting one farm product with other farm products, and the risk and price relationships between the products.

Some short campaigns may not be as effective as long term campaigns, which are in critical everywhere and need to be continued. Some short campaigns may not have enough time for the consumer to really see the long term results. So far, the results have been mixed, and the students have been asked to change the emphasis from "Better Buy" to "Better Quality".

The Public Could Eat Better

The NPSF has found that most of the people who are interested in eating better do not have the money to eat better. By advertising, the NPSF can help people understand the benefits of eating better, and how to make the most of their money when buying food.

Americans are spending less on food for their health. Some researchers think that this is because of the poor health of the population. Food is not just fuel, but can also provide nutrients for the body.

The National Food Co-ops have started a program called "Super America First". This program encourages co-ops to advertise their products, both for the benefit of the co-op and for the benefit of the consumer.

They are programs aimed at the young, and in particular, the marketing of children's food.

Farmer Confidence in Advertising

Farmers who participate in advertising programs have a high level of confidence in the value of advertising. They believe that advertising can help them to sell more of their products, and that it can help them to increase their profits.

Some folks look at the matter of advertising with indifference. They feel that "non-cooperators" undermine the effectiveness of advertising.

Wheat from the Chaff

What can you do? Don't stop a chance to make your product better known.

One thing stops you. The law. What can you do about it? You can try to get the law changed. You need to be an active lobbyist. Be aware of the possibilities that are available to you.

If you do not know how to do this, you will need to ask for help from your local Farm Bureau. Don't give up. Keep trying.

You have to take into account family income levels, timing and competition. We need to be aware of the long run and short run campaigns. We need to be aware of the long run and short run campaigns. We need to be aware of the long run and short run campaigns.

The Cereal Industry

The cereal industry is a large and important industry. It is a major source of income for many farmers. The industry is also important because it provides a variety of foods that are healthy and nutritious.

The market is good for many products, but producers of cereals must be aware of the competition and the market development. They need to be aware of the competition and the market development.

The Wheat Industry

Wheat is a highly competitive crop. It is grown in many areas of the world, and it competes with other crops for land and water. The farmers who grow wheat need to be aware of the competition and the market development.
