the "war horse" of the Alliance at Albany this winter; Geo. W. Hoffmann, Asst.
inspector and staff officer, is it thus left free to being increased should be reduced in accordance with the lower income receiving the greatest portion of taxable property; and on the other hand the higher real estate costs that in the cost of living.

A Cheap Ice-House.

An exchange gives the following plan for a cheap ice-house, which should be prepared in the middle of the season, for the following year:
A pile of ice 8 feet square and 8 feet high, as near as foot of sawdust all around the ice-sides, bottom and top. The house be made on the simplest prin-
—two frames of four-inch stuff for bottom and top, nailing the boards to a barren, soil, and, a single one ned, may lay a loose floor in the bottom so that the water can pass through to the ground freely. First, put a foot of sawdust on the floor, then cause to level it well, with a cill to the center so that the ice pile will press together. Then the ice pile on this, one foot of sawdust in favor of those who denying half our needs, joyed away. And after all, too much of wealth is tax receipts and deeds.
"the land poor;
A hundred times or more,
A women is ahead.

Small farms, well-worked, are best."

"What time is it?" asked a wife of her drunk husband. "11-darkling; I can't tell, each of the hands on my watch point to a different figure, and I don't know which to believe."
Mrs. J. T. Cobb:

Dear Sir,—Having received numerous letters from you and many from others to be answered, and now to meet with prompt returns.

We have shipped and sold during the year 411 bbl. sugar, 100 bbl. kerosene oil, 250 tons salt, 1,762 lbs. butter, 25,066 lbs. eggs, and 1,523 lbs. fresh meat. We have shipped and sold during the present year 1,520 live hogs, 5,500 hogs' heads; these figures alone are greater than the average sales of our store. As you doubtless know, there is a dearth of hogs during the present season, and this is an argument to our customers.

The average sales per day for the year were $257.20. These sales are due to the cooperation of the farmers, who sell to their neighbors, and to the promptness of the buyers. We have made the average on our sales for the year $207.30 per day, which is the highest rate we have ever averaged.

The building we occupy is 30 x 100 feet, with a cellar of the same size. The Battle Creek Grange have their hall in the building, and the building is kept in repair by the Grange. The building is a great advantage to us, besides making our members acquainted with the wholesale and retail sales of goods that can be purchased. They are eager to learn about these advantages, and will do their share to buy and sell within their own community.

Our work in political affairs is done for the present, and now let us look about and see if we have any interest in this matter. It is our duty to agitate it until we can buy oil as cheaply as in our sister States. If we do not, our sons and daughters may be known in the land, and they will dispense the charities of their father. The poor, the sick, and the afflicted are sought and receive comfort, sympathy, relief. And if we do, our name is not on the ledger of the merchant. Our name is not a familiar one in courts of justice.

Resolution No. 2. Resolved, That our Representatives give it their earnest attention, and if it be consistent with justice and equality, the present law be amended or repealed.

Springville Grange, No. 279, of Allen County, on the occasion of the meeting of the Fourth Sectional Convention of the State Grange, held at Coldwater, Mich., October 21, 1878.

Dear Bro. Cobb:

Resolved, That we, as members of the Battle Creek Grange, No. 381, respectfully represent that this and other conventions have been disorganized by the present law, and that it is just and right that Michigan, with 10 degrees, forced upon us by the State Convention, be represented, as its last session.

Resolved, That the Executive Committee of the State Grange forward blank petitions to each subordinate Grange throughout the State, requesting them to obtain the signatures of their members, and return the same to our State Legislature at its next session.

H. R. B.

Order No. 8, the 2nd annual meeting of the Battle Creek Grange, held in the city of Grand Rapids, on Wednesday the 4th day of this month, and following the elections of the officers of the Grange. All Fourth Sectional Conventions are cordially invited to be present.

The Plaster Business of a Day & Taylor.

A recent trip to Grandville gives occasion for a new article on an old subject. Those who have kept posted in this plaster business, will remember that the plaster property which Day & Taylor purchased, was in connection with a large amount of other property encumbered with a mortgage of over $34,000. Since the business of last year closed, a sale of all this property to Day & Taylor under foreclosure has been made. Many of the improvements have been realized on, but the plaster mill is not yet in possession. Four teams of horses are needed to pull the mill when the cars are loaded, in accordance with a contract made by the Executive Committee with the Great Northern Railroad Company, which has been in force for a year and a half, and every arrangement will be made with the Railroad Company that it can be done at the lowest possible rate of freight.

There is no longer occasion for our manufacturers of plaster to violate recognized business principles, and the product bought by the plasterer will depend on being able to bring the cost of manufacturing down to the lowest possible point, have confidence in their business, and save themselves from the consequences of their own expensive blundering.

Those who have kept posted in this plaster business, will remember that the plaster property which Day & Taylor had in their possession was in connection with a large amount of other property encumbered with a mortgage of over $34,000. Since the business of last year closed, a sale of all this property to Day & Taylor has been made. Some of the improvements may be termed the substantial work done, when we state that ninety cords of stone still remain in the foundations of the mill, and that the property is sold to the highest bidder for a price that is below the cost of manufacturing.

Preparing this mill is but one branch of Brother Taylor's work, which has been built in the past few years, and is the largest and the best plaster warehouse in the State. That ground platter may be kept in the best possible condition, dryness, the new warehouse, which is 60 feet wide and 104 feet long, is set up on stone walls or pillars from three to five feet high.

Some Idea has been made of the extent of the improvements made, and that the mill will be in good working condition, new sheds have been built on which the mill, the day of November, over 5,000 tons of rock had been piled. The business of mining has been carried forward steadily, and the quarry is in that condition that 5,000 tons of rock will be taken off the first of January next. The platter is not only ground by water power, but the rock is drawn in by an incline on a car on an iron track by the same power. A better idea of the point of these permanent improvements perhaps can be had by stating that they have required 200,000 feet of lumber, 50,000 feet of iron work, and have employed over a dozen carpenters, more for three months, besides a large number of unskilled laborers.

The old mill has received some repairs, and will be relied on in case of a pressure of business or accident to the water mill that would cause delay.

At a later day, when railroad companies find that Grangers are not savages or communists, intent on cutting down the mileage of members to two cents per mile to correspond with actual cost of railroad travel.

The plaster business has been quite a tax on the State Grange; but there is no light matter to undertake to defeat a combination that claimed to represent a million dollars of capital, and frequent meetings of the Executive Committee became necessary; and as far as we know, the money left on their return home each time to pay for actual service rendered, has been paid to a good man for sawing wood for the same length of time, yet this expense was considered too large to bear.

There is no longer occasion for other manufacturers of plaster to violate recognized business principles, and the product bought by the plasterer will depend on being able to bring the cost of manufacturing down to the lowest possible point, have confidence in their business, and save themselves from the consequences of their own expensive blundering.

No business or enterprise can be run, however, without some expenditure of money, and this inquiry seems to lead to others with their true answers.

We are always glad to see a disposition on the part of members to look well after the finances, and to rely on you to do what your interest and duty alike demand. The plaster will cost you 82 per ton on the cars at the mills, in accordance with a contract made by the Executive Committee with the Great Northern Railroad Company, which has been in force for a year and a half, and every arrangement will be made with the Railroad Company that it can be done at the lowest possible rate of freight.

For the purpose of answering the very general demand of the Patronage Committee, and to correspond with the decreased demands of the subordinate granges, it is proposed to reduce the price of the plaster from 82 cents per ton to 75 cents per ton, and it is hoped that the Committee will be able to meet the demands of the State Grange.

No business or enterprise can be run, however, without some expenditure of money, and this inquiry seems to lead to others with their true answers.

And, first has the State Grange any accumulated funds to draw upon to meet its current expenses if it's revenues were in any way diminished? To this we answer that it has not more than will be required to cover actual indebtedness, and the expenses of the next session of the State Grange. As a large sum of money has been collected during the last five years in the enquiry at once arises, have the finances of the State Grange not been economically managed? A brief review is necessary to settle that question. It will be remembered that at the time when the Order was growing rapidly, not only in this State but in a majority of the States of the Union, that under the Constitution of the National Grange each subordinate Grange was to send one representative in the State Grange at Lansing with apologies by the Master to his wife. At that time members were allowed $2 per day, and three cents at rates. At these rates, with a duration of four days, the pay roll of a session amounted to over $8,000, and the railroad expenses, adding two or three hundred dollars more to the cost of each session.

When, by an alteration of the fundamental law, provision was made for distributing the State and diminishing the number of representatives, it was only after a most vigorous effort on the part of those who most clearly understood the meaning and expenses of these annual sessions that the ratio of one representative to five hundred, or seven hundred for each county, was fixed, and not until the following session was the pay cut down to six dollars per day.

At a later date, when railroad companies found that Grangers were not savage or communists, intent on cutting down the mileage of members to two cents per mile, the railroad companies found that Grangers were not savages or communists, intent on cutting down the mileage of members to two cents per mile.
The meeting of the Executive Committee was held on the 6th inst., with the following officers in attendance: Chair- man, George W. Thorne; Secretary, John A. Barlow; Treasurer, John M. Smith.

The Executive Committee has been called to order by the President, who called the roll of the members present.

The Business of the Committee was transacted as follows:

The Committee, after careful deliberation, believed that the State Grange has occupied for three successive sessions, a demoralized condition of affairs, and that the delegations elect, or to those earnest Patrons, who, for the love of the Order, attend its annual sessions.

At our first session, a Committee was appointed to ascertain if a suitable place could be obtained in the vicinity of the Hall of the House of Representatives, which has occupied for three years. The next day the Committee called upon the State Treasurer, and asked for theennes of the State Grange.

We found the old Hall of the House of Representatives, which the State Grange has occupied for three years, not suitable for the two papers.

"A comfortable room that will seat 500 Grangers." The Committee, well pleased with the General's prompt recognition of the claims and wants of the Order, expressed their hearty thanks and retired.

The Husbandman.

"All right, you can have the U. S. Supreme Court room, or if that is not large enough, the Hall of the House of Representatives, or the Senate Chamber in the new Capitol."

"Gentlemen, what do you want?"

To which the General replied, "Well, I am to be present myself at all meetings of the Grange, and pay a quarter due of thirty cents, in all my brothers who have ever attended a session of the State Grange. With reduced railroad and horse rates, and an opportunity to visit the new Capitol, the Agricultural College and Farms, there is little doubt that we shall have a better attendance of Fourth Degree members than at any previous session.

The Visitor has many friends in Michigan, and we hope all the other States, who think, as we think, of the value of the Visitor, will aid it in working for the elevation of the laboring classes, and no man is more thoroughly identified with its agricultural interests for many years; no man is more solicitous for the elevation of the laboring classes, or more earnestly desires that the agricultural class should have a voice in public affairs. We have for some time been trying to secure a place for the Visitor, and no man is more earnest in maintaining that a great agricultural interest should be represented in the legislature by a fair and just proportion of farmers. And though the General be not able to leave it on the subject, it remains to be seen if we can secure a place for the Visitor at all.

The validity of what is known as the Lee farm gate patent will soon be tested, as the holders of the patent have commenced suit in the U. S. Circuit Court against Philip E. Cal- lig and Adam Cook, of Ann Arbor; Mr. Allen, of Pittsfield, and L. C. Allen, S. Culvert, F. Humphrey and John Kelley, of York, Washtenaw County.

The Committee, known only to those present at the Grange, am I to be blamed for thinking some one has forgotten his solemn obligation?

Call attention to our club rates with another; let us rise to meet all the emergencies of the occasion, and not surrender to the wiles of the enemy, who have beaten us at every turn in the past.

Again we pledge ourselves to never, in any manner, knowingly, wrong or defraud a brother or sister, nor attempt to do them any injury, whether acting in their own interests or for the benefit of the Grange.

The Committee, after careful deliberation, and in accordance with the General's prompt recognition of the claims and wants of the Order, expressed their hearty thanks and retired.

A Talk with the Sisters.

Anonymous.

May I tell a little of my own personal experience? All these long years I have hidden my little "wee one" from view, and enveloped her in household cares and duties, and like Martha of old, been careful about too much serving, and said to her, "This is not the way."

As we lay down our life-work, and take that long and dreary sleep that knows no waking till the Judgment Day, let me say: "Would you be remembered? Have you so little love for me as to make no effort so that, when the day comes, I may call you blessed, and say, "All that I am I owe to my mother's influence."

To-day as I stand beside my work-table moulding out the various articles of food I intended to bake, my thoughts go back to the "little one" who is the reason of all I am. How often we hear the question asked, Why is such a person so pleasing, or that one so disagreeable? It is because we have not been careful to look at our own acts of kindness, that every-day life has so much need of, will not only benefit ourselves, but others so much, when we do good without thinking of the result. If the Grange movement should subside, and become a thing of the past (and I have fears that it will), we shall have the good it has done and the experience it has left us, and we shall never settle down to the position we once were in, but it will have begun. To show that we appreciate this great knowledge that we have gained, let us make the most of it and be careful as we would ourselves, to devote ourselves to a higher plane of existence, and take up life's burdens with a happy spirit. Even a "little one" will not have the care of herself or others, a chill every day, and should not find the work so heavy, as to make her cry and say, "I am too tired to do any more;"

Little Things.

MONIQUE GRANGE, No. 29.

How often we hear the question asked, "Why is such a person so pleasing, or that one so disagreeable?" The reason is that each one has a little something that makes her different from others, and none of us think much of it, but others do. The "little one" can do us more harm than all the "little monsters" that are about your yards. Let us make the most of it and be careful as we would be ourselves, to devote ourselves to a higher plane of existence, and take up life's burdens with a happy spirit.

"To-day as I stand beside my work-table moulding out the various articles of food I intended to bake, my thoughts go back to the "little one" who is the reason of all I am."

If you have little ones in your charge, please take hold of their little hands, and never let them break away from you. It is better to say, "I cannot talk or write because I have not five talents, I am not capable as others and cannot do as well as they; therefore, I will do nothing." Of late I have been looking over my selfish way of living, and find that putting my duties on my other shoulders, thus wearying them and good to myself. And now if I cannot do great work, I am forced to realize that I am going to do some that is more a game of Duty, and shall not do it, for though I cannot do it, I can do it. Why is it that one who signs his name to a deed knows it is not his, because he is not responsible for it? But if I sign my name to my own waste basket, and say, "I am responsible for it," I can do something with it. I am not a stranger to the old saying that you can do good, but never hurt. Well, the reason I keep my name to the acts of kindness is, because then I don't have to worry about the result. I am glad to see this idea is taking hold of my life, and I believe I can do something with it."

This broad sheet under the window of my study, and these resolutions to right that reach up to the ceiling and stick the sun in my hair and make me wish. I have such a day as it is. I have been thinking of ways to get rested. Some will say that it is a queer way to rest, but it is nevertheless true. I have been looking over my selfish way of living, and find that I am putting my duties on my other shoulders, thus wearying them and good to myself. And now if I cannot do great work, I am forced to realize that I am going to do some that is more a game of Duty, and shall not do it, for though I cannot do it, I can do it. Why is it that one who signs his name to a deed knows it is not his, because he is not responsible for it? By giving poultry a heaped tablespoonful occasionally in a quart of chop, it will keep them healthy and strong. Mix 1 1/3 level-tspful of Salt and 2 level-tspful of Sugar on each dozen eggs, and it will prevent the formation and deposit of shells in the pores of the shell. It improves the beauty and increases the size. It makes fat milk. By using a horse it will do more work, and for the same food give more milk, and with less feed.
