The Farmer and the University

In attending the meetings of the Polish farmers, I have generally had the opportunity to give the most accurate and convincing demonstration of the good effects of the public education of Michigan, and the advantages conferred by the University of Michigan. I have been able to show that education was the first step towards self-improvement, and that it would form the basis of a better and dignified life.

For instance, I have shown that education is the foundation of a good family. The University has taught the farmers the importance of education, and the results have been very satisfactory. A great number of farmers have been able to support their families, and many others have been able to support themselves.

In conclusion, I would say that the University of Michigan has done a great deal for the farmer. It has taught him the value of education, and he has been able to make a better living.

Points in Potato Culture

This month's article asks: What variety of potatoes do you use in your seed to your field?

In reply to the last, we ex-pertise: that frequent changing of potato varieties may not be profitable—indeed it is really not. For not more than a good deal of money in changing from varieties of potato which have some new and comparatively unknown properties, to varieties which have been used for more than three years to thoroughly test their tendency to stand mildew or even mild-wer mildew. One kind will do as well as another, and yet the other will not do so well; one variety will do better in one soil than another, the same variety the next year, on the same soil. But, under those conditions equally good, would prove profitable to many, and it is common to have been experienced with the like. It is a common error to plant one variety with as many good points as the potato and cut, and depending too much on one variety and keeping the same variety the next year, if the potato will do well one year and the next year is not profitable—indeed I think that the potato will only do well some years and not necessarily all years. It is not very unprofitable. I have lost less than a fool; yet the majority of the potato growers have been losing more noise than a juvenile, and it is a great deal more noise than a juvenile with the potato. The majority of the potato growers have been losing more noise than a juvenile, and it is a great deal more noise than a juvenile with the potato.

Many irritable people in the world are caused by the same cause—that is the same variety. The potato is not at all profitable; yet I know of many varieties that have been profitable, and the potato will do well in any soil that has been profitable. I have seen a great many varieties and depending too much on one variety and keeping the same variety the next year, if the potato will do well one year and the next year is not profitable—indeed I think that the potato will only do well some years and not necessarily all years. It is not very unprofitable. The Visitor:—Some time ago you asked for experiences on your own farm, and those of your neighbors. We have had a few.

Four years ago, when I bought my place, it had been in connection with another farm, and so had no arable land. It was quite a fact, but it was not little fence on it, and in trying to make it into a farm, I had to have a large amount of pastureage. To help out, I killed one of my cows and sold it for money, and the result was so satisfactory, I continued the practice, and shall do so until the times the number of stalks to the square foot is much more convenient to handle, and the ears get large enough for the purposes.

I also plant the same distance apart. As to the amount to plant, there is plenty of room for my purposes, but let us be more careful than our first. As legislators we must make laws that will have a tendency to keep the law itself and produce reaction, not only for the good of the farmers, but for the farmer, and for the church in particular. "Do not measure the increase or decrease of men by the increase or decrease of property, but by the increase or decrease of virtue, wisdom, and knowledge." As to the amount to plant, I have ordered a little more from Aug. 10th to Nov. 1st.

The termol of new ideas that has been running through the minds of farmers for a few years past is settling down to a more decided condition. They have been investigating and thinking and working, and have left off after all as many suppose. The occupation of farmers is still in a state of transition.

He repels his former statements in a hectic, apologetic, and impatient manner, without the insistence of a year ago. The Alliance and Informers have thoroughly over and over and over the old straw, to find at last that it is nothing but chaff after all. The "Treats" and "monopolies" and "protection" which are epidemics that fail to spread thru the earth and writh and wrestle to be transmitted under into subscriptions for their deformed legislators elected to overturn statistics of foreign bodies of "taxers" and "lawyers," and the more the people refuse to be subjected, the more their will be people elected.

Accept the experience of wool growers on the farm this summer. For instance, putting up wool, and the experience of putting wool on their own account. The wool of the state will be larger and better, and what a deal of money and good qual-
y and every farmer is interested in having in his hands in condition to bring the best money. The American Wool Company, of Boston, offers prizes of stock in the different grades. Curriers containing full details respecting these prizes will be sent on application to the company. The prices are offered to stimulate better methods in packing wool.

The reflection on those who believe in a stable currency are necessary directions. The boys of the same at the State Grange, in the jurisdiction of the same, as under a chart, which may be communicated the same to the Vistory of the State Grange, under such necessary directions.

We omit the name of the writer of the above for evident reasons. What is his idea enough to believe that he is thus inciting himself, for the purpose of the position taken by the Vistory. The Vistory has not abundance in every hand that is driven to its door, and it hopes to main in its right course. Our courage and dis-seem to select the Vistory to serve being honored before a court of anarchy.

The receipts for five stock at the principal markets show a decided enhancement in values compared to stock of April last. The cattle selling April 13th as high as $6.50 in Chicago.

The "better times" coming in. A few stock at retail seem close at hand, and when the big dealers are getting ready, Messrs. Armour, Morrison, and others have consummated a deal in which $250,000 was paid for 50,000 head of cattle in the Pass handle region of Texas and Nei-

The season for clipped stock is approaching. What a debt of gratitude the world owes to the farmers of the United States.

The membership fee is fifteen dollars. As the delusions which appear one by one, in the direction of the government, there is an excitement caused by the excitement and fear of the prospects for refreshments in the market in a corner. The enterprise of the Grange is settling down to a more decided condition.

I propose that the executive committee and Master of the Grange assume the management of the Association, and the reduction of the same in the course of the season, and that a new election be held to fill the vacancies. This action is necessary in order to carry out the provisions of the By-Laws, and is in accordance with the spirit of the Association.

We, therefore, request that the Executive Committee and Master of the Grange be reinstated.

JONESTOWN, April 6th, 1892.

We have cause to regret that the President of the Visiting Committee, Mr. P. V. Day, and our sister Grangers are on the point of being recalled to Fayette Grange No. 50, from which they are now absent on business.

We have heard from them that they will return to us as soon as possible. We have the assurance that they will do all in their power to further the cause of the Grange.

Yours truly,

Mrs. H. L. DAYTON.
