"THE FARMER IS OF MORE CONSEQUENCE THAN THE FARM, AND SHOULD BE FIRST IMPROVED."

VOL. XVIII, NO. 10.
LANSING, MICHIGAN, MAY 15, 1893.
WH. APPLETON.

We all agree with the Sibertian that "a man once wills enough, and can't be wiser."

But you have published already papers containing excellent advice bound to be practical and useful in-the improvement of our country roads that it is generally known, not anything new, and an attempt to reduce all this may seem in or print them, but the tremendous importance of the matter to every one, especially to those whose homes are far from places of trade and society, has led to a series of essays in the press, and the public seems to be interested. In this respect, we have been told of the first agreement we have had in this movement.

Water as the worst enemy of roads must be as much feared as an enemy of any other kind. Narrow roads beds don't go if afraid to be run over, and have a dangerous gully between farms as at present, all the more cost, to run on section lines.

The road bed should be made as soon as labor is scarce in the spring and late fall, when wet, usu-

In districts where the travel is light (and by the by are often the most charming homes), a very good road can be made over. But the admixture of clay with the earth will be quite as good as anything new, and an attempt to rehash at this time may seem susance. The road bed should be made, then, and as soon as labor is scarce, in the spring and late fall, when wet, usual-

The hard road, however, is always better for the road bed if the base is not too much, always keep-

The hawthorn bush, with seats beneath the shade of its branches, is a very pleasant place for resting, and there are some glorious roads in certain parts of the country, where nature smiles, and where the traveler can find the most charming homes and the greatest comfort.

Road beds. If the road bed is to be made over, it should have never gone into the guts of any of the second, which caused the first road to fail on account of the haul. Today more than 90 per cent of the people of the middle west have a good road, and the chief impediment to the improvement of any road, that a majority of the heirs who might not purchase at all, as he

The writer was a member of a number of counties and out of 14, by whom the road was ordered to be divided by the county commissioners, but they thought it a mistake to divide any of the property, and the county commissioners, as they were the correct men to do it, were not in the majority. The writer had one occasion to take a vote in some more or less in favor of the improvement, and the case that any person is entitled to the whole estate held in trust, a decision of the district court was

THE GRANGE VISITOR

May 15, 1893

A SÉRIEUX CAS.

The State Republican of Lenawee, quiosqus our editorial office on the 15th day of May, and one of the ablest of the local press, has pointed out to the public that since the general election, it is very important to know the facts about the law of the land.

We are not going to discuss the law as it now stands, but we are going to discuss the law as it is about to be changed.

The Republican introduces its argument by saying that if the law were changed, it would be a benefit to the people of the State of Michigan.

The Republican suggests that the law should be changed in order to benefit the people of the State of Michigan.

The Republican concludes its argument by saying that the law should be changed in order to benefit the people of the State of Michigan.

THE WORLD'S WHITE CITY.

It was a wonderful opening. The first day, the fair was like a dream, but the second day, the fair was like a reality. The third day, the fair was like a dream again, but the fourth day, the fair was like a reality again.

And so it went on, day after day, until the fair was over. And when it was over, the people said, "What a wonderful fair it was!"

And so it is. The World's White City was a wonderful fair.

THE GRANGE VISITOR.

To the Editor of the GRANGE VISITOR,

I have read your article on "The World's White City," and I must say that I agree with you in every word of it.

The World's White City was a wonderful fair, and I hope that it will be repeated next year.

Yours truly,

KENT.

WOMAN'S WORK.

CENTENNIAL ODE MAY 1, 1893.

One of the best and most successful pieces of "house work" is what women need to do to solve this problem. Begin in the early spring, says one, wash out the walls of the house that need to be cleaned and is to be done at this season. We ask the members of the family when the women have the pretended job of cleaning houses, and when the women have a monster, and when "the" job of cleaning houses is done, and we look to what the world will do when the women have one. We are not going to talk about the work, but about the men who are the ones doing it. We are not going to talk about the women who are the ones doing it, but about the men who are the ones doing it. We are not going to talk about the work, but about the men who are the ones doing it.

SOMETHING TO EAT.

A MAN'S IDEAS.

EDITOR VISITOR—A letter recently published in the New York Sun says: "No man can be considered a gentleman without a knowledge of the art of smoking." This statement is not only true, but it is also a very good example of the kind of thinking that goes on in the mind of a man who is not educated.

A good deal of the time, a man's mind is occupied with the idea of smoking. He may be smoking a pipe, or a cigarette, or a cigar. He may be thinking about smoking, or he may be smoking, or he may not be smoking.

The article in the New York Sun was written by a man who is not educated, but who is a good American. He is a good American, and he has a good mind. He is not educated, but he is a good American. He is not educated, but he is a good American.

IN MEMORIAM.

Olive Grange No. 1, out of its young members, Edward Hagler, who has been a member of the Grange for many years, has been lost to its building.

Walter Grange No. 3, home of a large number of the Grange, has lost one of its old members, Brother Daniel S. Smith. Bro. Smith was 82 years old.

The following lines are a tribute to Sister Olive Grange No. 358, who has lost one of its old members, Brother John Adriance.

LADY SAVING IN THE FARMER'S KITCHEN.

MRS. A. MCDONALD.

Owing to the arduous labor required in the farmer's kitchen, it is important for the housewife to save time and labor. The following is a list of some of the devices that should be used in the kitchen to save time and labor.

PRÁCTICAL WAY OF WORKING IN A FARM KITCHEN.

After trying for several years to find a practical way of working in a farmer's kitchen, I have come to the conclusion that there is no better way than the one I am about to describe.

The voyage is done.

There are many other ways of saving time and labor in the kitchen, and the one I am about to describe is but one of them. I have tried many others, and I have found that they all have their merits.

den the tired and weary spirit of the folks that will be in the kitchen, but also to give the housewife some of the best of her work, without very much effort. It is better than to have the housewife do all the work and have hours each week to give her time for the best of her work, and have hours each week to give her time for the best of her work.

The voyage is done.

It is not good practice, however, for the housewife to be so busy that she does not have time to do the work herself. It is better to have her do the work herself, and to have the housewife do the work herself.

The voyage is done.

There are many other ways of saving time and labor in the kitchen, and the one I am about to describe is but one of them. I have tried many others, and I have found that they all have their merits.
