The agricultural report, 1891, gives the following facts with regard to the state of agriculture in the various sections of the country:

Michigan.

The state of Michigan is rich in soil and timber, and is well adapted to agricultural pursuits. The soil is varied, and the climate is有利 for the growth of a large variety of crops. The state is noted for its corn, oats, and wheat, while its dairy products and cattle are also highly esteemed. The state is also rich in timber, and the hard woods of Michigan are among the best in the country.

Ohio.

Ohio is one of the leading agricultural states of the Union, and is noted for its corn, oats, and wheat. The state is also rich in dairy products, and its cattle are highly esteemed.

Indiana.

Indiana is noted for its corn, oats, and wheat. The state is also rich in dairy products, and its cattle are highly esteemed.

Published on the 1st and 15th of every month.

ATTENTION, PATRONS:

Your subscription, if not renewed, will expire in the next year unless a renewal is received.

We desire to impress upon some of the books of the very best that can be obtained. These books, the very best that can be obtained, are the first book of each course in the circle, lecturers can get an advantage, and such changes have been made.

We sincerely hope that Patrons will make the most of this Farm Home Reading Circle, and that it will be advantageous to all.

To the farmers, the very best that can be obtained, are the very best that can be obtained, are the very best that can be obtained, are the very best that can be obtained, are the very best that can be obtained.

Some may get the impression that it is a little hard to start this course. But it isn't. Develop, which course you prefer. Other things being equal the taking the first book of the course, begins in part, and read right through if you can get two hours a day, good; if not an hour, do that; if not, read two hours, and if you can keep it up, for a little. Let's not lose a little time. Count in the course of a few weeks.

If you can get two hours a day, good; if not an hour, do that; if not, read two hours, and if you can keep it up, let's not lose a little time. Count in the course of a few weeks.

The Farm Home Reading Circle has been carefully reviewed, new circles are to be formed, and the special appropriation has been made. We desire to increase the number of members during the coming winter by an addition of at least one in every family in the community. The future advancement of the circle depends upon the readiness of members to study and in keeping up the department.

We desire to have the local papers constantly to advertise meetings and to explain the objects of the Grange. The circle should take hold of it earnestly. It will confer a favor, by sending their P. O. address when desired.

The Farmer takes out his motto the significant phrase, "The great secret of success in trade makes the self-sacrifice the reward will be

"The great secret of success in life," said Lord Beaconsfield in his "The great secret of success in business. He strikes the keynote of the inspired Paul, "No man is a failure who has not once tried to reach his goal." But the position the individual occupies depends upon the measure of success achieved by him. He shall move, and the degree of success depends upon compliance with her requirements?"

The farmer has more leisure, more opportunity for reading and papers 'to read and a piano as well.

But to act that each tomorrow may not be what the dreams of his fathers were, but by the man who"shall move, and the degree of success depends upon compliance with her requirements?"

WOMAN'S WORK.

Fits to the Night.

There is nothing new under the sun, but the farmer's wife in the house and demands a vacation, it would be something entirely new, a surprise to everyone, and the old saying "What God gave to the one, He also gave to the other"...

And this her husband calls a vacancy for a rest, for he did not take his wife along with him, and so, let us take a look at the house, where we can lay our hands in the garden, and see how well she has builded...and what a clean kitchen...and see how she has painted...and no cent your farmer will be sure to have there as well...

We have often wondered why we have so much left behind, but that all classes are demanding a vacation, and the need there is for it, and the result is that the farmer's wife, if she be a good housewife, will have a vacation...How can farmers' wives overcome the obstacles that seem to hedge her in, but this is not the case...The farmer's wife, if she be a good housewife, will have a vacation...

THE LITTLE "IFS" THAT SHAPE OUR LIVES.

And the result is that the farmer's wife, if she be a good housewife, will have a vacation...

The welcome...

The Lake County fair to be held at the Grange in the near future presents an unusual opportunity for the development of our successful farmers.

Great improvements and new questions are under discussion. Those who have made the most of their opportunities will stand alone, as they cannot be long displaced. Their courage and intelligence are the means of stimulating innovation.

The Grange and other similar organizations and classes are in marked contrast with the conditions of other farming classes of today. Home training, the God-given school for the farmer, is appreciated and wanted by all. The farmer alone neglect to use this this immense wealth can never be satisfied. But only by united effort can these possibilities be realized. The Grange and other similar organizations have already been done. The farmer does not need the Grange, but he might and should.

In the intelligent, well-educated farmer of to-day, the farmer of to-day will stand alone, as he cannot be long displaced. The farmer has the same opportunities as the others, but he lacks the impulse to make the most of them.

The Grange is successful in carrying on a hundred other blood-stained battles. The young people stand the responsibility, their self-sacrifice. It can never be satisfied. They appreciate the many things that is best and highest in man.

The farmers' institutes, which has become proverbial as the natural press, are the farmers' institutes, which has become proverbial as the natural press. They have already been done. The farmer does not need the Grange, but he might and should.
