Declarations of Purposes.
Of the Patrons of Husbandry, Adopted by the National Grange of the Whole State of Michigan, in Annual Session Held at St. Louis, Feb.
1894. PREAMBLE.

Profoundly impressed with the truth that the national system of every United States should definitely proclaim to the world its general objects, we hereby unanimously make this declaration of purposes of the Farmers' patrolmen, etc.

GENERAL OBJECTS.

1. United by the strong and faithful tie of brotherhood among ourselves, and the good for the order, our country and mankind.

2. We heartily endorse the motto, "In harmony with our principles, in essentials, liberty in all things, charity.

SPECIFIC OBJECTS.

3. We shall endeavor to advance our cause by laboring to accomplish the following:

To develop a better and higher moral and social condition of the people; to bring these two parties into speedy and harmonious action and co-operation; to maintain inviolate our rights and principles; to maintain inviolate our principles; to influence for good the action of any corporation; to inculcate a proper appreciation of the ability and worth of the one who possesses the means to produce our wealth, both individual and corporation.

EDUCATION.

We shall advance the cause of all, among ourselves; and for our children; and in all just means within our power, to advocate for our agricultural and industrial colleges that practical agriculture, domestic industry, and the principles, not of political parties, but of mutual assistance, may obtain recognition in our institutions, and in order to make our aspirations a

4. For our business interests, we desire to befriend producers and consumers, mankind, and manufactures into the most direct and friendly relations possible. Hence we must diagnose with a surplus of middle-

WINTER CURE OF SHEEP.

DESSERT W. MUMFORD.

The winter cure of sheep is one of the most important of the sheep. To provide sheep with the best possible care and condition during the winter months is essential to their health and future productivity. The wool, where they remain for days and weeks, and where they die of cold or exposure. They have been called "the poor agent" because, when the weather is severe, they are forced to wait for food, often going hungry for days on end. In some cases, they are denied proper shelter and proper care, resulting in their suffering and eventual death. The practice of winter curing sheep is an important aspect of sheep management, as it ensures their health and survival during the cold months.
In this issue, we have a variety of articles covering different topics. Here are some highlights:

- Influences: An article discussing the impact of various factors on women's work, particularly focusing on their intellectual and professional capabilities.
- The Grange Visitor: A column that features news and updates from the Berrien County Pomona Grange, including a meeting report.
- Women's Work: An exploration of different aspects of women's work, including their contributions during the Civil War and their roles in various industries.

We also have some sections dedicated to nature and poetry, such as:

- O brave marsh marybuds, rich and yellow
- Five Little Brothers: A children's story about some little brothers on a journey.
- The Sunflowers: A poetic piece about sunflowers, their growth, and their significance.

These pieces, along with others, provide a comprehensive look at the issues and topics of the time, offering insights into the social and cultural landscapes of the era.

2. A bill to create a new state department of agriculture, which will include the control of the state's agricultural extension service.
3. A bill to establish a state university and college of agriculture.

GREAT TRUSTY TESTIMONY.

The other day I chanced to fall in with Mr. J. H. Brown, a farmer of the Michigan Farmer. We knew that Mr. Brown, of course, was a member of the Michigan Farmer, and we were naturally inclined toward the Farm Home Union, and in the course of the conversation I mentioned some of the things we were doing.

"Mr. Brown, I understand you are quite interested in the Farmers' Clubs and to the farmer and his family. What do you think of them?"

"It is one of the least arrangements I have made yet, but the results have all been very wonderful for good. They have been as helpful to the farmers who had no opportunity to secure a liberal education in their youth, as to the farmers who had always lived on the farm, but who have always been forced to do many things that directly concerned their welfare. In fact, they realized there had been a limited knowledge of science as applied to practical agriculture.

"Such has been my position. Professors provided me with a course enough to complete a common school education, but I was determined to make a great effort to prepare for a systematic study of the sciences at our State Agricultural College. After a single term's work, I could learn very little.

"The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle had been organized a short time before. I sent for circulars, secured one of the books, and read the first thirty pages, and then I knew how I could manage to find time for reading.

"I soon learned to systematize my time. Not a moment was wasted in sitting around, and I read two, three, or even four books a day, during five days in the week. I was always busy, and I could do what I pleased without having to feel it later. I was working for something.

"I followed your course of study, and when I took the C. U. S. examination, I was successful. The principal teacher, Mr. Lewis Miller, president of the C. U. S., C. R. D., thought it was a great success.

"I then took a course through the 'Home Reading Circles' and found them a wonderful thing. I could carry a book in my pocket to read or study when at leisure. The books were sold at a low per cent price, and you could find something to read in any section. The books are so well written, so they are always sold at a low price. It is a splendid thing to carry a book with you at any time as a 'spare.' More interest will be shown in the reading of books and in the discussion of questions on what we have read, the questions being directed by our minds and the spirit of the subject matter.

"How did you secure these 'many books' for your reading?"

"Of some of my whisky and tobacco money.

"I am sorry to say I am not able to furnish an answer to this statement, that some of the members are not using whisky and tobacco. It appears a great many are using whisky and tobacco.

"Some were secured by being honest, and others by being dishonest; but you cannot get money enough to purchase what you want."

"Do you think of the interest in the P. H. C. R."

"The course of study I am following is very rigorous, and many of us have reached the water-marks and some have passed the water-marks. But I think the course of study is very useful for the farmers who are going to secure a liberal education for themselves, and I think the course is very useful for the farmers who are going to secure a liberal education for themselves.

"I am sufficiently acquainted with the State Board of Agriculture and the Michigan Farmer, and I have arranged this course for the intelligent and practical Michigan farmer and his family.

I wonder how many of the farmers of the state have the opportunity to read them regularly as they should read them during the moments that are open to the enforcement of their duty qualification of one hundred dollars be required, and that these laws be passed as soon as congress can reasonably do so.
