The Tides of Affairs.

Numerous senatorial elections are in preparation, and in many instances there is a decided struggle for the seats in the different states. The result of these elections is of great importance, as the composition of the future Senate may have a marked influence on the legislation of the country.

The Election of Judges.

The selection of judges is a matter of great importance. The performance of their duties requires a high degree of intelligence, integrity, and impartiality. The qualifications required for judges are not always easy to find, and the selection of qualified candidates is often difficult. The importance of the judiciary is evidenced by the fact that the decisions of the courts are often the deciding factor in important cases.

Spraying vs. the Birds.

R. M. RELLOGO.

A large flock of birds arrived the night of the 31st of December, and took possession of the farm. They arranged themselves on the stockyard fence, and ran away from the corn crib, scattering the milo. I tried to scare them away with a stick, but they paid no attention to it, and continued their meal as before. I finally decided to spray the corn crib with a solution of arsenic, in order to get rid of them.

I had two eggs in the nest, and they were quite a surprise to me when I found them. I immediately filled the unhatched egg with water, and placed it in the refrigerator. The hatched egg was cooked, and served for breakfast. I was quite pleased with the result, and intend to continue the process in future years.

I have also experimented with the use of arsenic in the treatment of the barnyard, as I found that the birds were quite fond of it. I am satisfied that it is a very effective remedy, and intend to use it in future years.

I also tried to spray the corn crib with water, but the birds seemed to take no notice of it. I finally resorted to the use of arsenic, and was quite satisfied with the result. I am now going to experiment with the use of other poisons, in order to find the most effective remedy for the birds.

I have also experimented with the use of water in the treatment of the barnyard, as I found that the birds were quite fond of it. I am satisfied that it is a very effective remedy, and intend to use it in future years.

The Wind and the Sun.

The wind was whistling down the town, and the sun was sitting out his great strength. "Oh! I am strong," said the sun, as he gazed down upon the earth, "but I like not to have the wind to oppose me."

"Who is stronger than me?" asked the wind.

"It is I," said the sun, "for I am the sun." "Oh! I am stronger than you," replied the wind. "With my soft ways and gentle breezes, I can win over the earth." "No," said the sun, "I am the stronger, for I can break the strong boughs, the strong seas, and the strong winds." "Who knows more of such things?" asked the wind.

Will you join in the work?

We know to say that if a poor man is good he is just as good as a rich man, and that he is just as good as a poor man.

If the training of children received as much scientific attention from parents as is the training of fancy stock and the training of testing of horses, we would have a better, richer, and happier people.

The Grange is bound. It tries to reach every side of a man's nature. It is too broad for some people who can't get their terms. It is too wide for others who want nothing but Anarchy does not consist in carrying a red flag. The essence of anarchy is the absence of discipline and disregard of law.

The anarchist does not need to have an unpronounceable name and possess wild eyes and talk like a lunatic. He may be one of our leading citizens, and his anarchy consist in participating in mob law or in disregarding the plain intent of the law. But he is anarchist, and he is an anarchistic idea.

We emphasize the importance and value of the treatment of anarchy. It's a contagious idea. It will be of most importance and interest to our readers. We do not mention and will let us know their wishes, that we do not mention and will let us know their wishes.

A word from the new Managers. Our first issue this year assumes the business management and publication, for the coming year. The Grange for some time has not been paying expenses, and it is important to get out a newspaper in which the members may have confidence and a guarantee from those in whose interest the Grange is run.

"The laborer is worthy of his hire," and no one can pretend guaranteeing our paper whether the paper is prosperous or not. But the point we wish to impress upon, is that the members of the Grange in this state, and upon friends of the cause in other states, and upon farmers and the friends of farmers everywhere, is this: We propose to use our best efforts to make the Grange self-supporting, the means though it were our own property. With this assurance on our part, we cannot reasonably expect from you?

You must make it, our interest to make it the best newspaper we can.

It is the official organ of the representative men of the best class of rural pursuits in the world. There is an unbroken love of all that is good, and an absolute amity between men and before they can

A Word to Patrons. The Grange is still your paper as it is, and still owned by the Grange. It will continue to be on the Grange lines, and will be as good as a Grange paper as it has been in the past few years.

The Grange therefore will sell a copy of high quality to those who will buy it at the price at which".

Gentleman.

The other article is on the "Injurious Weeds of the Southwest," and has been in various books.

The question is, Does local option work? is another proposition answered, together with replies to various other queries. On the whole, the letters are very readable and local option.

The Vezon before us thoroughly conversant with the temperance legislation, believes that the question is of vast importance, believes that the liquor laws have been made to suit the people who are nearly sober. We are under the impression that if something more is done for temperance than is being done today in Michigan.

In this kind of it we should always have it that we can't have facts at hand before any-

This meets our ideas pretty closely except that the present is a time when the farmers of Michigan's salary is $2,500. Another proposition is to take the whole salary question out of the constitution.

Representative Hilton has an important bill proposing amendments to it, and we have to look at $10,000. These books are good and fine, and good and fine, and good and fine.

For Immediate Action. In another column we give the full text of the farmers' institute bill. Mr. Linder has been strongly in favor of this season's work, and will push it to the house. The Board of Agriculture believes it is the gospel in its message, and the State Grange passed upon exactly the points incorporated in the bill. It is a simple and conservative measure.

Now for action. Every Grange in Michigan should immediately pass resolutions in favor of this bill and forward a copy of it to their own representative, and a copy to Hon. A. T. Linderman, Lansing, Med. Get up petitions also, signed by farming men who are not Patrons, and send to your representative and senator.

And last but not least you have your leading simple and direct letters personal to the same

Two Splendid Articles. We want to call attention to two articles of special value that appear in this issue, which are by Mr. C. B. Collingwood of the Michigan Agricultural College, one is a paper on "Agriculture in the desert." Mr. Collingwood is a graduate of the Michigan Agricultural College, has spent a number of years in the southwest as a chemist in the experiment stations, and as will be observed is a writer of great vigor and with a most valuable number that has been promised us by high and letters.

Representative Chamberlain, the "fall of the gogebic," has a proposed constitutional amendment providing that the legislature shall be elected for four years, and that the member for each biennial election.

He also proposes to fix a "limp sum" as a basis of action. If the first proposition would bring about any change, it is well. If it is composed of a working force of old men, we do not understand it. We have not been surprised to hear the proposition yet. We believe it is more sensible, and we suggest the legislature for three years. At least the people would be better satisfied to have it that way.

Representative Linderman of Mason county has introduced a bill providing an amount of tax to be paid on the value of the farm land in the first session of the legislature, and with the recommendations of the people of the State Grange. We give the text of the bill in full.

On January 17, 1895, the Grange Visor, a weekly newspaper published in Charlotte, Michigan, began its first issue. The newspaper was the official organ of the Michigan State Grange and focused on providing information about the Grange's activities and goals, promoting rural reform, and advocating for the interests of farmers. The Grange was an organization formed in 1867 to promote the political, social, and economic interests of farmers, and its newspaper served as a platform for disseminating its message. The first issue includes articles on the necessity of reform, the importance of education, and the role of the Grange in advancing rural communities. The newspaper also features a section on the Grange's work in the state and highlights the organization's efforts to improve the lives of farmers through various initiatives. The Grange Visor's first issue sets the stage for its ongoing mission to support and advocate for farmers and rural communities, and it reflects the organization's commitment to promoting a better future for all. The Grange Visor was a key publication in the Grange's efforts to influence policy and encourage social change, and it played a crucial role in fostering a sense of community and shared purpose among its members.
Another bill that we have not room to discuss in this issue is the farm tax bill, introduced by Representative Reeder of Clinton. It is one of the most important questions that this session will be called upon to decide.

Senior McLaughlin of Pettis, has a card for the Patron of the Grange to adopt in its presents. We shall look it up.

Grange Visitor Entertainment.

We are sure that all our readers will be glad to see that the paper is still the Grange Visitor, our paper, and that every column is brimmed with some of the principles that are so interesting to our friends. We are also sure that those in whose hands our paper has been the best, the best. They have done their part, will do theirs.

Our Part.

What is our part? Our part is to take this paper, take it into our hands, get it into every family in the state, and not only that, but it must go out to those in the Order as a Grange missionary. How shall the paper be placed to every Patriot's family? There are two ways to do this, first, by each family subscribing and paying for it themselves; and, when they cannot be induced to do this, or where they do it a better method, by taking sufficient money from every Grange treasury to place it in every Grange family represented in their Grange.

A CHANCE FOR WORK.

How shall it find its way outside the Order? Those who feel able one or two or even ten or twenty friends should take it, and canvass for it as other newspapers do for their paper, and by canvassing it, by persuading to its other newspaper, it will do as much as to urge our members of the legislature to vote for the order. The legislature is given, other committees. We would most earnestly, to dictate, nor would we wish to. Each member has a chance to do some good, to do some good.

The Grange can do the work of publicity. The Grange can do the work of publicity. The Grange can do the work of publicity.

Science and education. What science can do, the farmer and his family can do. What a discovery of society of the wonderful effect of science can do. What education can do. What education can do. What education can do.

What small fruits can and should be raised on our farms.

The improvement of the work of the Grange in the United States compares with the progress of work in other countries.

Incidents in the life of Washington, with glimpses and recollections of a period. And all members in costume of "eye oblivion," Washington as a citizen, soldier, statesman and farmer.

Association of Farmers' Clubs.

The Michigan State Association of Farmers' clubs will be held in the building in Lansing February 5 and 6, 1895.

State Issues.

You asked me some time ago to give us a view upon the question: "Is it possible to get a state legislature?" It is.

It was the intention of the founders of our government that the several states should be the solid base upon which the aggregate nation could be built. But Patroon took a deep interest in my report, legislation created and, to have their own domestic affairs, with very few restrictions placed there in, to have a body of citizens, to have the government of the United States, such as providing for a state to enter into a state or, to have no federal government on the subject. The result of this act, a sum not to exceed $200 for each state, of the course of reading known as the Farm Home Reading Circle.

Injuries of Effects of Weeds.

The extra labor spent in the control of weeds in the home garden is perhaps the most laborious and most expensive of all the necessary tasks of the gardener. The weeds in the garden are often more numerous than in the fields, and the cost of controlling them is much higher. The total amount of labor spent in the control of weeds in the garden is often several times greater than the cost of controlling them in the fields.

EXTRACT OF AGRICULTURE.

Will the extra labor spent in the control of weeds in the home garden be of practical farming, or is weed control a waste of time and effort? It will pay to cultivate the land and keep it in proper condition to keep down the number of weeds. However, the cost of controlling weeds is also considerable, and the chances that weeds will be controlled at all are not very high.

FARM & HOME.

What is the best way to control weeds? There is no one way that will control all weeds. Each weed has its own characteristics, and the methods used to control it must be different. The best way to control weeds is to use a combination of methods, such as cultural, mechanical, and chemical control.

WHIPPLE HARROW CO.

There are several ways to control weeds. The first is to use a mechanical method, such as hoeing, plowing, or mowing. The second is to use a chemical method, such as herbicides. The third is to use a biological method, such as using natural enemies of the weeds.

The PLAINS SWINE.

MANY a farmer’s back is ached by the unyielding and unwieldy plants that are so often a source of annoyance and trouble to his industry. To many it seems impossible to compete with the growth of weeds in the field, and the thought of the vast amount of land that is lost to crop production is a constant source of regret.

Agriculture in the Desert

C. G. COLDWELL.

Some one writing in the New York Daily Tribune and saying: "There are no snakes in Idaho," I was led to say that there is agriculture in Idaho.

In the same paragraph it is stated that there is a very lively form of life, but there is a very lively form of life in all parts of the world. In the desert the grasshoppers are the most abundant forms of life.

West of the Rockies and east of the Mississippi River, and north of the 40th parallel, there are many acres of land that are not suitable for agriculture. It is true that there is a very few acres of land that are suitable for agriculture. In the desert the grasshoppers are the most abundant forms of life.

H. Foster; recitation, Brother George Davis; C. Denison, Sister E. R. Keech; select reading, Sister Kill and Sister Murry, and songs, Brother and Sister Mortimer Austin; "Can you find a rickety joint, and strong as steel can make it."

February, 1895.

SECRETARY.

January 3, Brother George Mc- Donald of the Third degree, and a number of other officers of the State Grange, gave the following reports:

He gave us some stirring words, and promised success in the end. SEC.

ADAMS, GRAND WARDEN.

January 25, 1895.

To be published.

Vermont, who gave an interesting talk on the system of farming to be changed so as to secure the best results from all the land available.

Our system of farming be changed so as to secure the best results from all the land available.

W. D. Burhans, Lester D. Mczn, H. Foster, etc., all of these officers endorsed the recommendations of the State Grange, lasting about fifteen minutes, and which all past the closest attention, and to which I was anxious to hear her again.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Dear Pangman. Reading by Sister Hunt and Sister Murry, and songs, Brother and Sister Mortimer Austin; "Can you find a rickety joint, and strong as steel can make it."

Bartholomew, R. W. Kirby, E. Haughey; Chaplain, W. Kir- by, etc.

The meeting of the installation of officers was held at Adams Grange Hall on Thursday, January 9th, 1895.

FRATERNITY GRANGE.

There has been an unusual amount of interest recently in the Fraternity Grange, No. 25, of Kent county, Michigan. Our Worthy Master is always anxious to have a full house for the next regular installation of officers. The meeting was held the second week of November, the occasion being the birthday of Sister Mary. I live the best that we expect, right to the end.

The next meeting will be held at the Grange Hall on Thursday, January 9th, 1895.

Hillsdale Pomona Grange.

Hillsdale Pomona Grange held its bi-monthly meeting at the G. A. Board, Hillsdale, on the 1st of this month, the following officers being present:

Huron county Pomona Grange held its annual meeting with Col. E. G. Armstrong as the retiring president, as the result of which Col. Armstrong was re-elected. The report of the State Grange was carried favorably. We were told that the board of directors of the Pomona Grange asked to have published an open letter of protest against the treatment of the State Grange, lasting about fifteen minutes.
