The JELL-O Girl at Grand Canyon

No. 12
THE JELL-O GIRL AT THE GRAND CANYON

The Jell-O Girl awaited her first view of the Grand Canyon with the greatest interest and delight. On the train to El Tovar, where they were to stop, she talked constantly, to Polly, her pet parrot and faithful companion, of the wonderful sights in store for them. Polly was properly impressed and kept saying “Bless my heart” whenever her little mistress stopped for breath.

Arriving at the hotel, our little friend could hardly wait to get out upon the platform overlooking the Canyon. It was even more wonderful than she had thought. From where she stood it was twelve miles across to the other side of the mighty gulch. She stared down, down, at the slender ribbon of the Colorado River, thousands of feet below. The late afternoon sun caught up and burnished the myriad colors of the rocks until the Jell-O Girl felt she could imagine herself gazing at a city of fairy palaces.

In the early evening she went out again upon the platform and even walked a little way along the edge of the Canyon. There was no moon; away from the Canyon stretched miles of quiet desert, occasionally a coyote howled, and overhead the Milky Way glowed.
in the night sky. In the dim light of the stars she could see the points and ledges rising out of a bottomless pit of blackness. It was mysterious and wonderful, frightening the little girl somewhat. So she turned back to the hotel and she and Polly spent the rest of the evening in looking at Indian blankets and baskets.

Early in the morning a party started down Bright Angel Trail for the bottom of the Grand Canyon. Among them was the Jell-O Girl, riding a burro, and carrying Polly safely on her arm. Down and down led the trail, but the sure-footed burros never halted or stumbled. At Halfway House they rested and then went on down to the very edge of the Colorado River. This river is very swift and strong. In thousands of years it has worn away that greatest of gulches, the Grand Canyon. It is still deepening its bed. The Jell-O Girl stood at the edge of the powerful river, then looked up. Far overhead reached the rocky spires, with their bright colors in the Arizona sunlight.

It was with real regret that the Jell-O Girl took the train next morning, for, in leaving Grand Canyon, she felt she was saying good-bye to one of the most wonderful places in all America.

JELL-O RECIPES

CHERRY WHIP

Dissolve a package of Cherry Jell-O in a pint of boiling water. When cold, but not yet congealing, whip to consistency of whipped cream. Pile into a glass dish or serve in individual glasses with whipped cream or custard sauce.

CHOCOLATE JELL-O

Dissolve a package of Chocolate Jell-O in a pint of boiling milk. Pour into individual moulds. Let harden. Garnish with whipped cream or serve plain.

CHOCOLATE BLANC MANGE WITH NUTS

Make a paste of a box of Chocolate Jell-O and a little milk taken from a pint, adding the milk slowly. Heat the rest of the pint of milk to boiling and stir into the Jell-O. Set aside to cool, and when it stiffens put in a half cup of almonds, shelled, blanched, and chopped fine. Pour into cups and when firm turn out on a flat dish, decorating the small shapes with blanched almonds cut in strips.
APPLE SNOW JELL-O

Dissolve a package of Strawberry Jell-O in a pint of boiling water. When partly cold turn into sherbet glasses, filling three-quarters full. When firm pile Apple Snow on top. To make Apple Snow dissolve one-half package of Lemon Jell-O in half a pint of boiling water. When cool whip to consistency of thick whipped cream. Then add one grated apple and four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Raspberry or Cherry Jell-O may be used instead of Strawberry.

GINGER ALE SALAD

Pour one-half cup of boiling water over one package of Lemon Jell-O, set in hot water till thoroughly dissolved, stirring all the time. Cool and add one and one-half cups ginger ale. Set in a cold place until it begins to thicken, then stir in one-fourth cup finely cut nutmeats, one-fourth cup finely cut celery, one cup finely cut assorted fruits (pineapple, orange, apple, cherries or grapes), one tablespoonful finely cut crystallized ginger.
