Hard Times Hit Women Hardest

Men do a lot of talking about this depression but it's the women who suffer most, in the long run. It's the woman who concocts tasty meals out of almost nothing. It's the woman who washes and irons and patches and makes over that her family may be decently clad. It's the woman who shoulders, if necessary, the double job of wage earner and homemaker and does it heroically. Take the case of Ruth Benefiel.

She lives in Indianapolis. Although she is only thirty-one years old, she has been the mother of eight children. Two are dead. For over a year her husband has been out of work, like many another man. With eight mouths to feed, something had to be done. Mrs. Benefiel went to work. In a soap factory. The work wasn't easy. Her back often ached. She was nervous and rundown, hardly able to keep up her work, yet never able to lie down and rest. She doctored but got no relief.

"I began to think I would have to quit on account of my health" she confesses. "My sister-in-law kept urging me to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I had seen the advertisements but I thought I never could get the money to start taking it."

But she did take three bottles and how much better she felt! "It helped my nerves," she wrote us, "and I sleep better. I will be more than glad to tell other women about this medicine."

Susan Fair Is Happy Susan Now

Susan Fair (isn't that a nice name?) was a children's nurse in a pleasant suburb of New York. Susan was young and lively. The children were darlings. Taking care of them was like playing with the dolls she had treasured not so many years ago. It was a good job and Susan was happy.

Then came the clouds. Two sisters died within a week and the bottom fell out of Susan's world. She went around like one in a daze. She had to force herself to eat. Night after night she lay sleepless into the small hours of the morning. She lost weight. She became so nervous that even the care of the children was a burden. At last she gave up her position, knowing that she no longer possessed the health and the patience which her job demanded. The family worried about her.

Then a good friend suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Poor Susan was disconsolate enough to try anything. To her joy, it helped her. Almost at once she began to feel the difference. Her nerves quieted down, her appetite improved, she began to sleep better. In spite of her troubles, life began to seem worth living. "I am a new girl," Susan wrote enthusiastically last December. "I am so happy now that I am myself again. It is a wonderful medicine and I am sure it would help other women if they would only try it."

This famous medicine benefits 98 out of 100 women who write to us. Don't you suppose that it will help you too?

Persistent Use Brings Permanent Relief
"I am going through the Change of Life. I had weak spells and hot flashes. I felt all rundown and nervous. I couldn’t sleep at night and was hardly able to do my housework. I sent for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham’s Tablets and they certainly helped me. I feel like a new person. I recommend these tablets every time I have the chance."—Mrs. Berto Grant, Route #2, Box 69, Soddy, Tennessee.

"I read your advertisement in Comfort and I heard how good your medicine was, so I took the Tablets. I was all rundown, my back ached, and I had nervous spells and painful periods. Since I took these Tablets I feel a lot better."—Callie McQueen, Queen, North Carolina.

"I am forty-nine. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham’s Tablets advertised in the daily paper and they helped me very much at Change of Life. I also use the Sanative Wash for douches. I recommend the Pinkham medicines highly."—Mrs. B. Nadeau, 2 Hoffman St., Poughkeepsie, New York.

"Seven years ago, before my last baby was born, I was terribly sick. My feet and legs were swollen twice as big as normal and I flowed for two months. My mother used to take Lydia E. Pinkham’s Vegetable Compound so I wanted to try it. The doctors laughed at me and said I would lose the baby anyway but I told my husband to get me a bottle. I was in bed when I began taking it. On the second bottle I felt stronger and able to get up. My third bottle put me on my feet. The baby was fine and healthy. I would swear to my experience before the high court and I still use the Vegetable Compound when I get rundown."—Mrs. H. L. Owens, R. #1, Bendena, Kansas.
