MARTIN WESLEY GRAY. I have noticed several babies’ pictures in the magazines and thought you would like to add one more to your list. He is a Mellin’s Food baby, has had nothing else and is jolly and happy all day long. He was one year old when this picture was taken.—MRS. FRED. L. GRAY, Minneapolis, Minn.

Mal-Nutrition . .

A darling baby boy was born to us very nearly one year ago. I had no nourishment for him, so we tried various infant foods. Our physician recommended Mellin’s Food and now our baby is a wonder to most people; he is such a fine, large, strong, rosy boy and has been in perfect health since I commenced to use the blessed Mellin’s Food. I cannot say too much in favor of Mellin’s Food, it is a wonderful food for both mother and babe.—MRS. O. M. MCAULAY, 770 Popular St., Macon, Ga.

My baby boy when born weighed about 5 pounds and was the thinnest child you ever saw, and for two weeks, during which time I nursed him, he never gained an ounce, but cried nearly night and day. I was told of Mellin’s Food by my sister and, when baby had been fed one week on it, he had gained half a pound. Since then he has steadily increased in weight until now he is ten weeks old and weighs 10 pounds without his clothes. I have much to thank you for, as Mellin’s Food is the very best I have tried and I have tried many.—MRS. ADA SHAW, Fullerton, Neb.
JANE SAXTON, whose perfect health pays tribute to the sterling worth of Mellin's Food, began using Mellin's Food when five days old; she is now a few days past seventeen months and has never been sick. She has passed through the period of first dentition with little or no suffering, as only a perfectly healthy baby can do, and as perfect health can come only from proper nourishment, we give Mellin's Food all the credit due, and place it in the "none better" class as an infant food. It contains all the nutritive elements necessary for a healthy development and is so easily digested and assimilated that I shall take pleasure in recommending it, especially in cases of mal-assimilation and the many troubles accompanying difficult dentition. —G. B. SAXTON, D. D. S., Washington C. H., Ohio.

Teething

Am pleased to send you a photograph of our baby, Lawrence Schofield Ranger, aged seventeen months. He has cut his teeth easily and has always been a well baby. His only diet has been Mellin's Food, which I am glad to endorse as the very best food for infants.—ALICE S. RANGER, 2249 N. 13th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Our little boy, Harold, was raised on Mellin's Food from the time he was five weeks old. He experienced no trouble in cutting his teeth and was well all the time. My husband, who is a physician, recommends the use of Mellin's Food in cases where artificial feeding is necessary.—MRS. E. L. WAGGONER, Lebanon, Ill.
HARRY S. STREET.—We commenced the use of Mellin’s Food after trying several other foods, which did not seem to agree with him. I always recommend Mellin’s Food for what it has done for my baby.—MRS. HARRY W. STREET, Rowayton, Conn.

Constipation

Baby Glen Greenamyer is ten months old and weighs 25 pounds. We tried a number of foods and treatments to relieve constipation and colic, but found nothing satisfactory until we tried Mellin’s Food. He has not been sick a minute since we commenced using Mellin’s Food five months ago.—A. B. GREENAMYER, Piqua, O.

My baby is the picture of health. A friend who has not seen her since I commenced to give her Mellin’s Food said, “Why, how she has grown and she is big and stout like all Mellin’s Food babies.” Before she had Mellin’s, she was so troubled with colic and constipation that she required almost constant attendance and a dose of medicine every day; the colic disappeared at once and in a few days her movements were natural without physic. I am very glad for the many good nights’ rest I have had since using the food.—MRS. J. A. PITTS, Kennebunkport, Maine.

I have been and am still using Mellin’s Food with the correct proportions as directed, and my boy is growing very fast. His bowels are in good order and he sleeps well at night. I can truthfully recommend Mellin’s Food to be the best substitute for mother’s milk that is known.—MRS. C. A. POWELL, Georgetown, Ga.
KATHERINE RUTLEDGE, two and a half years old, owes her present good health and strength to Mellin’s Food.—Mrs. H. C. Rutledge, San Bernardino, Cal.

Indigestion

My little daughter, Isabel, owes her present condition of perfect health to Mellin’s Food. At the age of two months and sixteen days she weighed only 6 pounds and could not digest food of any kind. We were extremely uneasy about her but upon the advice of a physician we gave her Mellin’s Food with her milk. In a few days we noted a change for the better; in a week the improvement was marked and to-day, at the age of five months and three weeks, she weighs 21 pounds. All mothers should know the value of Mellin’s Food.—Mrs. Briscoe B. Bouldin, Greensboro, N. C.

Our baby seemed to have a weak stomach and was troubled constantly with indigestion. We tried almost everything that was on the market but had little success until we began using Mellin’s Food. Now there is no more active or hardy or happier baby than ours in this country. He is a type of perfect babyhood.—Rev. W. M. Curry, Linesville, Pa.

When I started to use Mellin’s Food my baby was nothing but skin and bones; everyone thought that he would not live. I tried every kind of food but he could not digest any of them and he did not sleep one hour either day or night. My father advised me to try Mellin’s Food, as I had a sister raised on it. Although I had no faith in it at the time, I tried it. From the first my baby began to thrive and he is now a healthy boy.—Mrs. K. B. Maas, Philadelphia, Pa.
HERBERT LEAMAN SHONTZ lives in Philadelphia. Mrs. Shontz is much pleased with Mellin’s Food and writes as follows: “I send a photograph of our baby, Herbert Leaman Shontz, seven months old, which will testify better to the excellence of Mellin’s Food than any amount of words.”

Gain in Weight..

Our baby sleeps well and is constantly gaining in weight and we think him the brightest baby for his age in this locality. Having had experience in the care of bottle-babies and the use of many other foods in rearing three other children, I am ready to say that Mellin’s Food is far superior to all others tested by me.—MRS. A. ALEXANDER, 1757 Superior St., Cleveland, Ohio.

We have an infant six weeks old that has been fed entirely on Mellin’s Food. She has never been sick an hour, not even with colic; she gained 15 ounces in one week and is in every respect doing finely. I have used other foods with other children and some of the children have done fairly well, but none of the other foods are, in my opinion, worthy to be compared with Mellin’s.—MRS. N. T. HARTSHORN, South Sandisfield, Mass.

We are feeding our baby, three months old, on Mellin’s Food. She is doing well now. Before using Mellin’s Food she weighed no more than at birth and was very poor. She is now gaining about one-quarter pound each week and acts like a different baby.—JOHN R. JONES, East Troy, Pa.
DOROTHY, MARY and GARFORD OLIVER. I send you herewith a photograph of our three babies, whose sustenance from the time their eyes opened to the light of day until a regulation diet was permissible, has been Mellin’s Food exclusively, and the result has been desirable to a degree. They have been unusually strong and healthy always, and have weathered the diseases of childhood. Two are still using Mellin’s Food.—EDWIN OLIVER, Flushing, N. Y.

Cholera Infantum . . . I have Mellin’s Food to thank for saving my baby’s life. She had summer complaint and was very low, and as I had brought up my boy (who is five years old now) on Mellin’s Food, I thought I would try it for her, and in less than two days she was greatly improved and now is perfectly well and growing stout. I recommend Mellin’s Food to all friends and acquaintances.—MRS. L. ANDERSON, Van Wyck Avenue, Jamaica, L. I.

I am confident that Mellin’s Food has saved the lives of many babies in this vicinity. A girl baby of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M——, seventeen months old, had cholera infantum; I was called and found a very small, frail imitation of a child, stomach and bowels badly inflamed, and vomiting every few minutes. I immediately prescribed Mellin’s Food 3 drams; boiling water 1 oz.; boiled milk, cold, 1 oz.; one teaspoonful every 20 minutes. The very first dose she retained and commenced improving rapidly; now the child is fat and healthy.—S. P. MILLER, M. D., Rockwood, Ill.
ROBERT, RANKIN and ALEXANDER MASON. I take pleasure in sending these photographs of my triplets who were raised on Mellin’s Food. They were frail little things, their combined weight when one month old being 11 1/4 pounds. They were eight years old November, 1898, and are the three finest, most beautiful boys in our Grand Old Commonwealth. They are now as large as other boys of the same age, are so much alike that few persons besides the family can tell them apart, are rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed and strong. They are living testimonials to the merits of Mellin’s Food. —MRS. J. C. MASON, Richmond, Ky.

With Breast Milk

I was nursing my baby, but did not have milk enough for him. I had such a time with him when I tried to give him the bottle that I was about discouraged. After reading your book I gave up tea entirely, drank cocoa and milk with Mellin’s Food, sometimes with just hot water; since then I have had plenty of milk and do not have to feed him at all. It is much better than wine to keep one up and does not give baby the colic. It seems so good not to have baby act half starved all the time.—MRS. ROBERT GALLOWAY, Binghamton, N. Y.

The sample of Mellin’s Food came in due time and we have given it a trial with good results, my wife using it to strengthen her after nursing the babe. I heartily commend it for nursing mothers for strengthening qualities.—M. C. SHOEMAKER, Auburn, N. Y.
GEORGE L. WHITE lives in Dillon, Mont., and was 2 years and 4 months old when the picture was taken.

Second Summer

Our baby, Dorothy, has been raised on Mellin’s Food from the first two months of her life. Even with the excessive heat and her teething, she did not seem to lose at all this summer. She is unusually strong and active, very different from our first baby, who was not a Mellin’s Food baby.—MRS. CHANNING TAYLOR, 519 Marion St., Oak Park, Ill.

I used the sample you sent me and have continued the use of Mellin’s Food since. Had previously given other foods a thorough trial and by experience found Mellin’s Food to be superior to all others. I cheerfully recommend your preparation for not only weakly children but for healthy babies also.—MRS. JAMES MEAD, 147 Howard Ave., Ansonia, Conn.

We began the use of Mellin’s Food and found it as recommended. Gladys is now three years old, is the picture of health and has never been sick a day in her life. I think Mellin’s Food can not be praised too highly.—MRS. BERNICE SEALOCK, Portia, Kansas.

Our baby is doing all we could ask. Has gained eight ounces per week for the last six weeks, eats and sleeps well, is happy all day long and has developed a perfect digestion out of a most imperfect one. Such a healthy baby is the best testimonial to Mellin’s Food. —MRS. F. W. BARROWS, 45 Park St., Buffalo, N. Y.
GEORGE LEONARD WHITE.
MILDRED PERRY BOSSERMAN is a living testimonial for Mellin's Food. It was given her when only three weeks old and continued until she was three years of age. She has never had any serious illness. Mellin's Food has been her life. I cheerfully endorse it.—MRS. W. E. BOSSERMAN, Norway, Maine.

Acute Illness

Our boy has been brought up entirely on Mellin's Food. At the age of eight months he was taken with pneumonia, then he had congestion of the brain and afterwards, congestion of the bowels. The doctors agreed that it was his wonderful constitution that brought him through. We can cheerfully recommend Mellin's Food.—O. N. BRAINARD, JR., 30 Commercial Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

Having used your Mellin's Food since July, I highly recommend it for babies. I have a little boy who had eczema very badly and the doctor advised Mellin's Food. I tried it and firmly believe it was the means of saving my baby's life. He was a poor, little, thin skeleton and now he is a fat, plump, little fellow.—MRS. E. G. KELLEY, 54th St. and 16th Ave., Blythebourne, L. I.

I send you a photograph of a Mellin's Food baby whose mother was taken down with typhoid fever when he was four weeks old. A week later he was put on artificial foods of different kinds and when seven weeks old he had a severe attack of the typhoid fever. Mellin's Food was the only thing he could retain and as soon as the fever was gone he began to grow and to-day is a strong, happy boy.—L. E. CLARK, Thorntown, Ind.
MARGARET McCLANE PEMBERTON lives in Columbia, Mo. Mrs. Pemberton writes to us as follows: "I wish to join the host of mothers all over the country in the praise of Mellin’s Food. When baby was born I began the use of a baby food that was recommended to me, but found that it was of little value and then began the use of Mellin’s Food, which I have constantly used since. I cannot express my gratitude in words, but ask you to take a look at the enclosed picture of Margaret McClane Pemberton, which tells the whole story."

Colic... Up to seven weeks ago our baby was a constant little colic sufferer, screaming almost incessantly day and night. We used Mellin’s Food but a week when a change was noticed. Now, at the expiration of seven weeks, the change is remarkable. Baby is growing fat and good-natured, with no more of those dreadful colic spells. This much for Mellin’s Food. I will tell of its wonders to every tired and weary mother of a colicky baby so long as I live and come in contact with her.—MRS. W. H. FUNK, Sandford, Fla.

I have a boy to whom we gave Mellin’s Food after trying several other things. He was five weeks old and cross and peevish and apparently colicky. For the last three weeks he has gained in weight, good looks and good humor, and sleeps well at night as well as day.—CHAS. C. WHEDON, St. Paul Building, New York City.
RUBY FRANCES CARTER is pleased and happy with her Mellin's Food and milk; she is now six months old and weighs over 20 pounds. This picture of our little girl was taken when she was four months old.—MR. AND MRS. F. I. CARTER, Tewksbury, Mass.

Young Infants.

My little son, one year old, has never eaten one mouthful of anything but Mellin's Food prepared as you direct. He has never had the slightest indication of even momentary illness or felt uncomfortable, so far as we have been able to discover—no fever, colic or other infantile illness even while teething. He is now the perfect picture of health and good nature.—MRS. MAY A. CAREY, 1518 California St., San Francisco, Cal.

I have a little baby boy who has never used anything but Mellin's Food since he was three days old; and a healthier, happier, stronger baby you can not find. He weighs 23 pounds, has ten teeth and has never been sick a day; sleeps all night and is a perfect picture of health.—MRS. G. W. SPENCER, Lebanon, Ohio.

Because the mother's milk failed we tried condensed milk for baby but that did not agree. We received your book, "The Care and Feeding of Infants," and a sample of the food, which we immediately tried with very fine results. From that time until he was twenty months of age we used Mellin's Food. He passed through two summers with no trouble at all. He has never had a sick day in his life, has all his teeth and is as large as most children 3½ years old, while he is only 2½.—MRS. DORA B. DRIVER, 94 Perkins St., Lynn, Mass.
LINDA, BRENDA and GERTRUDE MACDONALD were raised on Mellin’s Food. They are all happy, well children, and I can recommend Mellin’s Food to any mother who cannot nurse her baby.—MRS. GERTRUDE E. MACDONALD, Roxbury, Mass.

Sleep... I have a baby girl nine months old who has been fed on Mellin’s Food since she was two days old. She has never known a day’s illness, sleeps all night and is good-natured during the day. I have changed milk quite often without the least trouble. I know a number of children here, who were raised on Mellin’s Food and they are so much healthier compared with other children that it is surprising to note the difference.—MRS. E. J. HALL, 74 Bishop St., Olean, N. Y.

My little girl was very small at birth, and her weight was only 6 pounds. I started giving her Mellin’s Food at the age of six weeks and she gained rapidly. She has always slept the entire night and I never had the trouble of getting up at night with her. She is now fifteen months old, weighs 35 pounds and is the happiest, healthiest and brightest child in town. —MRS. E. C. BENNETT, Cheyenne, Wyo.

My baby is fifteen months old, and a very healthy child, is happy all day and sleeps well all night; has cut his teeth without any trouble. A number of people have remarked that he looked like a Mellin’s Food baby.—MRS. G. F. WHITING, 22 Bigelow St., Cambridgeport, Mass.
