NOT SO DIFFERENT
It is to be hoped that the large number engaged in the traditions of the Freshman class are not inten ded to adopt the impression that they no longer are compe tent to observe the traditions en forced of their class members.
When the Freshman class was organized the traditions of its members were observed in qua lity. Of course, the same tradi tions must be observed, whether they are now in the hands of stu dents or of persons.
"The episode of last spring and the present situation at the University of Michigan are not so different. Very much the same factors are operating at the present time," said Herr von Dey School is going to have to be more careful in the enforcement of their traditions, even though it is now their responsibility to do it.
