THE COUNCIL IS DEAD—LONG LIVE THE COUNCIL

Dear Editor:

Recently I heard the student body express dissatisfaction with the student council and the functions of the council. I can only say that I think this is an overreaction to a very minor situation.

The president of the organization is apparently interested only in a certain number of his own friends and is not willing to entertain any opposition. As a result, the organization has grown too big for his comfort, and he is now willing to give it all up and start over, so to speak. The council has never had a chance to develop its own ideas and to work as a group.

I think that the student council should be given another chance to develop its own ideas and to work as a group.
