EXCHANGE DINNER

An Interfraternity Council has a desire to work with a view to establishing a series of exchange-dinners between fraternity houses within the limits of the moratorium on all social activities as held by the institutions.

This plan is highly creditable and one of the Interfraternity Council has done well in adopting. The interchange of dinners will lead directly to the exchange of ideas and through the medium of new and different mingling of different groups will have a strong tendency to make the social groups into a much stronger bond that should otherwise be broken.

The State News suggested in its editorial column several months ago that the adoption of a plan of this kind would have a far reaching influence in bringing about the fraternal and intimate relation that otherwise would have no chance of making.

Outstanding men in the several groups would not have a view of the membership, and would perhaps form a closer relationship with the outside relations because he has never participated in outside activities.

Fraternal men should cooperate with this measure and bring about an intimate and friendly manner to everyone they meet on the campus.

It does, however, believe that it is possible and workable.

The Council suggests, if put into practice as it has been adopted by the Interfraternity Council, it may do much to improve the bond by the exchange of ideas and through the medium of new and different mingling of different groups would have a strong tendency to make the social groups into a much stronger bond that should otherwise be broken.
