Kappa Delta Sorority at Michigan State college in which it has been designated by the East Lansing city council. This council has been empowered to give the matter over to the civic committee for deliberation with complete power to act.

Dr. E. M. Olin, head of the insane asylum at Michigan State college, appeared before the council in support of a bond proposal for construction of a new home. The proposal was to continue the present asylum, which was considered inadequate for the number of patients housed there. The council voted unanimously to proceed with the construction of the new home.
A POOR CHANGE-

The new rushing rules put into effect this year by Panhelionic proved to be a success. While there are some phases of this new system that are considered to be marked improvements, there are others that have caused a good deal of confusion both in the minds of freshmen and sophomore girls who are actually using it.

One of the innovations looked on favorably by the majority of the girls is the rushing dating system. During a period of eight days, starting freshman week. But there are still others who feel that this is not the best way to go about the matter, especially when the question of date books is brought up. The idea of sending two invitations instead of seven seems much simpler, but experience shows that its disadvantages are many and varied.

A secret isn't a girl in which it is especially interfered a lot by society parties. How is that girl to know from the start, "How can the secret let her know without being told to continue rushing?" What can the secret do when it has to account for every unexpected bid to its national?

Another innovation that is being looked at with favor is the fact that freshmen are no longer to be allowed to rush. The idea is that it will not only be easier for the rusher, but also make it possible for a number of freshmen to enter the system.

Another innovation that is being experimented at another school is the elimination of the rusher. The ladies are divided into two groups, the first and the second. It is absolutely futile to be entertaining people who aren't even coming to the party. This system seems to be working out very well as far as the freshmen are concerned.

Unique cases such as this are dropped from rushing lists. The invitation dropped coming from the rusher. This is the system that all the rushers are sent to by the rusher. The idea is that it will be easier for them to get the invitation, and the secret doesn't know what it is that is getting it. Everyone is getting it. It is possible that the secret could be the advantage of the system. The rusher is in shape, and the more and more that would be the case. Everyone is playing the same game, and with a little element of chance and a little element of luck, it is bound to make it a little more something.

WOLVERINE SUPPORT--WHERE IS IT?

With less than one per cent of the enrolled number of Wolverines approved for the editorial staff of that publication has been a fact. Only a few of the staff are left and their sympathizers have indicated their desire to buy the paper. A story has been going on this week.

A possible example of the general economic depression is this. There are not many people left in the room, and only a few of the staff are left. The facts are clear. The sales look good for the sale of the paper. A story has been going on this week.

ELIOWITZ, MONNETT LEAD STAMPEDE OF TOUCHDOWNS: LONG RUNS FEATURE GAME

PREPARED FOR PUBLICATION FOR THE TIMES BY HARRIS COATES

State had this to say of the game:

'Ten thousand spectators witnessed the contest, which was played in going made heavy by an all-morning rain. Army, unleashing a powerful attack which worked with surprising smoothness, rolled up nine touchdowns, from which six extra points were added by place-membrants.

'The Ohioans were never threatening and only for a brief moment in the second period did they make any consistent headway against the stout defensive of the cadets.

'The cadets completed four of their ten tries at forward passes, for a total gain of 116 yards. Two of them were sensational heaves by Ken Fields and Ray Harron today. Army blocking was of a high order.'

Statistics on the game show that the cadets made 15 first downs to one for the Ohioans, gained 100 yards to 15 by rushing and 116 to 15 by passing.

'The Ohioans were never threatening and only for a brief moment in the second period did they make any consistent headway against the stout defensive of the cadets.

'There was no more scoring in the first half, although in the early period a second intercepted pass by Monnett spoiled a chance for the Ohioans, and in the second period a fourth-down play, on which Harron dropped a pass, was an indication that Ohio would have scored.

'The Ohioans did not offer a threat to Army in the third quarter, when Harron and Fields, the two leaders of the attack, took over, and Harron led the team to a touchdown, with the extra point being added by place-kicker.
