Glistening Need Number 1:
An Auditorium
By W. FAWCETT THOMPSON
The time has come when the Fine Arts must have a home on the campus of the Michigan State College. This home must in¬ clude an auditorium with a seating capacity of four or five thousand for functions involv¬ ing the college as a whole; a theater of cinema and drama to provide a staging ground for the presentation of plays, concerts, and dance rehearsals; a studio for visual artists and rehearsal rooms to accommodate students of the arts. The necessity of such a facility is immediately apparent. The aesthetic needs of the student are not being satisfied.

The need for such a facility is in¬ pulsating to the possibility that it may be impossible to meet all demands for use of the Auditorium. The Fine Arts cannot prosper or continue to grow if their students are not provided with the necessary equipment. They are competing unfairly with other students for space and time. This is an injustice which should be rectified. The Fine Arts must be provided with the necessary facilities to continue to function properly.
