Big Increase Expected In All Divisions

East Lansing public schools will open their doors Monday morning, September 12, with increased enrollments in all divisions of the system, according to an announcement by Superintendent Donald O'Barr.

"The enrollments are higher than anticipated," he said, "and we had to make provisions for extra room at all of the elementary schools. The indications are that there will also be a considerable increase in the number of students in the high school as well."

All Experenced

At the high school, three new teachers will appear on the faculty. Among them are Miss Martha Grice, graduate of the University of Michigan, who will supervise at the high school. Miss Grice and Mr. R. W. Duke are expected to attend the first summer session in the University's department of education in Germany and Austria.

Miss Barnes Heads Home Ec. and Business Department

Miss Margaret M. Barnes will direct the high school home economics department. Miss Barnes has her degree from Michigan State college and has taught at Alma and Grand Ledge. The home economics department will be headed by the new Miss Barnes, with Miss Myrtle Gribbs, who holds her degree from Oakland City college. She taught at Walker, and has done special work with the Refectory.

New Teachers will be at Central

Mrs. Alice W. Ballew comes from Central central school and will be a member of the faculty. Mrs. Ballew, who has her degree from Northern State Teachers college, has been teaching in Saginaw public schools. She will teach in the English department. Miss Elizabeth Hocking will teach the art grade. She has her degree from Northern State Teachers college.

Graduate work at the University of Michigan, and is a experienced teacher from the Kalamazoo area. The fourth grade at Central Board school has been reorganized, and will be taught by Miss Lida Loughland, a graduate of Northern State Teachers college, and experienced teacher from Jackson. Miss Sally Black will be in charge of the sixth grade in John, and will teach the sixth grade at the junior high school as well.

State Looks Good is General Opinion, Given by Reporter

By Marshall Dan

"State Looks Good" is general opinion, given by reporter best they've ever had—they'll take Michigan.

Miss Beatrice Kliner, reporter, "I'm sure they're going to like it."

At Gales, high school student, "lots of veterans back, that's a sign of a good learn. Michigan with a new coach."

Jack Warner, State grade and sports editor of the State News in 1922, 1923 and 1924, and a member of the team, as 22 from the standpoint of both players and coaching staff. If they get started early in the season, they'll be through."

T. K. Burd, State paving, "Of course they're good, and I'm going to Ann Arbor to see them."

Burd's School, East Lansing police station is going to win all.

Christenson, junior, "I don't think we'll lose this one."

WAKR Goes Back Stage to Learn About the Weather

If you want to learn something about weather forecasting, respect to heat or cold, wetness or dryness, rain or snow, chances of Pheasants and rainfall, and any other meteorological phenomena, tune your radio to WAKR at 5.30 this afternoon when H. M. Wells, college meteorologist, will discuss the use of the various weather instruments in calculating the climate of the area.

Patton at Mike

Mr. William Patton is being introduced by Curtis Patton. WAKR will broadcast this program at 3:00 Wednesday, from the studio at 3:00 every Wednesday. Patton will broadcast from a weather bureau on the 300-foot tower which exposes many of the instruments to atmospheric conditions. The rest of the day's broadcast will come from the weather bureau office and from the instruments themselves.

Ground Tower

According to Mr. Wells, the tower is one of the tallest used in any meteorological work. Most of the other weather bureaus have two 300-foot towers, located on top of tall buildings. The one at Western Michigan University, that is located on top of the 300-foot tower, is located on top of tall buildings. The one at Western Michigan University, that is located on the tower, is located on the ground, and is the meteorologists believe, is a much more satisfactory method of exposing instruments.

Ag Board Will Meet Tuesday To Accept Aid

A special meeting of the State Board of Agriculture on Tuesday will accept FHA grants for construction of a new medical school at the University of Michigan. The board will also consider a request for a building for the College of Agriculture. The board has already approved $42,000 toward the cost of this building. The eventual construction of the pavilion at the College of Agriculture will depend upon the college's finding means to raise $50,000 as a share of its cost.

Auditorium Approved

The auditorium has been approved on an auditorium building for the college. Approximately $50,000 of the $136,000 total cost will be paid from student activity fees over a 20-year period. Auditorium construction and financing plans will be completed at Tuesday's meeting.

Bids for the hospital general construction will be requested at Secretary Harlow's office after 2 p.m. today. The $200,000 hospital will be constructed with FHA aid totaling $12,000. The state board has approved borrowing of $137,000, to cover equipment and financing plans for the hospital.

"We are getting this service at no cost to the system. Superintendent O'Hara recommended the same in 1922, and is cooperates in this way with Dr. Barrett's department, this community is assured of the most comprehensive health program for the children, now and for the future."

The toll limit for the "cure of East Lansing" license have been extended to October 15, according to Barry Leit, city clerk.

Dr. and Mrs. L. B. Shaw and Mrs. Roberta, Mrs. Shaw's mother, have just returned from the conference to receive each a check. They previously served as vice president and last year as president.

Dressel Gets Presidency

Karl Dressel, assistant professor of forestry at Michigan State college, has been elected president of the National Rifle Tree conference which met at St. Louis, Missouri. Professor Dressel is the third man to hold the presidency of the conference since 1921. He previously served as vice president and last year as president.

Boost 'Factory'

School are opening, football practice is starting, vacuum cleaners are being sold, and East Lansing looks in anticipation of Sept. 19, which will usher in over 7,500 new students in Michigan State college.

Householders are buying their meals the last minute "second effort" to attract new owners, or please the old standby. Businessmen are setting up "pop-up" shops to meet the tremendous demand of a student body numbering over 8,000. Thirsty Summer is once and now another round in the cooler chair of school years in the serving.

C. W. Oberle, at recent meeting of the East Lansing Merchants' Club, said that East Lansing should not encourage the college at a factory town concept, that industry, industries 5 on the campus that the school represented a source of income to merchants, as certain money will be spent by factory workers. A higher student will soon be here to live. They will make East Lansing they home and be a part of it. They will bring prosperity to the town, which has just experienced a summer of "cold weather." Truly the city should feel fortunate if it does have the "factory" and that it will not reopen.

EAST LANSING'S CANDIDATE FOR

STATE LEGISLATURE

(Second Ingham County District)

As a member of the State Board of Agriculture for 12 years, Mrs. Stockman worked long and faithfully in the interests of Michigan State College, the one leg East Lansing Industry. Records show that it was largely through her efforts that the Home Economics building, one of the finest in the country, was erected on the M. S. C. campus.

Today, Mrs. Stockman is a member of the State Tax Study Commission and it is the report of this commission which will form the basis for constructive tax legislation by the 1939 Legislature.

Mrs. Stockman's past record shows she is:

1. A real homemaker.

2. A planner in extension work for women and children and twelve years on the State Board of Agriculture.

3. A leader in Grange and other farm organizations, Secretary of National Rural Home Council.

4. A leader for legislation giving equal rights in school and youth opportunities.

5. A leader and fighter for equalization of taxation.

6. Today a member of the State Tax Study Commission, whose report will be the basis of 1939 taxation revision.

7. A woman who has helped achieve big things, but with a practical home, hard sense.

Let's win with Dora H. Stockman who HAS and WILL work FOR us and WITH us.

PWA Grant Supplements Bond Issue

Proposed improvements would receive $289,451 aid

By Charles Wells

A PWA grant of $289,451 has been approved for the construction of a new water tower, a new water supph3r building, and the installation of new sewers on the west side of East Lansing. Notification was received Wednesday from Washington, D. C., by City Clerk Henry H. Fager.

Up for Vote

There is one condition, however, that must be met before the work can be started. The city council will meet next Tuesday, to consider final plans and specifications in connection with the project. Voting on the bond issue will take place at the same time.

The grant was made possible by the presence of a record office of the PWA. According to an offer, 90 per cent of the work on the west side of town is in hand, and only a few minor items of the increased number of buildings that have recently been erected. The state water control commission has been instructed that the city of East Lansing may improve the waste disposal plant by the addition of the so-called 'cesspool treatment.' A higher degree of pollution has been removed than was necessary at the time the present plant was constructed according to the city engineer.

Mayor Be Only Choice

The location of East Lansing has recently doubled since the waste plant now in operation was opened, according to figures. The capacity of the present plant is as

MVC Enrollment May Exceed 1937

Admission of new students for the fall term yesterday totaled 2,140, 214 more than for the corresponding day of last year, according to the registrar's office reported.

In 1936, 2,140 students enrolled in the fall semester, or a little more than 10 per cent over the 1935 enrollment.

THE SCOREKEEPER

By DAVID TUFFY

The last straw has settled on the diamond and the last white shoe has been kicked off into a closet corner for the last time this summer by the time this goes to press. Summer has come to its unofficial end and fall is just approaching.

And with fall and the Michigan game in the offing it's just about time for the inevitable complaints of the emptied wrappers of subscribing and proofreading—to begin their annual round.

The shifting eves against proscription can be diminished, it seems to us, as do the dir stricken and some obscure parent who could never hope to make the headlines are other ways. To proscription is to swear and dissimulate, and to these are days of Aristotle and Aristophanes.

Readers! Michigan State's 1938 football team will be right up there, tackling and tackling, at least in the early stages of the season, as the pictures that have been released indicate.

Coach H. A. Shaver, as he pertinently did, even his future football team going through its first workout of the season Wednesday morning, Shaver's clow is somewhat for he has only eleven veterans returning from last year's squad and six of them are tackle-type men. Bob McCarthy, Max Phillips, Dick Grossfeld, and Johnny Fabian head the list of returning backs. Letter winners among the interiors are led by Dick Holbrook, a center, Dick Morris and Harmon Robertson, guards, and Alvin Gainer and Hurl Brown at the tackles.

This leaves Shaver minus any experienced ends. Jack Weaver, a letter winner in the backfield last year, has been converted into an end, as has All Gambie. Both boys apparently have the qualities needed, for they both are hard and sure tacklers and can catch passes with ability. Jack Draper, a sophomore, looks to us as though he would be an up-and-coming guard and along with Roy Dreyfus, head the list of newcomers likely to be a lot of interest this year. Draper is a speedy halfback with lots of punting ability.

The question is, is it fair to them?

Consider a self-supporting athletic, during his season. He must work from two and a half to three hours a day for his board. Offentimes another hour or two of reading. Then he has to practice.
