The Daily Washington Merry-go-round

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Most conspicuous cocktail party ever held in Washington was hosted by Paul McKay, then the newly appointed High Commissioner to the Philippines, and would be President of the United States. That event was the most exciting pageant of political showmanship ever staged in Washington and now, two years later, long heated political strategists still are debating the wisdom of it.

Weather wise or not, all agree that the strategy of Paul McKay today has changed the complexion of other political strategies... With the Modern Greeks

By MARY LEE SCHROEDER

In the exclusive area of the Wolf Westminster Hotel, Mrs. McKay hosted a party in honor of her husband, who was presented by the Greek Embassy. The guests included the Greek Embassy's Vice President, Ronald P. Browne, and Mrs. Mildred F. Mitchell.

Merry-go-round

Early in the evening, Paul McKay received a congratulatory call from President Roosevelt, whose office had been moved to the new Senate wing of the Capitol. McKay expressed appreciation for the call and then turned to the guests. He was later shown the new Senate wing, which he found "a revelation." McKay then turned to the guests and said, "I want to thank you for coming to this party. I am sure that you will enjoy yourselves and that you will gain the same pleasure that I have gained from your company.

Football: Here Today And Still Here Tomorrow

"Starting tomorrow you're going to see the real Michigan State," Van Alstyne, Michigan State's basketball coach, said Saturday. "The football fathers of Michigan State aren't making the same promises to Percy Wadley that they did years ago. He listened to them talk; one might think that spring football practices go right around the corner.

It was last Saturday that a small crowd of spectators, about 10 Spartan football fans, had gathered under the stand for a good storybook ending. It is getting ever harder to tell about the prospects for a great football season.

Open With Kalamazoo Next Monday

In rehearsals, it was plain that the shutdown of the Michigan State basketball team is due in part to the demands of the basketball coaches. Coach Van Alstyne made it clear that his team will be well trained for its opening game next Monday.

Spartan football fans were delighted to see Van Alstyne, who will be back in action next Monday. The team is scheduled to play Kalamazoo in the opener of the season.

Sigma Nu's win in the fraternity competition was expected by fans, who knew the team was working hard to prepare for the game.

The team's offensive line was led by Jack Abbot, who was named the after the competition.

"Music is a brutal business!" says ARTIE SHAW

Why did Artie Shaw get last week? "Pleasure, relaxation and a sense of accomplishment," said the singer of the hit song. "I enjoy the sound of the big band, and it's a thrill to see the audience response when we hit the right note."

CAN THEY BOMB US?

Why do they bomb? We are fighting for survival, not to destroy. The war is a struggle for survival, not a struggle for domination. Young men and women are being asked to make sacrifices, not to destroy. The war is a struggle for survival, not a struggle for domination.
