Family, Students Will Depart For Various Meets

Engineering population of Olds hall will be decreased during the next week as conventions, field trips, and tours draw members of the division away from East Lansing.

C. D. Beatty, of civil engineering department, will make an inspection tour of a new experimental road now under construction west of Clare, Monday. He has been invited to inspect the work by the research division of the Michigan State Highway department.

Plans are underway for the college civil engineering department and the Michigan State highway research division to cooperate in presenting a special winter term short course in soil mechanics for graduate engineers. Weekly lectures will deal with geology of Michigan, soil stabilization, and application of soil to highway problems.

TO TOUR POWER PLANT
Senior electrical engineering class will conduct a tour to the Consumers Power sub-station and the New York Central railroad shops at Jackson Tuesday. The trip will be by college bus.

Electrical engineering faculty members who accompany the class on tour will attend the banquet and meeting of the Michigan section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in the Hotel Hayes, Jackson, Prof. M. M. Cory, program chairman of the Michigan section of the A. I. E. E. is to be in charge of the meeting.

FIVE GO TO OHIO
Five senior civil engineers attended a meeting of the North Central conference of the American Society of Civil Engineers in Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 16 and 17.

Students attending were Bob Bingham, Dale Granger, John Evans, Morris Drilling and Bob Wunderlich.

During the conference, Dale Granger was appointed chairman of the constitution committee and Bob Bingham presented a paper on engineering ethics.

OHIO METAL CONGRESS
B. Sangster and W. L. Cockrell of mechanical engineering department and R. L. Sweet of chemical engineering department will go to Cleveland, Ohio, for a meeting of the 22nd National Metal Congress and Exposition held during the coming week.

Sangster and Cockrell will attend three days, Oct. 23-25 while Sweet will remain for the whole week.

Sigma Kappa sorority will formally open its new Georgian colonial sorority house at 518 M.A.C. avenue with a series of open houses today and tomorrow. Faculty members will be entertained at tea this afternoon and alumnae, friends and relatives of Sigma Kappa members will be guests Sunday afternoon.

The student open house is scheduled for 6:30 to 8:30 p. m. Sunday evening, and is under direction of Mary Jane Renwick, home economics junior. Miss Frances Sullivan, Sigma Kappa alumna of Lansing, is general chairman of the open houses.

Completed last June, the house is being used for the first time this fall. It includes study rooms and a dormitory for 31 women, housemother's apartment, a basement chapter room, and a town girls' room for members not living in the house.

The Alpha Tau chapter of Sigma Kappa was established at Michigan State college in 1927.

Politics to Be Highlight Of Next Week

Three Candidates Will Speak Before Student Groups

Three major political parties of the United States will be represented at Michigan State within the coming week with socialist presidential candidate Norman Thomas and democrat vice-presidential candidate Henry A. Wallace as speakers. Republican candidate for president Wendell Willkie will address the students via radio during intermission of a dance in his honor sponsored by the Ingham County Young Republican clubs.

Thomas will make his only appearance in central Michigan during the 1940 campaign when he is guest speaker at a breakfast this morning at 9 a. m. in Hunt's Food shop. He will be accompanied by Seth Whitmore, socialist candidate for governor. All faculty members and students are invited to attend.

G.O.P. TO HOLD DANCE
The free dance in honor of Wendell Willkie has been scheduled for 8:30 p. m. Monday evening at the Hotel Olds. Don Hoffman and his orchestra will play for dancing. Willkie will address Young Republican clubs of the nation from 10 to 10:30 p. m. over NHC Blue network. The talk will be heard during intermission by those who attend the dance. Refreshments will be served.

Henry A. Wallace will come to East Lansing Thursday, Oct. 24, in the company of a delegation of farmers and their leaders in various farm organizations. The former secretary of agriculture will speak on problems of agriculture in a nation that is preparing for rational defense at 2 p. m. in the new auditorium.

OUTLINES SPEECH
William J. Barber, chairman of the Ingham County Democratic committee which is sponsoring the meeting, in announcing the details of the meeting, said "Mr. Wallace has, according to information received here, prepared an address which will outline what the future can bring in the way of a higher standard of living for all Americans through the cooperation of farmers and urban dwellers, particularly industrial workers.

Arrangements have been made for a public address system to be set up outside the auditorium in case the crowd attending exceeds the capacity of the building.

Dramatist's Portrayals Holds Interest of Capacity Crowd

By Len Barnes
Portraying characters in the life of Charles II which varied from a Dutch tavern wench to his religious Portuguese Catholic wife, Cornelia Otis Skinner presented the first program on 1940-41 lecture course Thursday night. Miss Skinner played before a capacity audience of more than 6,000 persons in M.S.C. auditorium.

During the entire performance, she was the only person in view, yet time after time gaze of the audience was pulled irresistibly toward imaginary characters Miss Skinner addressed from across stage.

HAS PARIS SETTING
Part one, billed as "Modern Monologues," depicted a rich American society woman in a Paris hotel, directing her maid in packing for the trip back to America. In a mixture of English and French, Miss Skinner gave directions and answered telephonic and the doorbells, with phrases as "Come in, entrez," and "Merci, very much."

Depiction of characters seen walking on Broadway, including a dope addict, a southern girl, and an Italian beggar woman, formed a second monologue.

EMBARRASSED BY SON
"The Facts of Life," one of her best known skills, is a subtle if risque picture of a typical mother in her first intimate conversation with her son.

Including five lovers, a Dutch trolop, Lady Castlemaine, Louise De Quoroalle, Neil Gwyn, and Catherine of Braganza, and his mother, Henrietta Maria, "The Loves of Charles II" highlighted the life of Charles Stuart II, king of England in 1660. This monologue was written by Miss Skinner.

The actress appeared in a regal black gown, to powerfully portray Henrietta Maria, mother of Charles II, in a scene with her son after the execution of her husband, and just after their banishment from England.

RECALL RESTORATION
Moving to the height of the Restoration Period, Miss Skinner next brought to her audience Lady Castlemaine, who cruelly fleeced Charles of money and titles. In this scene the actress gave the most striking dual picture of the evening, painting Lady Castlemaine as a scheming grafter, and Charles as a tender-hearted man who would give anything to keep someone he liked happy.

As Louise De Quoroalle, Cornelia Otis Skinner lured Charles into signing a treaty with France against the Dutch, and then proceeded to fall in love with the

Chemurgists Seek Means To Use Farm By-Products

By Charlotte Whitten

Years hence you may be gobbling a breakfast of alfalfa hay and its vitamin extract before your 8 o'clock class. Or you may phone "cut" explanations to your professor via a plastic phone made from agricultural protein products such as milk or hay.

These are possible outcomes of work in chemurgy being done in the M.S.C. agricultural experiment station by Dr. H. C. Petering, Dr. P. W. Morgal, and L. W. Byers.

Services of these chemists are made possible through the Rackham Foundation, a $50,000 grant. Under the direction of Dr. E. J. Miller and V. R. Gardner, the income from this fund is being used for research in utilizing farm by-products.

TITLE IS EXPLAINED
Chemurgy is the chemical adaptation of basic farm products to other uses. By working out processes for isolating the carotene, a vitamin "A" concentrate, and extracting the protein from alfalfa, Michigan State's agricultural research men hope to help farmers by applying these processes to waste farm products.

At present farmers have certain saleable products which give them an income, but they must throw away quantities of waste products, like culled potatoes, old apples, and beet tops. The purpose of chemurgy is to make these products saleable, to extract the valuable protein or carotene from them.

ALFALFA IS NEW SOURCE
The carotene extract now used in medicine is very expensive, having only limited sources in carrots and fish oils. But it is now thought that enough carotene could be taken from a ton of alfalfa to supply the yearly needs of 400 persons. Findings of the three chemurgists concerning the separation process have been published in an article in the October issue of "Industrial and Engineering Chemistry" magazine. A new method for isolating the vitamin concentrate from green leafy tissue, eliminating many difficult steps formerly used, is described in the article.

SPRAY TO SAVE PLANTS
Experimenting on a new spray material to eliminate the loss in plant transplanting is another part of the agricultural research. The scientists are hoping that a sort of mucous substance sprayed on plants when they are transplanted will prevent their loss of moisture and subsequent dying.

A third feature of the experimental work is the perfecting of processes to make use of proteins in alfalfa. Dean Anthony reports that any protein product could be used for plastics, and after a process has been perfected for use on the hay, it can be used with equal success on many farm waste products.

Spartan Sportlines BY JOE SIMEK

Friday games between two major powers such as Michigan State and Temple are rare and last night's contest between the two schools was scheduled because of an unusual situation in the City of Brotherly Love.

It cannot be said that Ralph H. Young does not tend to his business. Yesterday's contest was the third football game that he has missed in his 17 year head coach or athletic director.

Under his helm, Michigan set the pattern for other schools. A modern holdhouse, the intramural building, a golf course for the school, and a huge stadium were all financed through athletic receipts and will stand as a monument to the genius of "Hurry Up" Young.

Yale where Athletic Director Ogden Miller has lashed out at the commercialization of college football. Taking the same stand as did the University of Chicago, Ogden insists that Yale is first of all an educational institution and that it cannot keep up with big-time football.

The surprise showing of Chuck Carey in the Purdue game brought her to more than one Spartan but no one who was more pleased than Carey's high school coach at Charlevoix.

Harriers Meet Pittsburgh Here Today

State Points For Initial Home Win

Sophomores Carry Important Roles In Four-Mile Run

Cross country takes the fall sport spotlight in East Lansing this morning when Michigan State's harriers line up against the University of Pittsburgh squad at 10:30 a. m. for their second meet of the season.

In their season inaugural last week at Penn State, the East Lansing forces showed strength in defeating the Lions 20-35 while Pittsburgh has dropped their only two meets to date against Purdue and Army.

Three senior mainstays, Capt. Eddie Mills, Al Mangan, and Warren Anderson will headline the State lineup against the invaders, bolstered by the fast rising soph trio of Bill Scott, Ralph Monroe, and Jerry Page who have already shown they are varsity material.

The principal Pitt hopes on winning their first meet from a Spartan squad will be based mainly on Walter "Zeke" Sterner. A senior, Sterner has appeared in two other meets against State and holds the record for the meet (21:31) which he set in 1938.

Kobs, Bachman Approve Freshman Grid Stars

With only two scrimmage sessions behind the freshman football squad, several gridgers have caught the eye of Coach John Kobs with their spectacular play.

Maurice Malone, fullback, and Hugh Davis, halfback, both of Lansing, reeled off long runs in the best varsity style. Davis appears to be the fastest and shiftest runner among the fresh candidates, while Malone is at his best when crashing the line.

Don Leclair of Wyandotte is making a strong bid for the center position. In recent work-outs he looked aggressive on offense as he ripped open the opposing forward wall on numerous plays.

The backfield of Albert Stark and Davis at halves, Malone at full and Walt Meyer at quarterback has been the smoothest functioning quartet to date. Lee Bennett, big tackle candidate and Nick Pagen, guard, have been the big guns in the scuffling line.

Varsity Coach Charles Bachman has viewed the proceedings on the Freshman gridiron and has sent his approval.

Wilson Sparks Trojan Win

A touchdown-starved East Lansing eleven enjoyed a scoring feast Friday afternoon as they rolled over Adrian 26 to 13 for its second Twin Valley league victory.

Until yesterday the Trojans averaged one touchdown per game. The game was played on the Blue and White field.

Fred Wilson, Trojan fullback, led his mates with two touchdown plunges. The first came in the opening stanza and the second in the final period. Bob Acheson, on a pass, and Roy Dygert, on a lateral, accounted for the other pair of tallies. Harry Jean converted twice in four tries.

practice football field for night workouts, several intramural clashes in all three leagues have been postponed. However all games will be made up later in the season. Wells F looks to be the best all-freshman football team in the dorm loop.
