MacArthur Charges Japanese Savagery In Civilian Bombings

Four Undefended Towns Destroyed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—General Douglas MacArthur advised the War department tonight that defenseless little towns of the Philippines, devoid of any military installations, and of no military value whatsoever, have been bombed and machine gunned repeatedly since Dec. 7, Sunday after Sunday, on Christmas and on New Year's day.

EUROPEAN WAR SUMMARY

Without purpose, without humanity, without reason four of these towns have been razed completely. They were Baler, Santa Rosa, Columbia and Tarlac. In each the church was the outstanding landmark and immediately became the special target of the Japanese.

Talk Ushers In Activity Week For Frat Men

Develop yourself so that you may get along in a group and still develop your personality so that you may enjoy your fraternity to the maximum, Robert Stewart, controller of Purdue university and national president of Alpha Chi Rho, told M.S.C. fraternity pledges last night in the Music building auditorium as they began the annual "Fraternity Week."

2 Miles A Gallon

Whether thieves are attracted to the ease with which it can be stolen, or for some unknown reason, Harold Soper, Delta Sig, solved his problem, after a fashion, by signing his name: Adolph (Not Hitler) Goring (Not Goering).

Going Up

If he lasts the first couple of years a State student should look forward to his average rising .10 year by year, according to Alumni Relations Director Glen O. Stewart's figures.

Save Your Nickles

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Juke boxes are giving way today to bomb and airplane parts and shell casings as the coin machine industry is hurried to defense production. A 75 per cent reduction in manufacture of the nickel machines resulted in a lay-off of almost 6,000 employees in the industry before defense orders increased production again.

Hello, Week?

Blue Key "Hello Week" cards, due out to all registering students this term, came in for a ribbing yesterday. A Spartan friend approached an unsuspecting friend after class. Looking at the card, he stepped back and with an artist's flourish, a comma after the "Hello," and a question mark after the "Week."

Linda Kold

As long as the war lasts, we must give any newspaper the time forecast far enough in advance to print it in a morning paper, the East Lansing weather bureau man told a State News reporter yesterday. But, with the cold wave on everybody's mind, he did divulge that the temperature between 6 and 8 a. m. Wednesday was eight degrees below zero—a record low for the date January 7 in East Lansing.

Opportunity Here

Several vacancies exist on the News editorial and business staffs for winter term for students with or without previous experience. One or two positions are also open on the sports staff. Applications may be made in the State News office—practically any time.

Under the Wire

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The widow of the heroic aviator of the second world war, Mrs. Colm Kelly, Jr., arrived in Chicago late tonight on a trip to New York where she will lend her aid to the Red Cross Drive #1 750,000.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The Reuters (British) News Agency reported the "French frontier" tonight that German medical authorities are establishing a spotted fever hospital at Leipzig. The move was made as a precautionary measure against a possible outbreak of the disease which now is understood to be sweeping certain areas of Europe bordering on Germany.

London Paper Says Trouble Is Brewing for Germans

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The London Daily Express printed a story Thursday morning saying that machine-gun posts had been erected at key-points in Berlin and other German cities to guard against possible attempts by the army to overthrow the Nazi regime.

Angling With Astley

Sailor Bob Bows Out to Pound Typewriter In Navy Intelligence; Sees State Not for Big Ten

The State News has made a mistake. It wasn't the first mistake it has ever made and it probably won't be the last one, but we're forced to correct the error one of our misguided editors made in last Tuesday's issue.

You see, the column that appeared in that issue wasn't our last. If it had been, we'd have been denied the right that every sports editor since Spartan students-looked away from their cows long enough to get out a newspaper—the right to sing a swan song (popular newspaper title for the lead of sentimental writers hang on their readers in a final column).

So here we are sitting on a swinging anchor and reaching this typewriter with a free hand to pound out the last hook, line and sinker of "Angling With Astley."

A swan song according to most books of swan-song writing rules is supposed to consist of thanking everyone for everything and predicting something of what the future hold.

Thanks A Lot

So thanks everybody for everything. Thanks, readers, for your respectful, frank, and helpful criticism. Thanks, too, to those who, for all your help and faith, think I was being a good boy.

A tip to predicting the future here at Michigan State college or anywhere else for that matter. Be it from us to attempt something the best brains in the world wouldn't try. We would like to hazard a few guesses about the athletic situation here at State, though.

As for predicting the future here at Michigan State college or anywhere else for that matter. Be it from us to attempt something the best brains in the world wouldn't try. We would like to hazard a few guesses about the athletic situation here at State, though.

State to Fare Better

As for Spartan athletics in general, we think that a general drop in the quality of Michigan State teams can be expected because of present war conditions. However, this same state of affairs will occur in all of the nation's schools and it should not affect the season's won-and-lost standings.

If anything our records will improve because there is an R. O. T. C. college which means, at least at present, that once in advanced military, a student can be reasonably certain of finishing his college course.

Now comes the paragraph in this column that in spite of our trying to strike a different tone from most swan songs brings one of those familiar things they call a lump in the throat for this is

Sparkles

BILL BURK

Mostly it is imp. because, if Chicago does lose its membership, the University of Pittsburgh very definitely has the inside track on becoming the new tenth member.

Sports authorities throughout the nation feel that Pitt's move to desegregate football was initiated to clear the school's slate for Big Ten competition. Those same authorities feel that once Pitt did gain entrance, the great and powerful Panther team of old would have more room the nation's grid boys.

State May Sate Gator Gridlers

The faculty committee on athletics Monday may consider approval of a proposed December football game with the University of Florida next fall.

The late-season game has been tentatively set for Dec. 4, with plans being considered for a return game here in 1943 or 1944. Officials said nothing was "definite" as yet.

Spartans Sink Great Lakes Cagers 33-31 By Anchoring Ball

Bark Shines Against All-Americans

It looks like another big year for Coach Ben Van Alstyne and his Spartan cagers. Having already won six games against three defeats, the Spartan mentor hopes for victories over Notre Dame, Detroit, Marquette and other tough opponents.

He should be able to get them if his cagers perform as they did in their win over Great Lakes Training team last Tuesday night.

Playing an inspired second half, the Spartans overcame an 19-13 deficit at half time, took the lead, and never relinquished it. With Bill Burk turning in one of the greatest games of his career, Joe Gerard playing his usual banging game and Fred Stone grabbing all of the rebounds, the Spartans were completely outplayed in the last 20 minutes.

FREEZE GAME AWAY

With four minutes to go and the Spartans leading, 33-29, they successfully stalled for three minutes after Great Lakes intercepted and Caliban pushed in his last basket. Here Chet Aubuchon personally wasted the final minute, dribbling up the floor, in and out of players, and around in circles until the last second ticked off of the timer's clock.

Bark looked like his old self for the first time this season as he led all the scorers with 11 points. Besides whipping through five field goals and a free throw, Bill broke up the visitors' offensive threats time after time and did plenty of fancy passing.

GERARD SINKS EIGHT

Gerard's eight points raised his total to 79 and stamped him as the most consistent point-getter on the team. "Jumping Joe" has been held scoreless only once this season. With 12 games left, Gerard is sure to pass his total scoring for 1940-41 of 160 points. Joe also set up four of Burk's baskets with excellent passes.

By tossing in a pair of field goals and a foul throw, along with making most of the rebounds under both baskets, Center Fred Stone contributed to the win.

Congress Receives Budget Asking 56 Billion for Year

By Macon Reed, TP Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Congress accepted today without a murmur the burden of a 56 billion dollar war budget carrying recommendations for nine billion dollars worth of additional taxes.

Leaders made clear that they would appropriate without stint whatever funds are needed to smash the Axis. On the taxation side of the budget, however, there was somewhat less enthusiasm. Some legislators agreed with Senator Ellender of Louisiana who said: "I am willing to go as far with additional taxes as consistent with efficiency of industrial production and the supplying of our people with the necessities of life."

LAST EXPENDITURES
The President's budget scheduled the expenditure of 52 and a half billions for the prosecution of the war, with about three and a half billion more of war money to come from the federal war agencies.

The budget allowed something over six billion dollars for normal peace-time activities of government. Budget requests for these purposes were a billion dollars lower than estimated non-defense expenditures for the current year.

Exactly half of this saving was wiped out by an increase of half a billion dollars in the carrying charges on the public debt. The 1942 budget, covering the 12 months beginning next July 1, sets aside one and three-quarters billion dollars merely to pay the interest on the public debt.

CUT OTHER PROGRAMS
The anticipated national debt at the end of fiscal 1943 is 110 billion dollars.

Most of the savings effected in the non-defense sections of the budget come out of the WPA, the CCC, the NYA, and the public works program.

President Roosevelt called the $52 billion dollar spending program "the budget of a nation at war in a world at war."

He estimated tax revenues for fiscal 1943 at 27 billion dollars. To be raised by present taxes, and heavy new levies to be imposed within the next few months.

Faculty Leaders Hold Key Jobs In Defense Setups of State

Pres. John A. Hannah is not only policy head of college defense activities, but is a member of the 11-man Michigan Defense Council. He is in charge of agricultural defense activities. Secretary Karl McDonell is in charge of college activities, including volunteer defense work.

Other faculty men active in state defense work are Prof. Donald Hayworth, head of the defense speakers bureau under Defense Council, and Gene Alleman, who is state information coordinator.

Rumanian and Italian troops. The German high command also admitted that the Russians had made an attack toward the Ukraine city of Kharkov from the northeast.

Stockholm dispatches reported that the Russians had opened a strong attack with tanks and armored units on the southern end of the Finnish front. Soviet commanders were throwing battalions after battalions into the drive to break the Finnish threat to the important Murmansk railroad. The Russians also were reported to have sent strong reinforcements to the Leningrad front.

The North African front again was quiet. Dispatches from Cairo reported that Imperial Japanese units had been in contact with the Axis forces near Agelabla in Libya. No important progress was made against the forces of General Rommel which are in a strong defensive position.

Physical Fitness of M.S.C. Men Above College Average, Say Air Corps Men

By ELLEN STEGENGA

Students at Michigan State show a degree of physical fitness much above that shown in other educational centers. Major Floyd M. Showalter, president of the Aviation Cadet examining board which has been present on campus during the last two days, commented when interviewed yesterday.

Showalter said, "In the past year we have examined over 400 applicants from M. S. C. and over 50 percent have qualified physically."

Showalter stated that the examining board, which visits the college twice monthly, found fewer applicants than usual, due to the enrollment of students for a new term in college and their consequent disinterest in army enlistment. Two graduates of Michigan State were accepted, Lawrence R. Lockwood, 41 of Lansing, and George L. Vickery, 41 of Leslie.

All board officials emphasized the fact that a cadet has been made for air corps recruits and suggested that students on campus form some sort of organization, in line with defense work, for interesting students in the air corps.

Showalter was interviewed at the Michigan State Campus in the event of active warfare in the United States and said, "Anything might happen until we improve our supremacy in the air."

Brown Urges Price Control To Curb Inflation, Profits

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Effective price control legislation was urged upon the senate today to curb threatened "tremendous price increases," to prevent big war profits, and to save the government billions of dollars in the war program.

These were the objectives of the price bill listed by Democratic Senator Brown of Michigan as he began, piloting the measure through the senate.

Brown declared that rising prices added 15 billion dollars to the cost of the defense program in World War I. He said if prices continue to rise at the present rate, the price of the present war program will go up 31 billion dollars.

The Michigan senator pointed out that, of course, the price rise would have a proportional effect upon the new 56 billion dollar program laid down by the president today.

Brown also argued that limiting the rise of prices would curb war profits, more effectively than any tax bill could do. He declared that all nations involved in the war have had to put a shrewd brake on rising prices to prevent runaway inflation.

Prof. A. J. Clark, head of the chemistry department, advised against students with only average mental ability becoming chemists.

"In the next 25 years after the war, we will undoubtedly go into a chemical age, and there will be an increased demand for trained chemists," Clark said. "However, I would advise against mediocre students going into chemistry because the competition will be too strong. At the present time a man doing average work in chemistry can not hope to succeed in the future."

On the other hand, Clark emphasized that students capable of doing good work in this field have a golden opportunity because of the coming chemical age.

Jap Planes Drop Polluted Food In Parachutes

By TRANSMEDIA PRESS

BOMBAY, Jan. 7.—The Rangoon radio reported tonight that reliable information showed that Jap planes had dropped parachutes over Honan province containing rice and wheat contaminated with plague bacilli.

There have been previous reports of such outrages before but they were not substantiated.

The Rangoon radio said the contaminated food was dropped by the Japs near a mission hospital. Bacteriological experts later traced a plague epidemic to the food dropped by the Japs.

House Passes Navy Increase

By TRANSMEDIA PRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The house voted its unanimous approval today of an $45 million dollar program to speed new naval construction and give final congressional approval to a bill increasing the navy's enlisted strength to 500,000 men.

The $45 million dollar speed-up program would provide funds for expansion of existing shipbuilding and repair facilities. Chairman Vinson of the house naval committee said that by construction of the new facilities, months would be cut from the time required for completion of the huge battle fleet now under construction in the nation's shipyards.

The bill authorizing the new facilities now goes to the senate, where it already has been approved by the senate naval group.

The legislation increasing the navy's enlisted strength to 500,000 men adds 200,000 to the present authorized limit of 300,000. The act also adds 44 thousand men to the total strength of the marine corps, giving that branch of the naval service 104,000 officers and men.

Harvard Faculty Rescinds Vacation

By TRANSMEDIA PRESS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 7.—Faculty members at Harvard university agreed today to give up their summer vacations and teach on a 12-month basis without additional compensation. A spokesman said the move was made to enable the university to carry out its new wartime schedule.

At the same time, Harvard officials announced that President James Conant will accept a pay cut, effective July 1, and move to smaller quarters as an economy measure for the university.

E. L. Barton, extension specialist in animal husbandry and Ezof G. Branaman of the animal husbandry department will conduct a tour of outstanding beef farms in Eaton county on Friday.

Those going on the tour will be the members of Professor Branaman's short course in animal husbandry.

The bill would allow him to shift time in any of the time zones by as much as two hours, either forward or backward. The OPM has estimated that daylight saving time would make available 500,000 kilowatts of current for war production.

A similar bill has passed the house but slight differences between the measures must be reconciled before the bill goes to the White House for signature.
