

MSC Army Women

Two of the first four women to take the oath of allegiance preparatory to induction in the officers' training school of the Women's Army Auxiliary corps in Detroit Monday were Michigan State graduates.

The two, Donna M. Werbach and Janet Platt, work in Lansing at present. They decided to apply together for WAAC officers' training, after being sorority sisters in Alpha Chi Omega together at State. Miss Platt operates a nursery school, and Miss Werbach works in a Lansing office.

In the Dark

The blackout Sunday night endowed many people with strange tendencies, but one of the strangest metamorphoses in this area was that of Prof. M. M. Cory, campus air raid warden. Casting his professorial dignity to the winds, Professor Cory rode around during the blackout on the East Lansing fire truck.

The only other vehicle in motion which firemen noticed during the darkness turned out to be the chief of police's car.

Social Science

Attempting to socialize summer school activities are the men at Mason hall, who have invited the women of East and West Mayo halls to an open house tomorrow night beginning at 8:30, preceding the weekly all-college dance. The men are reported to be considering a parade with the intention of drumming up trade for it tonight.

That their social tendencies are bearing fruit is attested by the invitation extended to 25 Mason men of junior and higher ranking by women living at practice houses, who are holding a buffet supper tomorrow night.

Educators Slate Picnic Monday

All present and prospective teachers are invited to attend an education picnic Monday at the college picnic grounds by Jenison fieldhouse.

A sports program will be presented from 4:30 to 6 p. m., after which food will be served.

Advisers of the committees in charge of the affair include Prof. Guy Hill, food committee; Prof. A. Huggett, entertainment, and Prof. L. J. Luker, tickets.

Junior AVMA Plans Outdoor Meeting

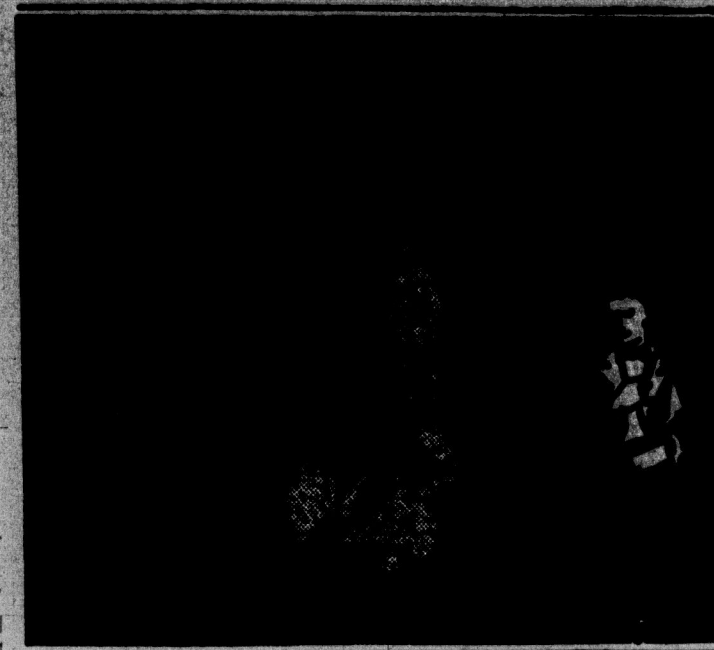

The Junior A.V.M.A.'s student chapter meeting will be held at Old College field tonight at 7, according to Pres. Fred Besancon.

Features of the meeting will be softball games between classes and a talk on "Ethics" by Dr. B. J. Killham, extension specialist in animal pathology. Organization dues are payable at this meeting, Besancon said, and refreshments will be served.

More Than 200 Ag Teachers Attend Conference Here

Two hundred five vocational agriculture teachers are attending their annual summer conference this week on the Michigan State college campus. The meetings are being held in Abbot hall.

They'll Make Magic at MSC

Neff and Company, entertainers in the field of magic, illusions and mystery, will appear at the Michigan State college auditorium Wednesday evening, July 22, as a feature of the summer entertainment series.

"Bill" Neff, known as the Master of Mystery, aided by his two well trained and skillful assistants, presents a program of Neff brings 2,000 pounds of equipment in a special truck. He boasts that with his ton of equipment he can produce "100 wonders and 1,000 laughs." His specialty is ancient tricks from the Far East.

Students will be admitted upon presentation of their student receipt. There will be a slight charge for others attending.

Roat to Head Mason Men

Robert Roat, L. A. '44, will head the first Mason-Abbot Summer club, it was decided at the first summer meeting of the general dorm council last week. Bob Nickerson, A. S. '43, was named as vice-president, Leonard Ostreich, Vet. '45, as secretary, and Ben Mauck, Vet. '45, as treasurer.

At its first meeting the group made sports shirts and dress shirts with ties permissible in the Mason hall dining room during the summer with the exception of Sunday noon.

Newly elected precinct representatives are as follows: Ray Abel and Theldon Lamb, Precinct 1; Tom Monroe and Jim Colville, Precinct 2; John Moran and F. C. Overton, Precinct 3; Herb Geller and John Bardens, Precinct 4; Cliff Bennet and Bob Coughlin, Precinct 5; Bill Hagerman and Dick Lang, Precinct 6; Harry Huber and Bill Bartlett, Precinct 7; John Meader and Bob Shillinger, Precinct 8.

Home Ec Division Will Sponsor One Day Consumer's Institute

A one-day consumers' institute will be held on Michigan State college campus next Thursday, according to an announcement by Marie Dye, dean of the Home Economics division of the college. All the meetings on the day's program will be held in the Home Economics building.

The sessions will begin at 9:30 a. m. with a discussion based upon the topic "What the Consumer Faces." This will be fol-

ASME Schedules Meeting Tonight

In accordance with its theme, "A.S.M.E. the Year Around," the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will hold its second meeting of the summer session tonight at 7:30 in room 105 Olds hall.

Prof. L. C. Price of the mechanical engineering department will speak on "Engine-osophy" and movies will be shown by Instructor J. M. Campbell. Bill Hunt, Eng. '42, will describe "Three Years' Work in the College Foundry." All upperclass mechanical engineers are invited to attend.

lowed by a panel discussion on "Responsibilities and Opportunities of the Consumer." The panel will be composed of members from the following groups: Retailers, economists, women's organizations, consumer groups, home makers and students.

The afternoon program will be demonstrations of pertinent problems in buying clothing and food, and the care and repair of equipment and furnishings. Also in the afternoon will be workshops for planning programs for various groups. Consultants will assist with concrete suggestions.

The day will end with a dinner in the college Union, followed by an address by a speaker yet to be named.

Quartermaster Head To Return Saturday

Maj. J. B. Jiskra, head of the Michigan State R.O.T.C. quartermaster unit, will return to the campus Saturday after a two weeks' confinement in the station hospital at Fort Custer.

Major Jiskra suffered a dislocated hip and sprained wrist in a fall at Dean hall.

Army Enrolls 85 Added Men in Enlisted Reserve

Quotas to Remain Open During Summer

A total of 85 Michigan State college students were enrolled in the army enlisted reserve Wednesday through Saturday of last week, it was announced yesterday by Sgt. Frank Sowers of the military department, in charge

Free Show, Dance Head Weekend Entertainment

"A Yank in the R.A.F.," starring Tyrone Power and Betty Grable, will be the feature movie at the Saturday night "free show," while the week-end entertainment activities will also include the third Friday night all-college dance.

Ed Berry's band will again play for the dance, which students may attend by showing fee receipts. Time for the party will be 9 p. m., and it will again be held in the Union ballroom.

The movie will be shown at 7 and 9 p. m. in Fairchild theater. Because of space limitations, no tickets are sold for individual pictures, and only summer students and holders of season entertainment tickets can be admitted.

of A.E.R. enlistments locally. Although quotas for Michigan State are not nearly filled, it is not expected that further extended drives for applicants will be conducted, Sergeant Sowers said.

The quotas will be held open during the summer so that any person who has reason to believe he is about to be drafted can be enrolled at once and remain in school.

Policies May Change
Present policies concerning the reserve may be changed Jan. 1 to restrict enrollment to freshmen, Sergeant Sowers said.

Names of men enlisted between July 8 and 11 follow:

County Blackout a Success; Will Be Repeated July 26

By Bill Barclay

"The mistakes which came up during Sunday's practice blackout will help make the next test even better," Prof. M. M. Cory, campus air raid warden, predicted after describing last week's test as "99 per cent successful."

Ingham county's second blackout test will be held July 26, Cory stated. Present plans call for a half-hour practice, compared with 15 minutes for the initial test.

Gets Appointment

Paul D. Bagwell, acting head of the speech department, was named director of the Michigan Victory Speakers' bureau of the state council of defense last Friday by Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner.

Bagwell, organizer of the campus student speakers' bureau four years ago, was director of the Speakers' bureau of the Ingham county defense council before his appointment.

Pick Up Identification Cards

There are still several student identification cards which owners have not called for at the registrar's office, according to Asst. Registrar Kermit Smith.

Women Are Late
Complications arose among dormitory women when the first blackout halted all buses and other transportation, and residents returned after regular hours. Approximately 10 women received late minutes Sunday evening, but so far these have been excused for all women who have appealed to the judiciary board, A.W.S. Pres. Vera Deaner announced.

Only campus lights specifically exempted from the first test were the WKAR tower, and lights for night defense classes in Olds hall. The few slip-ups noticed on the campus were caused by thoughtlessness rather than by lack of cooperation, Cory said.

Can't Find Switches
Exit lights in various buildings were accidentally left on, and air raid wardens had difficulty in finding switches for some of them, Cory said. Lights left on by painters in one campus residence were turned out by wardens as soon as the rest of the campus was darkened.

Because of the necessity for permanent organization in air raid defense, student participation was relatively small during Sunday's test, Cory said. However, students may be used to a greater extent during the next practice blackout as messengers for the various wardens, he stated.

Blackout—Practice Makes Perfect

The Michigan State college campus and East Lansing have gone through their first test blackout with highly commendable results.

Police Chief Richard Rogers of East Lansing reported only several cases where lights were not extinguished, and these were not intentional. All in all, the blackout was a huge success throughout Ingham county. The students and townspeople of East Lansing contributed their share to the experiment in excellent fashion.

However, additional praise is due to Dean Ralph H. Huston, commander of the civilian defense corps of Ingham county. Besides carrying on his regular duties as head of the Applied Science division of the college, Dean Huston has labored unselfishly with his cohorts on this project which is something entirely new to everybody.

It was a commendable performance for the first time. But if practice makes perfect, let's keep up the good work.

APO Means Service—Smokers Beware

They weren't fooling when they dubbed Alpha Phi Omega the "national service fraternity."

With most organizations not even attempting to function during summer school, service minded APO men have come through again with a worthwhile project in the form of a summer anti-smoking on campus campaign.

Alpha Phi Omega's drive against breaking a long established tradition on campus deserves every summer school students' and faculty members' support.

Werrenrath Gives Novel History of American Song

"What represents true American music is the greatest problem in the arts today," according to Reinald Werrenrath, baritone singer and lecturer who presented a novel combination concert in the college auditorium last evening.

"We have no real folk music because America is a young country and has had no peasant class from which sprang most of the world's national songs."

Werrenrath captured the attention of the audience with his informal manner and witty repartee when speaking of American songs, although his voice lacked the vibrant baritone quality and seemed nasal at times. Predominately students, the audience held a scattering of faculty members and local residents.

Labor-management committees now are boosting production in more than 900 war plants.

Smoking in Blackouts

To smoke or not to smoke during a blackout—that is the question.

East Lansing students and townspeople in the test blackout last Sunday night seemed to take the attitude that "nobody can see a little light like that."

At least 10 cigarets were lighted in the block of Grand River opposite the Union building while the town was in total eclipse, except for a display case light in one store and a back hallway light in a group of apartments.

"A match struck or any small light against wet or shiny pavement is visible for a long way," says Col. R. C. Huston, commander of the Civilian Defense corps in Ingham county, and dean of Applied Science at Michigan State college.

Blackout rules of the Office of Civilian Defense definitely state that there shall be no smoking during a blackout, according to Huston.

The question has come up in other air raid drills throughout the nation also, with numerous violations of the OCD rule. In New York a number of persons were arrested for smoking during a blackout.

When asked for his opinion on it, Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia said, "Oh, you can't see that from the air. I know from experience."

In the face of the possibility of creating a target for enemy bombers, and the rule prohibiting it, students and townspeople should refrain from smoking during a blackout. They can do that much to cooperate with air raid wardens and planners who spend long hours to make successful blackouts such as last Sunday's possible.

One good way to spend the blackout was discovered by Budd Bell and his band, caught on the bandstand at the Dells when the siren sounded. They doused the lights and played "One O'clock Jump" for the 15-minute period. They must have figured it was the only way they could trust their billfolds in the dark.

Along FACULTY ROW

By Joan Meyers

H. W. Spiegel, guest instructor in economics of war and national agricultural policies from Duquesne university, is living proof that a book cannot be judged by its cover nor an author by his book.

The author of the 360-page book with the imposing title "Economics of Total War" is actually a friendly, jovial fellow who describes economics as "more fascinating than fiction."

Is Best Seller

"Economics of Total War," published in February, 1942, has proved to be the best seller in the field of economics, selling "many thousands of copies," and has already been instituted as a textbook in colleges from "Maine to California," in spite of the fact it was published after the beginning of the second semester this year.

Speaking of his other book, "Land Tenure Policies at Home and Abroad," 1941, which is designed for graduate study, Dr. Spiegel guarantees "it will put the reader to sleep before he finishes—or money back."

Likes Walking, Eating

Spiegel is associate professor of economics at Duquesne university, where he does research work in economics. His next book will have to do with the economics of peace, Spiegel says. He did his early undergraduate work at Cornell university, continuing at the University of Wisconsin from which he was graduated and received his Ph.D. degree.

He describes himself as "unmarried and no children" and claims walking and eating as his favorite sport and hobby respectively.

Favors State's Clean Air

Of Michigan and Michigan State in particular the author-professor says, "I think it is wonderful after breathing the smoke of Pittsburgh." Features which he particularly admires are "the clean air, the green grass, the intelligence of the students, and the attractiveness of the coeds."

Michigan is much like the state of his alma mater except that "Wisconsin is Michigan plus lakes." He hastily added, "easily accessible lakes."

Plans to Go into Army

He ranks the most beautiful campuses in the country as "Cornell, University of Wisconsin, and Michigan State, with Michigan State the best cared for."

"It is a great place and I am very happy to be here," he commented.

With regard to plans for next year he said, "I will probably be in the army."

New League Augments Softball Activities

The addition of an independent softball league consisting of six teams highlighted this week's activities in intramural athletics. The first game in the independent schedule was played last night with the DZV brotherhood taking the lead in the standings.

The DZVs, with Chet Aubuchon handling the pitching duties, defeated Mayo Boys, 7-4.

Mason 8 continued to set the pace in the dorm league last night when it whitewashed Mason 7, 10-0.

In the other dorm contest of the evening, Mason 6 edged out Mason 2, 11-7, in a free-hitting affair.

Last Thursday evening, the Mason 6 boys scored four runs in the first inning and two in Pitcher Gar Williams allowed but one run and two hits while his teammates scored eight runs and 12 hits off Mason 5's Ed Lord.

Mason 5 rebounded from this defeat to thrash Mason 2 Monday evening, 9-3. A Mason 2 error, a base on balls, two singles and four doubles accounted for seven runs which were then enough to win for Mason 5. In the only other game scheduled for Monday, Mason 4 forfeited to Mason 3.

Mason 8 Scores Again
Mason 8 scored another one-sided triumph Tuesday night when it overpowered Mason 6, 7-0. George Vernon's triple with one on and Al Drury's single drove two runs over the plate in the second inning. Mason 8 chalked up four more tallies in the third on three doubles, two errors and a single.

In Tuesday's other game, Mason 5 won its third contest at the expense of Mason 3, 5-4. Two of Mason 3's four runs were scored in the fifth when Jim Watt homered with one on base. Darrel Couey also smashed a four-bagger in the fourth for Mason 3. But it was in the fifth that Mason 5 came from behind with four singles for two runs to win the game.
