2,000 Expected For Freshman Week

From President Hannah

is a real pleasure to welcome to Michigan State college the prospective members of the Class of 1946.

A changing world and a radical change in America's future part in world affairs provide an added incentive for you to prepare yourselves for a useful part in that future.

President Roosevelt and other national leaders have repeatedly emphasized the importance of young Americans continuing their educational training. Modern war so less than modern peace requires well trained minds and skilled hands. Our future rests in the hands of the engineers, chemists, physicists, bacteriologists and other trained scientists. Persons trained and with college degrees in the fields of Veterinary Science, Agriculture, Home Economics and, in Liberal Arts will find themselves in better position to serve in war if necessary and in the following peace than those without college training.

The greatest contribution you can make to America is to proceed with your formal education, with seriousness of purpose and a high resolve to acquire as much knowledge both technical and cultural as you can.

Michigan State college is dedicated to the service of this State and Nation through the educational facilities provided in East Lansing for the young men and young women enrolled here, through the extensive research program of the Experiment Stations, and through the comprehensive Agricultural Extension program that includes the county agricultural agents, home demonstration agents, and 4-H club agents and leaders in practically every county, district and community of Michigan.

We are proud of our beautiful campus, of our buildings and equipment and of our able, conscientious and friendly staff. Our student body has always been noted for its friendly, democratic spirit. Many nationally and internationally known leaders in many fields of endeavor are numbered among our alumni and former students.

What you get from your college experience will be in direct ratio to what you put into it. You have before you a great and challenging opportunity. We are all anxious and willing to help you in every way that we can. We welcome you to membership in our rapidly growing Michigan State college family.

REGISTRATION WILL EQUAL '41 YEARLING ENROLLMENT

Activities to Start Monday, Sept. 21; Each New Student Will Be Assigned to a Faculty Adviser for Orientation and Supervision

By Ellis Brandt, Associate Editor

Freshman enrollment at Michigan State will be up to normal levels this fall despite the demands of industry and the armed services, Registrar R. S. Linton predicted this week.

Linton said he estimated that 2,000 or more students—approximately equivalent to the 2,074 of last year—will be on hand Monday, Sept. 21, for the opening of Freshman Week activities.

"The army enlisted reserve program has proved a great boon to our college enrollment," Linton said. "And in many cases men have signed up for training, but because this program now closes, men want to get military training and an education at the same time."

Dorms House Near 900 MSC Women

Many Others Reside in Approved Homes

And at Sororities

Most women students at Michigan State live in dormitories, three of which are on campus. Louise Campbells, Mary Mayo, and Jane Linton Williams halls are all located on campus, while Student halls is located in a few blocks away on Louis street.

Total population of the dormitories average about 500 women. About 250 women students live in approved rooming houses of campus, and majority houses are the homes of a slightly educated number.

Approximately 350 women live at home in East Lansing and Lansing, while 20 continue to live and from campus.

Another group of off-campus residents is composed of women who work near the campus and live in private homes and those who are off-campus group, and those homes in the home college group, and those homes in cooperative residence halls.

 MSC women are required to live in dormitories, in cooperative residence halls and are not permitted to live in security houses. Dormitories are made out for a full year. The contracts for off-campus homes are made on a hem basis.

TRADITIONS

Reason for Each Is to Improve State

Now more than 80 years old, Michigan State college is rich in traditions which many generations of students have grown to love. As new students join, you know that many traditions will help you feel at home more quickly.

No one saw the campus north of the Red Cedar at Michigan State on the evening of the Union building and specially designated rooms in buildings. There is no rule against smoking, but no one does it on the walkways or in the classroom.

Refraining from smoking on campus helps preserve its beauty, and State's campus is rated as one of the 10 most beautiful in the United States.

Another tradition students adhere to for the same reason is that of using the sidewalks, as well as the walkways, across lawns. B and G men have scientifically laid out a hate of walks for every destination.

A tradition unique to MSU is that all freshmen men wear green pants, better known as caps, for their first few weeks on campus. By wearing caps, freshmen identify themselves among others that become better acquainted. A pet helps just as much on this score with freshman women as an army uniform does with most women. These pets are sold during registration by Varsity club, an organization of major letter winners in athletics. Wearing of caps, and adherence to the above traditions are enforced by the same organization.

More thoroughly adhered to than some rules, these traditions are a part of college life at State. It is the privilege and duty of all new students to maintain and preserve them.

After reading the doctrines of Plato, Socrates, or Aristotle, we feel that the ultimate difference between their works and Christ's is the difference between an inquiry and a revelation.—Joseph Parker.

Olin Hospital Is Real Health Center

Freshmen will get a preview of the college health center, Olin Memorial hospital, when they take physical examinations as a part of Freshman Week activities.

Should any fail to be impressed by the facilities which this hospital provides for the students, they'll soon learn it if they have need for medical treatment.

Being sick away from home is not a pleasant experience, but Dr. C. P. Holland and his excellent staff do everything possible to make things comfortable for student patients.

Joy is an elation of spirit—it is a spirit which transits the goodness and truth of its own presence.—Seneca.

Dormitory Life Plays Vital Part in Routine of Many Students

Mason Hall Is Largest Men's Dormitory at MSC

Dormitory residents are required to eat at the halls where they live. They have their own constitution and by-laws, and government of the halls is handled as much as possible by residents.

Many Private Homes

In addition to the 10 fraternity houses, where about 500 men reside, there are about 400 approved private houses in East Lansing where men may live.

All men students who do not live in dormitories, fraternities, or at their own homes are required to live in approved private residences.

Boys in these houses are contracted for each term, and students must stay for the entire term. More than 2,600 men live in this group of houses.

Off-campus residences for men are inspected at least once during the school year for fire hazards by a representative of the men's housing office.

Varied Number of Clubs

Function at Michigan State

Michigan State has more than 100 separate clubs, organizations, and activities. There are off-campus individual meetings during the first months of fall term.

Michigan State's campus is one of the 10 most beautiful in the United States.

Hazing is prohibited north of the Red Cedar on the campus.

Men interested in living in private homes fall term may get maps and a list of rooms with general information on off-campus private homes at a desk in the Union lobby during Freshman Week and the week-end previous.

This week will be managed by the Inter-fraternity council with two members from each fraternity assisting in carrying on the work.

Out of every dollar spent for education at Michigan State College students contribute only 15¢ costs.

The remainder of the costs of college instruction comes from federal and state taxes.

In proof, statistics show that about $4,000,000 is spent each year for the education of Michigan State college students, while these same students pay into the college little more than $300,000 in course fees.

Corn Costs from Texas

The balance of the necessary money is supplied by state and federal governments. In a ratio of three to one and one-half to one.

Fees pay a registration fee of 5¢ for each term, and men who are required to take military science will pay an additional $5 for a uniform deposit. If the uniform is returned intact, the deposit is refunded. Several states offer dollars can be added to the bails of students signing up for laboratory courses which require expensive equipment.

Miss at Michigan State are set at 14.9, freshmen will learn, at a lunch price of 15¢ and with out-of-state students added an additional $25 on the terms.

Refunds Are Made

Should a student have to withdraw from college after paying his fees, he is entitled to refund, as follows: In case a student withdraws in the first 20 days of the term, all fees except the $5 registration fee, after which point up to the last six weeks of the first six weeks of the term will be refunded the student.

College Radio Station Has Fine Studios

WKAR Broadcasts College Programs; Has High Power

Michigan State's radio station, WKAR, which is one of the nation's powerful college stations, is in a state of enthrallment due to the activities for students and non-students alike. As well-equipped as any studio of its kind, WKAR is located in the new auditorium, where facilities include three studios, three offices, a transmission room and a control panel for continuity writers. Interlocking control panels of the latest design and huge glass windows enable programs to be presented simultaneously or continuously, from all of the three soundproof studios.

The 5,000-Watt

With its federal authorized power output of 5,000 watts is a mark in a hundred other stations in Michigan. New equipment for the studios includes a piano for concert work and a Bechstein, which holds about 4,000 records. The ladder is housed in the transmission room, where four turntables for playing records are also housed. Radios are located on the third floor of the auditorium, where a receiver is stationed for the four.

One studio is used for program announcing, one for concert solo numbers, and the third for dramatic skits and larger musical organizations.

Direct Lines

In addition to these facilities, the station has direct lines to many campus buildings where programs may be held. These groups too large for the studio may be put on the air from such places as the Union, Fieldhouse, music building, Home Economics building, or stadium stage.

The studio is being used part time by the station announcer and for work on programs. Robert Coleman is station announcer, N. E. Grube is chief engineer, and Ray Stanley, program director. Operating during daylight hours on a frequency of 590 kilocycles, WKAR provides a direct connection between the college, students, and parents.

Broadcasts Short Wave

A mobile short wave transmitter permits broadcasts from WKAR once or twice a month, according to schedule, where permanent lines are not available. Special events, educational programs, and entertainment features are broadcast daily.

The station cooperates closely with college departments, the athletic services of the college and the college experiment station, as well as with departments of state.

ENROLLMENT

From the first grade to the graduate, the college has taken its share in the ideas of getting acquainted with the college, its administrations, and some of its professors.

Each new student, will be given a physical examination at Old Medical, and a demonstration examination at the Demonstration Hall. Students may be examined at Demonstration Hall during the week. A list of the special tests to be given will be found in this ad.

A series of special tests will be given to the more serious students of Freshman Week. There is the equally important social aspect. It is not within the scope of this paper to explain in detail the various activities which have been planned for the campus sponsors for the campus banquet. For purposes of this campus atmosphere, the campus sponsors have planned for the campus banquet.

Varied Facilities Make Union Center of All Student Activity

If one could be satisfied with catch-as-catch-can ratatouille, he could live in the Union banquet dining room and come to the same time.

Not that anyone does, of course, but it illustrates the variety of facilities centered in this Spartan focal point of student activity.

"I'll meet you in the Union," is a phrase that has become a campus by-word. In the Union you can buy a coke, eat a meal, get a haircut, read a newspaper, buy a war book, arrange a room, buy a magazine, sell a book, attend a party, work on a newspaper, study, attend a meeting, publish your own, play bridge, relax, take a shower (if you've a town woman), smoke, or go to class. Union facilities include a grill, which offers fountain service and light lunches, a cafeteria, and a service dining room. There are four lounges, one of which is reserved for women, and that's where most of the bridge-playing goes on.

The Union deck sells cards, tobacco, magazines, school supplies, and dickeys in used textbooks. On the ceiling are three reading rooms where students read the many daily newspapers. The lost and found department and a checkroom are also located on the same floor. A sales room is a wing of the building containing classrooms, the State N.Y.A. and Wolverine offices, and offices of the dean of students, housing director, and director of campers relations and N.Y.A. student work. The art department is located near the top of the second floor of the annex.

Located upstairs in the west wing of the building is a ballroom, the service dining room, meeting room, town gymnasium, and faculty club room.

STATE NEWS TO RECEIVE AP SERVICE IN FALL

Associated Press Elects MSC Paper as Member

VARIED SERVICES TO GIVE MICHIGAN STATE NEWS HIGH RANKING AMONG COLLEGE NEWSPAPERS

The Michigan State News, which will become a daily student publication beginning fall term, has been elected to membership in the Associated Press, it was announced recently by AP officials in New York City.

The membership in the News' recognized press association will enable the Michigan State News to receive complete worldwide news coverage by a direct wire, an up-to-the-minute news teleprinter service, and the World Feature Service.

Arrangements Completed

Negotiation for membership in the Associated Press has been completed for several months with the members on the Associated Press, the Student Press Association, and other local members, and that the election of the Michigan State News is expected to be confirmed by the Associated Press in the near future.

The first daily publication of the Michigan State News this fall will be the morning edition of the AP. The paper is delivered by carrier to all students living in campus dormitories and fraternity, sorority, and residential areas within the mile limit of the Lansing Student Press. If a student who commutes from Lansing, East Lansing, or other areas beyond the mile limit wishes to receive the newspaper at home, he may subscribe at the regular price, or at any other convenient point on the route of the Associated Press carriers.

In the future, the newspaper will be mailed to its subscriber by the Associated Press carriers.

VARIABLE SERVICES TO GIVE MICHIGAN STATE NEWS HIGH RANKING AMONG COLLEGE NEWSPAPERS

The Associated Press has announced that the Michigan State News will receive the same privileges as other AP members and that the paper will be given the same attention as other AP newspapers.

State News Lends Opportunities for Work and Fun

The growth of the Michigan State News into a daily newspaper requires a period of time during which the college student publication grew from an occasional group of individuals interested in a weekly publication to the daily newspaper it is today.

The organization which was started by a few students interested in the newspaper business has expanded to include members of the Inter-Fraternity Council, Senior Class, and members of the Daily News staff.

The news organization is supervised by the Inter-Fraternity Council, which is in charge of the news organization.

Real Experience

The two avenues of advancement are open to the student who has a taste for newspaper work. One avenue is the actual operation of the newspaper, the other is the business end of the newspaper.

Paper Published

The first issue of the Michigan State News will be published in the morning edition of the Associated Press.

FRESHMAN WEEK SYMPOSIUM

The Michigan State News is planning to publish a symposium on the topic of lost souls. The symposium will be made available to all readers of the newspaper.

The symposium will include articles on the topic of lost souls, as well as articles on other topics of interest to the students.

Who are the authors of the symposium?

The symposium will be written by a team of students, faculty, and staff members who have expertise in the topic of lost souls. The team includes Dr. John Smith, Dr. Jane Doe, and Dr. Richard Brown.

The symposium will be published in the Michigan State News on the second week of the fall semester.

Why is the symposium important?

The symposium is important because it will provide readers with a comprehensive understanding of the topic of lost souls. It will also help readers to understand the challenges faced by those who are struggling with this issue.

What is the format of the symposium?

The symposium will be published as a series of articles, each written by a different author. The articles will be published in the Michigan State News on a weekly basis.
Topflight Musical Artists Will Perform Here in 1942-43

Philadelphia Opera Company
To Highlight Concert Series

Five Outstanding Numbers Are Booked
To Appear On College Auditorium Stage

By Louise Roth

In a series of five concerts scheduled for 1942-43, outstanding American and European artists will appear in the Michigan State college auditorium as part of the annual concert course.

Opening the course and highlight of the season will be the appearance of the Philadelphia Opera company on Tuesday, Oct. 27. Featuring grand opera in understandable English, the all-American troupe will present an afternoon performance of "The Rat" by Strauss and Kirnberger's "Faust" in the evening.

Troupe's Arrival

Organized by Sybase Levine, formerly associated with Leonid Makovski, and David Hocker, the Philadelphia company has set a new precedent in the opera world by streaming convincing acting as well as a spirited singing by a troupe in which the average age is 27.

Having achieved this unique victory on the musical front, the company will make its first tour in the United States, this fall, with full scale productions and symphony orchestras.

Second on the schedule will be the appearance Nov. 17, of Australia's Brono Castagna, of the Metropolitan opera company. Among the hits from Robin Hood Dell, Philadelphia to the Hollywood Bowl have become familiar with Mrs. Castagna and her concert tours.

Three times twice in one season, Mrs. Castagna was chosen by Torrens as soprano soloist with the NBC, symphony orchestra. In addition she has sung with the New York Philharmonic symphony orchestra under John Barbirolli. Recent tours have taken her throughout the United States and Canada.

More Castagna came to the Metropolitan with a background of world achievement. Having sung in opera and concert in Europe, Asia, Australia, and South America, last summer she was recalled to the Teatro Municipal in Rio de Janeiro, where she sang a summer season, including six performances of "Carmen."

Opening winter term Thursday, Feb. 14, will find the Belgian comprising quartet on campus for a concert. In recognition of the fact that some of the finest works in chamber music were composed for piano quartets, C. Munting, Poulet, C. Foidart, and J. Wetzels organized this ensemble in 1927.

Trained Under Paderewski

After its first appearances in this country in 1939, under the auspices of the Belgian government, the quartet returned to fulfill concert engagements during the following season. It is now temporarily established in this country.

Appearing Tuesday, April 13, Egon Petri, pianist, will be the fourth in the musical series. Under the influence of Paderewski and Housei, Petri embarked on a career in a concert pianist by the age of 20.

With a background of recital appearances in his native Holland and the rest of Europe, Petri has now transferred his

Selecting the "right" clothes for starting off to college for the first time will bring a headache to many a man, and Miss Michigan State of the class of '46 is no exception. Though President; and, naturally, among the distinguished men on campus there, the sleeping-president of to-one's cousin, Hal Crandall, long-haired Brad Neumann, junior; President: Paul Allen, then, president of the Union; and red-haired Bert Ruther, men's glee club president and I.S.A. officer, the extraordinary.

U.S. Regulates Styles

First of all, there is a glance at the whole fashion scene for fall. The experts this time have much more regulation and rigidly through their chief guides, rather than fishing in a flock of new downtown styles.

Their attention has centered on picking the best four price ranges for the seasons in terms of regulations and three, newer clothes for the climate, here, white and fabric, that will stand the wear. Mixers—like dinners and such have been ruled in favor of more feminine styles at per request of the men in service.

Cardy, saddlebacks, Tattersall checks and more reproduction by a couple of menus, all in warm colors for fall. These colors have been worn this year, and those of the more popular Sportleigh's and boys' coats in herringbone tweeds or plaids.

If you can afford a fair coat so much the better, but choose something such as the standard and handmade, here, that will stand the worst kind of hard wind. Smokey moon 리 will be more prevalent for any doing or tea. For your "right style", here are a couple of simplicity's suggestions. A tailored button blouse with a collar and/or back, button or braid, buttons, ribbons, red, beige, or green, and the scope of the fall styles.

That out of the way, decide what you need most because it's not best not to stock up much clothes. Better wait and see what the others are wearing.

Sisters Like Blouses

Scarfs and skirts are the backbone of any college wardrobe, but fall is speed ahead. Skirts are good-looking either plain or black, pleated or straight. Dress-scarf owners are long and long and gay in all bright and gay colors. And the new Check and the new Check print suit the style.

An exercise jacket to go with those scarves is a wise selection you will make, if your sisters wear the same clothes, especially those with long sleeves and silk. Dresses made up in your favorite color will be right first impression. There is a great variety of dresses, especially for the colder weather for a dress or tea. For your "right style", here are a couple of simplicity's suggestions. A tailored button blouse with a collar and/or back, button or braid, buttons, ribbons, red, beige, or green, and the scope of the fall styles.

Your big change for glamour comes in evening apparel. Fall terms offer only a few long-dress occasions and for these a dinner dress or your formal and a jacket will suffice.

Show Your Shoulders

But winter brings the formal season and an opportunity to show off your shoulders. State women usually follow harmony net skirts, but anything goes provided it's not too daring. Black velvet trimmed in white heavily fur is the conventional wrap, but a cape or coat in wool piled with a huge variety of additional decorations.

Before Freshman Week is half over, you will have hit the wide way that has been a requirement for the long distance walks from Union to campus.

Play it smart and show it in music, always a conservation of fashion, even toned and without saddles. We prefer being on the second floor for a Bishop, hips, belted coats with cape rope created to cope with the rubber shoes.

Beer go up for dates, tea, church, and out.

Dickies Get Bid

1. Top rank on your bid parade goes to Dickie. Want lots of them to wear with your sweaters.

2. Second place on the parade is both tred, brown or white suiting or cowgirl leathers to be worn for long tramps through the snow, winter term.

3. A special feature at MSC are balloon-sleeved blue plaid; baby crib blankets with a fringed edge.

4. Pearl (1 inch) to wear with scarfs, and the second most wanted is on the favored list. One of the latest fads is the silver bracelet.

Bachman Calls Out 47 Spartans

Squad to Include 17 Veterans
When It Gathers on Sept. 9

Rebuilding Program Will Preclude Season
Grid Opener With Wolverines on Oct. 3

Coach Charles W. Bachman recently mailed out invitations to 47 Michigan State college football players to report for early practice on Sept. 9. The Spartans will spend one day getting equipment and posing for photographers before getting down to actual practice on Sept. 10. Bachman said.

Included in the group called are 17 major letter winners of other years, eight backs and nine linemen, nine reserves and 20 sophomores. Of the returning veterans only two, tackles Walter Padowski and Jack Erpke, were regarded as starters in the last half of the 1941 season. The entire line has changed, a problem that the coaches must solve if the Spartans are to enjoy success in their hard nine-game schedule this fall.

State must rebuild this year. The coaches said the foundation is good, football practice has been much more work ahead of them. The opening game of the season is with the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor on Oct. 3 and the first engagement on Marklin field is with Wayne university on Oct. 16. Until some of the freshmen prove themselves under fire it is probable that linemen who won their letters in replacement service last fall will get the call.

Better Off on Ends.

Howard Beyor of Muskegon is the only returning center. The guard choices are to be George Ruhman of Delta City and Don Letcher of Wyandotte. Richard Manders of Dearborn and Ted Borski of Battlecreek are the only veteran tackles returning. State is better off at the ends, where Roy Etle and Ted Bower of Detroit, Glenn Delbert of Pawhuska, and Bob McPherson of Phoenix.

Balanced Wardrobe Should Be Male Goal

Frosh Men's Fashion Problem is Matching Items So That They Blend Into An Ensemble of Clothing to Wear for Any Occasion

By Bill Barclay, State News Assistant Editor

In the remaining weeks before fall term begins 28 per cent of the prospective Michigan State college freshmen will be thinking more about what they're going to wear than about college algebra or English 102.

For the average freshman, leaving home for his first experience to college life means the biggest event in clothes buying since his mother bought him his first pair of long pants.

And whether he has a blank check from a rich uncle or whether he buys on a limited budget, one thing is most important: He's not buying himself individual shirts, shoes, and neckties. He's buying a balanced wardrobe.

Shop in East Lansing

There is always the temptation on a college campus to forget your money and throw it away in a rush or so that if you need help with your wardrobe.

The Baby mint pastel of the unusual pair will find its place in a balanced wardrobe. But if they don't fill in what you have, that will look a better bet for a couple of unfinished shirts or a good supply of necks, shoes, and ties.

Each college town has its own style presentation, and what's right at Michigan State might not fit in at an eastern or southern school. For this reason, it's always a good idea to hold off on part of your wardrobe until you have had a chance to look around East Lansing.

While most stores charge from $2.50 to $3.00 for a suit, and gold Hofin and dress-shop in a college town have an unbalanced collec-

Trends in tie and sock materials show houndstooths rising in popularity to take the place of uncomfortable silk.

Stock Up on Essentials

Houndstooth suits are a must. Aside from the fact that there is no absolute rule to governing "cool," being able to tell the fashions from those that don't suit in Michigan State campus is the best advice we can give for not every man.

You can fill out your shoe necessities with a dancy black pair that can be worn with any kind of dark pants, and picked up on informal wear in case you don't want to spend the money for a strictly formal pair. These three pairs are most important, if you want more, don't overlook the full-moon, moccasin front type which is especially popular in dark brown. Since your shoes will have to last for a long time, don't overlook shoe trees.

Another point which is easily forgotten in filling out a wardrobe is that irregardless of what it is, a shoe is a shoe to be taken care of.

Houndstooth and checkered suits are among the worst fabrics, but an accessory that can be a great help in holding out the wear is the "neat," a balanced wardrobe—tells if or militarily shades. It's still a little early for buying topcoats or overcoats, but don't forget a place in your budget for them.

Rugged wool scarves, often matching with ties or with knitted gloves, are stylish as well as practical. A plain white silk scarf is a necessity for formal wear during East Lansing's winter season.

Weir Right Clothes Right

Ties are not only increasingly popular, and many prefer them to the overalls for all college wardrobe. The longer, full-sized tie is definitely shorter, and feature the expected mohair and check. It's still a little early for buying toppers or overcoats, but don't forget a place in your budget for them.

But no matter how much you spend, how varied your wardrobe, or how closely you follow the fashion magazines, it's more important that you wear clothes right than to wear the right clothes. It's your personal "bottom appearance"—the way you wear your clothes—decides if or militarily shades. It's still a little early for buying topcoats or overcoats, but don't forget a place in your budget for them.

Michigan State Students Go 'All Out' for War Effort

Three Groups Outline Big Program for Both New and Old MSC Students

By Jerry ter Horst

When the bombing of Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, rudely awakened the United States to the realities of war and the nation changed its political platform from "National Defense" to "V for Victory," every student Spartans became war-minded and enlisted for combat action.

Michie council and members of the faculty put their heads together and came up with the idea of Student Defense and a coordinated program for Michigan State that functioned for students last year and will function every year this year.

To Hold Victory Cake Days

Other activities listed by OSD for the coming school year include a repetition of the Victory days, stamp drives, campus-side air forces, National Defense Council, Michigan State's little UNO, which provides entertainment by Spartan women for men in the armed forces in Fort Woman and in Lansing. According to George Director of campus defense last year, "No better opportunity for incoming freshmen to become acquainted with State and start an active career here could be found than in taking part in some branches of campus defense activity."

SSO Entertains U.S. Service Men

Highlighting Michigan State's campus defense program for this year and responsible for the entertainment of several thousand soldiers, sailors and military men was the SSO--officially known as Spartan Service Organization, but more commonly referred to as the Little UNO.

Organized by Men's council, and actively directed by Ben Morgan, President, the SSO was as little UNO in name only.

Worried Help

In addition to the student athletes, men were joined by some of the student body to form a group that would make girls feel at home in the barracks. The group, which would provide warm clothing and training manuals for the women, was organized by Ben Morgan. The group was headed by John Wilson, the only man to fill the position.

SSO--Save Our Stamps

For operating SSO in an on-scale manner this fall we are being formulated into the national committee, which involves several hundred of the leading students in the country to aid in the war effort.

The Smoke Shop

The Smoke Shop has been the meeting place for MSC men--for tobacco, for recreation and for just plain hell sessions.

You'll LIKE the friendly Spartan spirit of the Smoke Shop. You'll enjoy the billiard tables, ping pong tables and the lunch counter. The Smoke Shop is one place where you can find nearly anything you need.

SUNDAE'S GRILL

ACROSS FROM STATE THEATER
sponsors is the annual Religious Lecture series in which noted leaders in several religious denominations are brought to the campus to give talks.

Other projects of the group include making GPP Shall in Lansing and East Lansing, holding a Christmas party for underprivileged children and supervising junior Y.M.C.A. groups

Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist, and Jewish organizations.
