Nazis Occupy Two Streets' in Stalingrad

German Broadcasts Say Strategic Objective Is Achieved

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Nazi tanks and infantry yesterday broke into two streets in the central part of Stalingrad and attacked the Nazi banks there, causing heavy damage, according to reports sent by the three German radio stations.

A midnight Soviet communiqué and 15 of the 30 German tanks battled against the Red army in the Volga industrial suburbs of Stalingrad were stopped and four were destroyed (about 2,000 men) of infantry were wiped out.

Only in one place where the enemy was in the center of the city did a heavy concentration of tanks and infantry occur.

Less than 2,000,000 were available in the Volga industrial sector for anti-aircraft and other defense against German attacks.

German soldiers admitted today that they had fought their way through the Volga industrial sector of Stalingrad, and that the German army would continue to hold the city.

Students Live on 'Borrowed Time'

A_MERRICA'S college students "are living on borrowed time."

"There is no commitment that any man may complete his college education." So says Harvey H. Bundy, assistant to the secretary of war, in an address to Yale freshmen.

Willingness of the government to permit young men to enter service and better than they had been in the past was described by Bundy as a "loan" and an "experiment."

"If the loan to the colleges becomes a method by which men who cannot be in the thick of the battle avoid the hazards of war, if the colleges retain any of the aspects of the country club which have been painful evident in the past, if the men who can afford to go to college are considered as a separate class exempted from longing, the experiment will be a dismal failure and will not long continue," Bundy said.

What the government expects of the colleges is an increasing number of professional men fitted for "greater service to their country," Bundy declared. (ACP).

An Open Letter to the Class of '43

"To the Class of '43:

"I want to take this opportunity to thank each and every member of the senior class for the loyal support which has been given me during my "unofficial" candidacy for the position of class president.

"I would like to have run for this office, but since it is impossible, perhaps I can be of service in some other field of endeavor.

"I was under the impression that I had hurdled the academic barrier required to hold a class office, but I have been overtaken due to a technicality—that I am not enrolled in any specific college division—just a general overview student.

"This should explain my reason for my withdrawal, so thanks again for bearing with me.

"Sincerely,

Eddie Sewell."

Injuries Appear in Backfield Before Wayne Tilt Tomorrow

By Tom Rioden

With three Michigan State backfield men, who were expected to return to the early series, all out with injuries, Coach Charley Bachman isn’t looking at this Saturday with much optimism. The boys, Jack Fenton, Edo Bierman, and Tom Leaf, were held off in last week’s scrimmage sessions.

Jerry Harrington scored two of them as he caught a scoring pass and ran over for the second touchdown. Other scores were Tony Ireland, El Stevens and Burt Curr.

Both Bierman and Crisler May Rely on Passing in Top Gridiron Game

By Paul Chandler

ANN ARBOR, Okt. 9 (AP) — If a year ago anyone had predicted that football teams would engage in a wide-open aerial duel, he might have been branded a dangerous character and sent off to the country for a rest. Yet that seems to be the best guess on what will happen when Crisler’s Michigan Wolverines and Bierman’s Iowa Cadets, both undefeated, clash here Saturday.

When Bierman was at Minnesota, and particularly in 1918 when he had a championship team, he was probably the nation’s most devoted disciple of the straight, on-the-ground football. Crisler mixed his offense a little more, but primarily he had a running eleven.

Today both Crisler and Bierman have strayed from their first love. Michigan’s fast break spirit the Great Lakes teamsters consider a flightlight with a baffling assortment of four-centers, laterals, and men-in-motion.

Until today, with the arrival of the Sea Hawks’ advance group, few persons here were aware that Bierman had concentrated heavily on passing.
