The latest communique from the sugar beet front tells of the terrific onslaught a new "beet tank" is making on the beet lines. Two of the ingenious devices already have taken to the field, and a third is now in the process of manufacture. The machine in question is a beet-loader, designed by Prof. E. G. Sauve, of the agriculture engineering department, and will in future years undoubtedly prove a great boon to sugar beet producers. What "beets" all is that the loader already is proving "a great boon" to volunteer student pickers.

... Excalibur Scalped

Those nine Michigan State coats seen tripping over their coat-tails on Women's day were none other than members of Mortar Board, national senior women's honorary. And those sharp-looking gray coats with the red "X's" belonged to none other than the members of Excalibur, men's senior honorary. Since the women were taking over for the day, they decided to do it up right by taking the Excalibur coats, too. The adjoining sketch, by Dave Lucas, portrays Shirley Freeman in one of the drape shaped coats.

... Female Law Arm

Perhaps the humility of getting a ticket was a little more easily borne Wednesday when the women took over that work. Headed by Mary Jane Albright, the women gave a "few" tickets and accompanied the regular campus police on their rounds. The exact number of tickets issued was not available, but Campus Police Chief Bert Daniels reported that nothing outstanding occurred, even with the women on duty.

British Get Ready for Heavy Battle on Egypt Desert

By DON WHITEHEAD
CAIRO, Oct. 29 (AP)—The coordinated mass of the British Eighth army was reported dealing methodically tonight with German 88-millimeter guns slowed the six-day Allied advance which have, in some cases, vance in the desert.

The days' news of military developments on the rolling, scrub-covered sand was meager and considerably behind the clock. At midnight Tuesday, it was disclosed, the Eighth army beat off an enemy counter-attack, inflicting damage. Wednesday there were light brushes of opposing armor throughout the day, but no major tank engagements. It may be a week before a full test of armor occurs.

However, the British were slowly getting into position to strike at the enemy main force. There was heavy artillery action. In some cases the intensity of the enemy fire had checked the Allied advance until the enemy gun positions, mounting fierce 88 millimeter pieces of ordnance screened by machine-guns, were put out of action.

The United Nations air forces, carrying the war again to the enemy in every direction, set a new high in standards of precision bombing. In five days they sank two merchant ships and three tankers trying to bring supplies into the Axis port of Tobruk.

Reliable informants said German Marshal Rommel obviously was in sore need of fuel and supplies to take the risk of bringing such ships directly into Tobruk, within easy range of Allied bombers.

'Silk Stocking Shortage Doesn't Worry Us'

By ELLEN STEGENGA

State women aren't worried about the stocking shortage. The general attitude is one of "wait and see what happens." Some women plan to use leg makeup, but as Mary Lee Cooper, L. A. '44, pointed out, State weather isn't adapted to war sacrifices. Leg makeup runs in the rain and sub-zero weather is hard on bare legs.

However, the thought of winter winds and snow is not bothering Joan Cameron, Liberal Arts sophomore, who shelved the whole problem by saying, "I just won't wear any stockings. I

Convocation Monday Will Explain Reserve Program to All State Men

Classes to Be Excused for Whole College at 10 a. m.

By LOUISE ROTH

A convocation for all men, students and faculty members, will be held Monday at the College auditorium at 10 a. m. for the purpose of acquainting men with the various reserve units, Pres. John A. Hannah announced yesterday.

To make it possible for students and men of the faculty to attend, all college classes will be excused at 10 a. m. In case the convocation extends over the hour, 11 a. m. classes also will be excused, Hannah said.

All men, including those already enlisted in a military reserve and those in advanced ROTC, are expected to attend the convocation.

The joint board in charge of enlistments in college reserve units of army, navy, marines, coast guard, army air corps, and naval air corps will be on campus Monday and Tuesday. A representative of each of these reserve units will speak at the convocation, explaining the plan of his unit.

During the balance of Monday and Tuesday, the representatives will be available for consultation with individual members of the student body.

Salary Raises Possible, If All Red Tape Is Cut, Treasury Officials Say

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)—Despite the strict terms of the salary stabilization program, plenty of raises are still possible for the nation's white collar workers, treasury officials indicated today.

However, getting the raises approved by the Bureau of Internal Revenue may call for extra effort by their employers. Assistant Treasury Secretary John L. Sullivan said today that many of the salary increases will be subject to individual decision of the Internal Revenue Bureau, and not covered by even the detailed regulations which he said would be issued in about two weeks.

However, to meet the needs throughout the country, the bureau will set up regional stabilization offices, the first seven to go into operation in the next 10 days and additional ones to be established later where needed.

In the event a previous "salary agreement or salary wage schedule" has been maintained by the employer, workers may be raised by individual promotions, merit increases, length-of-service plans, trainee systems, or for "other reasons or circumstances" which may be prescribed by the revenue bureau, without getting the commissioner's approval, he said.

He said the wisest plan for an employer who had maintained "unwritten" raise policy on a merit or some other basis would be to put that policy in writing and take it to the nearest stabilization office for approval.

Americans Throw Back Jap Attacks in Solomons Fight

Defenders of Guadalcanal Struggle to Hold Vital Airfield

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)—Grimly battling to hold the airfield on Guadalcanal island, American marines and army men have thrown back three more Japanese onslaughts, the navy reported today.

One of the attacks pierced the American lines, but counter-attacks recaptured the momentarily lost positions. The two other assaults were repulsed, however, without denting the defending lines.

No Action at Sea

This action occurred on October 27 (Solomon Islands time), the navy communique said. The announcement added that the

East to Speak on Lecture Series

Opening the fall World Adventure series, Ben East, Grand Rapids Press outdoor writer, will present the story of the Aleutian islands in the motion picture lecture "Pathway for Invasion" in the college auditorium Saturday at 8 p. m.

In natural color film taken less than six months before Pearl Harbor, East will show pictures of a trip along the southern Alaskan coast and through the Aleutian islands.

Showing pictures of Atka and Attu, two Aleutian villages now destroyed by war, East will describe the Aleutians and outline their role in the war as a path for invading troops moving east against the United States or west against Japan.

Cost High for Nazi Gain at Stalingrad

MOSCOW, Friday, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Germans hurled an entire infantry division and dozens of tanks against Russian lines in a factory district of northern Stalingrad yesterday to gain another 50 to 100 yards at a cost of 1,500 dead and 11 tanks and 23 planes destroyed.

The midnight Soviet communique indicated most of the Red army positions held fast despite attacks from several directions.

Far to the south of the besieged Volga river city, on the high Nalchik plain under the blizzard-swept Caucasus mountains, the Russians reported continued heavy fighting in which "our units stubbornly resisted the enemy and inflicted heavy losses."

Spartans to Donate to Blood Bank Soon

When threatened by predictions of absolutely no silk for hose, most women reply that silk was only a fashion anyway, and if no one can buy it, no one will mind wearing cotton, wool, or rayon. Until necessity demands it, however, they plan to avoid the heavy and less flattering silk substitutes.

Michigan State Has Campus Guests

Michigan State has some rather permanent guests on its campus.

They are the 300 soldiers in training at Lansing gun plants who have been placed in Wells Hall. Action to permit these men to occupy this dormitory—to eat there and sleep there and make themselves at home on the campus—was made by the State Board of Agriculture only after careful consideration.

Prior to moving in here, these men were housed at the Boys' Vocational school in Lansing. They have been here long enough now to appreciate the difference between a reform school campus and that of Michigan State and nobody need fear that they will overstep their bounds.

Each contingent will be here only 30 days, so let's just show them that Spartan spirit of friendliness and make them comfortable wherever possible or reasonable.

Factory Throw-outs

By GORDON DARRAH

Saturday afternoon, as the R. O. T. C. unit was readying its formations for the grand march, the Great Lakes players crossed the parade ground en route to the stadium. We heard later that one of the infantry basics broke ranks to sell tickets for the funeral.

Frankly, though, we do feel rather sorry for 250-pound Urban Odson, Great Lakes tackle, and the way his pride must be hurt at having to play second fiddle to a locomotive.

After the game, our imagination stirred, we could just see Anthony ordering an extra 100 barrels for his Tavernacle and trying frantically to get priorities for a new "wreck room" addition to be put in before night-fall.

Have you come across any rumors about the Spartans' new "graveyard shift" that is supposedly being reserved for use against Purdue? An unauthoritative source says it must be one in which the players line up and at the right signal fall flat on the ground, corpse-like, drawing the opposing line offside.

It Never Fails to Happen Department: At a dance (viz. Homecoming) you finish a set and romp out for a "coke-and-smoke" only to return, get in about eight bars of "Big Fat Mama," and hear the leader man announce a "short" intermission.

Recently we read of an Iowa woman, hospitalized with fever, whose husband was furloughed from the army to go home and pick his corn. Evidently the razor blade shortage isn't as acute as we thought.

The "Old Oaken Bucket" for which Dickenson and Gettysburg colleges vie on the football field is in reality a mahogany bucket, and only a few years old.

Army to Get Draftees If Red Tape Is Cut, Say Treasury Officials

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)—The war department today ordered a speed-up in its system of putting draftees into service, in order to make up for the men lost to the army by deferments of agricultural workers.

Secretary of War Stimson disclosed that beginning Nov. 1 the customary two week furlough granted new inductees, so that they may wind up their affairs before actually joining the colors, will be cut to one week.

"This step," Stimson said, "is a logical consequence of the recent deferment of agricultural workers, requested as a matter of national necessity, by the war manpower commission."
 Unless the other men were put into service more speedily, he said, the army would face "serious shortages" of men next month.

Junior, sophomore, and freshman pictures are scheduled to begin about the middle of November, according to Miss Amos, and will be taken in organization room 1 of the Union.

Work is already under way on the group pictures under the direction of Joy Randall, L.A. '44, organizations editor of the Wolverine. All group photographs for the 1943 Wolverine are being taken by the Hub studios of Lansing in the Little Theater of the Home Economics building.

THINKIN' OUT LOUD

By Sheldon Moyer

THE BEST thing we've seen all this week: Tom Johnson, the injured football star, out of the hospital and getting around under his own locomotion.

Tom, who was injured last April in an automobile crash, had been flat on his back for the better part of six months. He did manage to see several home football games from a portable cot, but now he's fast on the road to recovery.

The first day out of the hospital he hobbled on his crutches to a barber for a real shop haircut.

Everybody is laying bets on how long Tony, the purveyor of ham sandwiches and cowpunch, will ban college students from his Michigan avenue emporium.

Many students think that Tony will get over his anger within a week, but don't be surprised if it sticks. The suave looking little gent is getting fed up on the college trade, and says he'll join the navy before placing the welcome mat in the doorway again.

We shall see what we shall see.

The Mason hall boys presented their annual Governor's award this week. The "award" always is given to one of the dormitory's outstanding egotists. The presentation procedure goes something like this.

A very formal letter, written on official college stationery, is mailed to the "winner," telling him to report at a stated time in the Governor's office.

When he arrives there, usually all slicked up in his best Sunday suit, the Governor is out of town, and nooby has ever heard anything about the winner or his award.

Down at Ann Arbor, they have a more rugged version of the same prank. They offer the victim-to-be a ride on the handle bars of a bicycle, and when they're well started downhill, the driver just jumps off.

The days' first thought: It's swell sleeping in a cold room, but it's hell getting up in one.

CAPITAL to CAMPUS

ACP's Jay Richter Reports from Washington

WASHINGTON—(ACP)—As this is written, the Potomac is overrunning its banks; from the top of the Washington monument one can see the turbid waters filling low areas throughout the District of Columbia. Six days and nights of steady rainfall have left Washington war workers, congressmen, officials and "parasites" limp and damp and crotchety.

The wettest week in Washington history is also a week of the greatest historical significance to American colleges. Strong currents also are running through congress and administrative offices. The bill to draft 18 and 19-year-olds has been passed; the senators have just finished wrestling with it.

That bill may determine whether you continue your education and, if you do, what shape it may take during the remainder of your years, or months, in school.

Most teen-aged college students won't be called into military service until the end of this school year. This is particularly true of competent students, especially those taking scientific and technical courses.

After this year, when inroads on college teen-agers are likely to be relatively heavy, the question of who shall remain in school will be a stickler. The draft bill itself isn't likely to lay down strict stipulations on this matter—it will be left to administrative decision.

Broadly, administrative officials will base their decision on two major considerations: the course a student is taking and his scholastic record.

England's policies are a key to what may happen to students here. Although there has been about a 25 per cent drop in overall enrollment in Britain, scientific and technical departments of the colleges are crammed full of students. Obviously, the drop has occurred in liberal arts courses.

And obviously, these same courses will suffer in America. Officials in the Office of Education here believe that American arts colleges haven't done all they should to cope with that inevitable situation.

These officials feel that some educators are slow to recognize the inevitability of the drop-off in enrollment and, consequently, are slow to prepare for it.

First, say the officials, these educators should expand their curricula, and quickly, to include additional science courses, courses in physical education and the like. In short, courses that tie in more closely with prosecution of the war.

Conversion, in many cases, hasn't been thorough and it hasn't been prompt.

Second, arts educators should devise a plan right away for keeping their best students—scholastically speaking—in school. The need in this war for trained, educated men and women is as great as the need for front line fighters. It is highly important that the "right" students remain to study. Recommendations of the arts colleges will probably determine which are the "right" students, even though final decision will, theoretically, be up to the government.

Hermie Says —

REGULAR Michigan State football fans hope that Coach Charley Bachman will have a Mike Schelb on hand for the Temple game Saturday. At least they hope somebody can have the luck Schelb had when he used to play halfback for the Spartans against the Owls.

In his sophomore year the Allegan seatback got his first chance for action against Temple and proceeded to tote the pigskin for 170 yards, averaging 14 yards per try.

The following fall State fell to the Owls, 21 to 19, but this didn't stop Michael Francis Wilhelm from continuing his luck in Owl contests. Two of Schelb's aerials went to mates in the end zones for two of the Spartan scores.

Last year, when State whitewashed the Owls, 46 to 0, Schelb really put on a scoring exhibition in the Temple contest. Twice Mike took Owl kicks and returned them for touchdowns, and topped this off by spooting 19 yards from scrimmage for another score.

Schelb's jinx to Temple probably was one of the most consistent ones a college football team has ever had to buck up against.

Michigan's 'Big 3' Meet Traditional Rivals This Week

Football Tilts Promise Plenty of Action Saturday

DETROIT, Oct. 29 (AP)—The state's Big Three of college football—Michigan, Michigan State and Detroit—encounters traditional opponents this week-end to top a nine-game State schedule.

Michigan's twice-beaten Wolverines, returning home after a one-week absence, tackle a favored Illinois eleven Saturday in a Western conference battle expected to draw 35,000 fans. Under their new coach, Ray Eliot, the Illini have four victories and one defeat, last week's hard-fought setback to Notre Dame.

Michigan State's astonishing Spartans meanwhile move into Philadelphia to meet the Temple Owls, winner of only one game in five starts this year. The Spartans, taking a new lease on life after upsetting the Great Lakes Bluejackets, are on the first leg of a transcontinental tour. Next week State plays Washington State at Spokane.

University of Detroit's unbeaten Titans go after their fifth successive victory Sunday against Marquette at Milwaukee. This promises to be a free scoring battle between Elmer (Tippy) Maderik of Detroit and John Strzykalski, sensational Marquette sophomore whose pitching arm whipped Michigan State two weeks ago.

Injuries Jinx Spartans in Temple Tilt

Injuries may prove the downfall of Michigan State's football team, which will meet Temple university in Philadelphia tomorrow afternoon. At present regular right halfback, Walt Pawlowski is hobbling around on crutches and probably won't play.

Latest mishap is the bruised foot of Big Alger Conner, sophomore right tackle. Conner was at the Spartans' last home workout the day before yesterday, but he was able to run only a little. Coach Charley Bachman hopes that Conner will be ready to go against the Owls.

Diebert May Play

In the event that Conner has to be used sparingly, Glen Diebert, letterwinning end last fall and since converted into a tackle, will get into the fray. Ken Balge, changed from tackle to end, will also be ready to help out with the tackle assignment.

Pawlowski's spot at right halfback will be taken care of by either Edo Mencotti or Morgan Gingrass. Other blocking backs that Bach will have on tap to spell the starter are Pete Fornari and Jack Fenton. All will probably see action.

Temple Has Strong Defense

A strong defensive team, Temple will try to put the breaks on Dick Kieppe and El Ripmaster, main running threats of the Spartan eleven. If these two are stopped, State will no doubt take to the air with Kieppe aiming at End Bernie Roskopp and Vice Mroz. Bob McNeil will also help at the flank.

Coach Bachman and his 31 player squad left Lansing by train yesterday afternoon and will take a light workout in Philadelphia this afternoon, its last before the contest.

In tomorrow's game Bachman will probably start Mroz, Roskopp, Conner, Dick Mangrum, Don LeClair, Howie Beyer, and George Radulescu in the line, and Kieppe, Ripmaster, Russ Gilpin, and Gingrass or Mencotti.

Freshman Gridders Take on Broncos in Renewal of Frosh Competition

Spartan football fans will have an opportunity to look into the future Saturday when the Spartan yearlings of Coach John Kobs meet the frosh of Western Michigan on Macklin field at 2 p. m.

Coach Kobs will dress a squad of over 80 players for the game hoping to give the majority of them an opportunity to show their varsity potentialities under actual game conditions.

Varsity Coach Charley Bachman commented that this year's freshman crop is one of the most promising that State has had in many seasons. Included among the frosh are plenty of hefty, versatile men with considerable high school experience.

Center at 202

Among the notables of the squad are two Lansing Eastern lads: Charles Gilmore, 189-pound fullback, and Stan Brauer, husky center tipping the scales at 202. Another fullback, Elmer Theide of Detroit should give the Broncos lots to worry about.

David Sniderman, former star quarterback at Culver military academy, has shown promise against the varsity in many scrimmages. From Wheaton, Ill., comes one of the most versatile backs on the frosh squad in Phillip Durant, 190-pound halfback who passes and runs with equal ease.

Raft of Linemen

Kobs will have a raft of men in the line to choose his starting front wall. Joe Bragger, Bill Mierzkowski, John Pletz, Paul Gould, Jim DeSteffans, Stan Brauer, and Tom Keller will probably be among those who see action.

This will be the first frosh eleven to represent State against other schools since 1940, when freshman competition was closed. Kobs said that attempts are being made to arrange a contest with the University of Michigan freshman.

Harriers to Meet Undeclared Penn

The Michigan State cross country team will try for its second win of the season when it takes on a well-balanced Penn State harrier crew Saturday. The Spartans were beaten by Indiana last Saturday after taking their opening meet from Drake.

Penn is unbeaten having dropped Manhattan and Syracuse. The visitors will be favored to trip up the Spartans although the race will take place on State's cinder paths.

Coach Lauren Brown will have Capt. Ralph Monroe and Bill Scott; his two aces, Bill Hershiser, Morris Horski, Jerry Page, Bill Maxwell, and Bill Fritz ready to run against Penn.

Spartans Arrive

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30 (AP)—Temple footballers finished rough practice work yesterday in preparation for their game here Saturday against Michigan State. Only a light signal drill is listed today.

The Spartans are scheduled to arrive this morning and will put up at the Benjamin Franklin hotel.

Independent Touch Football Contests Handicapped by Bad Playing Weather

Six games were played off in the independent touch football loop last night during a steady light drizzle that made fields treacherous and the ball slippery, cutting down passing efficiency.

One pass, however, was sufficient to give the Lansing All-Stars a first-minute touchdown and pave the way to a 13-0 win over the Bears. The toss was made by Christy to Warren. Christy added the second touchdown later on a short end run.

The Wolves, paced by the running of Bill Warner, hung up another 13-0 score over Evergreen Manor. In another game, the Little Bears outpassed the Newman club 12-7. Finucan threw two touchdown passes to Baun for the winners, while Hall's pitch to Fleming accounted for the loser's score.

Led by the passing and running of Barney Sliger and Bill Fidor, the Underdogs racked up three first downs to none for the Pyjacky team to cop an otherwise scoreless game.

In other league tilts, the Kermites trounced the Bombardiers, 19-0, and the Angels tamed the Wildcats with a 13-0 count.

Rickey Named Head of Brooklyn Dodgers

Van Paassen and Gromer Lecture to MEA Convo; Closes Today

The Michigan Education association, meeting on the campus yesterday and today, heard Julian Gromer, photographer, traveler and adventurer, speak at the evening program in the College auditorium at 8 last evening.

A natural color motion picture, "Hawaiian Paradise," filmed just before Pearl Harbor, formed the background of his program. His films have been judged by leading film manufacturers as "97 per cent perfect."

Pierre Van Paassen, foreign correspondent and famous contemporary author, was the speaker at the opening session of the conference yesterday at 10 a. m.

Painting a dark but realistic picture of the war today, Van Paassen emphasized that schools and churches must think today about post-war problems so that a fair and lasting peace may be written and maintained following the war.

Kennel Club Plans Annual Dog Show

"Dogs for Defense" will be the theme of the annual Ingham County Kennel Club dog show to be held in Demonstration Hall Nov. 8, J. S. Bien, chairman of the show, announced yesterday.

This year the program is especially designed to acquaint the general public with the type of work dogs can do in the military services, and to interest them in donating their own pets.

More than 400 dogs will be exhibited, according to Dr. Bien, and for the first time in the history of the show, the winner's trophy will be present by Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner.

Senators Ask Probe of Price Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29 (AP)—A new offensive to obtain higher price ceilings for farm products was launched on Capitol Hill today as irate farm state senators assailed what they called "high-handed and illegal" administration of the new price control act.

Senators Gillette (D-Iowa) and Reed (R-Kans.) jointly proposed that the senate agriculture committee investigate the administration of the law.

They introduced a resolution asking the committee to inquire into maximum prices fixed for farm products, the payment of subsidies and the activities of the commodity credit corporation in maintaining minimum or maximum prices on agricultural commodities.

William Werstler, Jr., traveled by horseback more than 1,000 miles from his father's ranch at Walden, Colo., to the University of Illinois.

navy department here had received "no report of any recent action at sea or landing of enemy reinforcements."

The communique additionally stressed the importance of the airfield as the objective of the Solomons fighting, with announcements that American planes there had been hitting the enemy some apparently telling blows.

Japs Now Have Anti-Aircraft

Also on the 27th, planes from enemy gun positions to the Guadalcanal field "bombed westward" of the airfield. They destroyed an anti-aircraft battery and an ammunition dump.

This was the navy's first mention of Japanese anti-aircraft guns on Guadalcanal.

Enlistment Begins for Army Reserve

"During the period from Oct. 30 to Dec. 31 a special effort is being made to register all qualified sophomores, juniors, and seniors who desire to enlist in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps," Col. Stuart McLeod said yesterday.

Colonel McLeod pointed out that on and after Jan. 1 freshman students only will be eligible to get into the Army Enlisted Reserve.

Students desiring to enlist should first go to President Hannah's office and obtain a certificate stating that they are scholastically qualified for enlistment, and bring the certificate to the military department for physical examination.

A recent tabulation lists the valuation of fraternity and sorority chapter houses at $153,124,000.

pervisor, and his crew of officials the brawl was conducted with all the thrills and tough activity, but with little of the danger that had characterized brawls of former years. "I feel that tonight's brawl was quite a success in that there were no casualties and all the contestants had a good workout," said Lambert.

The soccer contest was a spirited event, as was the poison ball game, but though there were many pile-ups and collisions, the rules were observed and only minor bruises resulted. During the pull-across-the-line contest a great many brawlers displayed talents for Indian wrestling and endurance holds which drew cheers from the crowd.

If it's hate, fear and greed we are fighting against, perhaps the second front should be opened here at home.
