Nazis Invade Tunis by Air, Swarm Over France; Darlan Joins Allies

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP)—American forces plunged eastward across Algeria tonight to strike the Axis in Tunisia and beyond in Libya after their brilliantly-executed, 77-hour campaign brought a capitulation order from Admiral Darlan to Frenchmen in all North Africa.

While Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. "Iron Ike" Eisenhower's men consolidated victories at Algiers, Oran and Casablanca, highly mobile American units shot into the Algerian interior and along the coast 120 miles to Bougie, itching for their first big clash with the Germans in this war.

German and Italian troops swept through Vichy France to the Mediterranean shore meanwhile invading Corsica and infiltrating Tunisia by air.

American columns reinforced by crack elements of the British first army dashed at least one-third of the way from Algiers to the Tunisian borders in a determined effort to get there first with the most men.

Directory Will Be Out by Thanksgiving Day, Registrar Reports

With about half of the checking on galley proofs completed, the 1942 edition of the student directory is on its way toward completion, Registrar R. S. Linton announced yesterday.

When questioned about the probable date for the appearance of the finished directory, Linton said, "I expect to be thankful that the directory is out when I eat turkey on Thanksgiving."

Linton explained that the directory would appear later this year than in former years due to a shortage of labor in the printing industry.

This year's directory is being published by the college while formerly it was handled by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

... Where Smoke Is

The sight of women smoking is startling but usually not enough to pitch a man on his face.

On the return trip from the west coast, after the Washington State game, Jack Heppinstall, varsity trainer, notices a well-dressed old lady take out a cigarette and start smoking it.

Attempting to attract Dr. Holland's attention to the phenomenon, Heppinstall motioned with his head and shoulders just as the train jerked, and landed him, chair and all, in the aisle.

To Be Installed as ROTC Sponsors Tonight

Final OK on Lower Draft Age Is Near

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP)—The bill lowering the Selective Service induction age from 20 to 18 appears headed for final congressional approval tomorrow, exactly four weeks after it was reported favorably to the house.

The last impediment to enactment of the sharply debated measure seemingly was removed today when a group of senators decided not to press their attempt to require a full year's training for the 18 and 19-year-olds before they could be sent into combat service overseas.

The senate had inserted the provision by a 39 to 31 vote

These nine Michigan State college coeds, shown in this first complete picture, will be installed as ROTC corps sponsors today at 7:30 p. m. in Jenison fieldhouse with 600 cadet officers participating in an impressive ceremony. They are from left to right: Top row—SHIRLEY FREEMAN, East Lansing, coast artillery; BETTY JANE YOUNGMAN, Lakeview, signal corps; MARY JEAN WOOD, Grand Rapids, quartermaster. Middle row—HELEN LINCK, Ravenna, band; MAJEL WHEELER, Mishawaka, Ind., cadet colonel; MARCIA RYBARSYK, Lansing, cavalry. Bottom row—JACQUELINE MEEHAN, Kenmore, N. Y., Pershing Rifles; BETTY GIBSON, Crystal Falls, field artillery; and MARY BENT, East Lansing, infantry.

Spartans Will Hold Rally Friday Night for Purdue Game

In an effort to stimulate school spirit, a pep rally preceding the Michigan State-Purdue game will be held tomorrow at 7:15 p. m. at the west entrance of the Union, according to Ernie Guy, head Spartan cheerleader.

The cheerleaders will teach at least four new yells to the student body and college songs will be sung. Members of the team and coaches will give short speeches.

Because plans failed for seating a special rooting section at games, Guy says all students must learn to cheer themselves.

Fashion Note

'Just a Little Bit of Femininity,' Plead Men

By NEVA ACKERMAN
Slacks are o. k.—but—with reservations—is the consensus of opinion of Michigan State men on the much debated "slacks for women" question.

"I like to see some femininity around here," Louis Brand, L. A. '44, comments. "We don't want the place to look like a factory or work shop."

"There is a time and place for everything," says Roger Blackwood, L. A. '43. "Slacks are all right when it's cold weather, but the girls should have the right kind of figure. I'm not fond of them except for picnics and active sports."

Walt Beardslee, L. A. '43, favors some restrictions on the kind of slacks. "Some girls can't wear them," he points out, "but if the slacks are cut neatly and aren't 'loud' they look fine. A man likes to see a skirt once in a while, though."

"It all depends upon the girl's figure," according to Bob Canham, L. A. '44. "I do think it is the woman's privilege to wear them without administration regulations and they look sensible in cold weather."

The silk stocking shortage is justification enough for slacks wearers, Jack Dodge, L. A. '43 and Bill Alles, L. A. '44, contend. "Slacks will look better if covered by a hip length jacket at least," Dodge suggests.

Eddie Sewell, General Curriculum '43, puts his approval on the question but adds "This slacks-wearing can be overdone."

Agreeing with him is Jim Metzger, L. A. '44, who thinks that the time for slacks is cold weather, but the girls who wear them should have the right kind of figure. "However, I don't approve of having them worn habitually," he stated.

Homer Opland, A. S. '43, has a theory all of his own on the matter. "Slacks make the majority of the girls look sexy, he maintains. I'm for them, but some reservations are necessary. If the gal looks like a barrel, then she shouldn't wear slacks. They're practical if well-tailored and—besides they cover knobby knees."

AEF General Airs Appeal to French

Asks That Prized Ships Sail for Gibraltar to Join Allies

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 12 (AP)—Whereabouts of the bulk of the French fleet, who controls it and what they are going to do with it provided a tense mystery today, 24 hours after Hitler's legions started marching across France toward its base at Toulon.

The Daily Express published a report from a staff correspondent "on the French frontier" this morning that "several units" of the French navy, including a number of submarines, steamed out of Toulon early Wednesday morning with the intention of joining the Allies in Africa. Official British remained silent on the fleet's location.

ALLIED FORCE HDQ. in North Africa, Nov. 11 (AP)—Lieut.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the American expeditionary forces in North Africa, today broadcast an appeal to the French fleet to "join the United Nations in the fight for freedom" by sailing for Gibraltar.

But, it was reported tonight, the main striking power of the French fleet still remains in Vichy's faltering hands, at anchor in its home base at Toulon. There was no hint as to whether

'Allies Will Invade Reich,' Churchill Tells Commons

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP)—As Germany at every moment becomes more demoralized by Allied pressure in Europe and Africa, she will be struck by invasion across the English channel or the North sea, Prime Minister Winston Churchill promised the House of Commons today while the Nazis were over-running all of France.

"Such an attack requires an immense degree of preparation," the prime minister told the electrified chamber. "All this is proceeding but it takes time."

"Of course, should the enemy become demoralized at any moment, the same careful preparation would not be needed. Risks could be run on a large scale."

In a message ringing with optimism, Churchill told the house it could be sure "that many things are going to happen in the next few days," and sounded an ominous warning to the Nazis' nervous allies—when he said, "We shall shortly have far greater facilities for bombing Italy."

THINKIN' OUT LOUD

By Sheldon Moyer

Michigan State ROTC graduates have been advancing rapidly in the army. We were fortunate enough the other day to get our hands on a three-page letter from Capt. Sammy Yeiter, a former student leader who graduated in 1941.

Sammy wrote from somewhere in northern Ireland, where he became a full-fledged captain last May just 14 months after receiving his commission as a second lieutenant.

Sammy sent along the following prelude to his letter:

"Dear Mistress, Wife, Sweet-heart or Ma,

I've checked the item which you are,

I've come across the sea to here,

I can not tell you where, my dear,

The censor is a man, please note,

Who says "The Bible do not quote."

A numbered note he will deny, What we have et he will deny.

We must not write with lines apart,

Or where we are, from where depart.

The track along which we have been,

The port or town which we are in.

The fact is all that I can say is that I love you, mom, today.

So Mistress, Wife, Sweet-heart, Ma dear,

From now till then, that's all you'll hear.

—By the Commanding General.

The letter actually was written last July to Sammy's mother in Lowell. Chances are now that he is somewhere in North Africa with the United States troops.

But wherever he may be, Captain Yeiter has written one paragraph in his letter that might be of general interest to men students. He says:

"I once thought I was a busy feller back in college days, and I thought likewise in Kentucky and maneuvers, but now I know that I hadn't gone through anything at all. In college, there was at least 15 minutes a day I could call my own."

Park Moewe, the good-looking blond SAE, was the victim of an enervating prank yesterday. Moewe, who is on 24-hour call to the army air force, received a letter from the air service. Before he arrived home at noon, some of his fraternity brothers had steamed open the envelope, and substituted a very official-looking letter which told him to report at Santa Ana, Calif., on Nov. 20.

Moewe opened the re-sealed letter, read it carefully and then announced the contents. Although he didn't feel much like eating and tore up all of his accounting papers, he retained his composure.

That is, he retained his composure until somebody showed him the real letter which gave every indication that Moewe would be allowed to finish school next June.

Spartans at War

By AL BERGLUND

ANOTHER former State athlete can now be added to your list of Spartans at War. Ensign Leslie C. Bruckner, football player from Milan, has been named division officer at the U. S. N. training school for radiomen at the University of Wisconsin.

Chalk up another promotion. Wallace E. Grubbs, Pittsburgh man who took a B. A. degree in '41, is now a first lieutenant in the A. A. F. After attending assorted flying schools, he got his commission at Lowry Field, Col., and is now the ranking chemical warfare officer in Lawson field, Tex. Grubbs was a "P.R." and a member of Student club while in school.

Word has reached the promotion to captain of a State man who went into the army a year ago as a second lieutenant. This fast stepping man is Capt. Milton G. Honsweyer, an instructor at the officers' training school at Camp Davis, N. C.

Now it's Ensign Doelker. Frederick Doelker, a boy from Jackson who attended Michigan State college was awarded the "gold wings" of naval aviation last week.

Doelker took his final training as an aviation cadet at the Jacksonville naval air training station, having reported there last March after his elimination flight training in Miami.

Telephone Blackout

Michigan State college students experienced a communications blackout last night. All incoming and outgoing calls on the college trunks were held up for 35 minutes—except in emergency cases—while county defense officials carried on a practice alert. The telephone blackout became a necessity after the numerous evening social calls considerably hampered communication operations in two previous blackouts this past summer.

Why all the publicity—About Marquette's Johnny Strzykowski (the joy of spelling) stepping from high school football into the more standing on the gridiron? The Spartans can boast three such prize packages in Alger Conner, Ken Balge and Harry Huber.

All three were high school colors until their graduation in January when they entered Michigan State and were enrolled in an accelerated academic program to enable themselves to become eligible for Coach Charley Bachman's eleven this fall.

This week's bouquet of roses falls directly in the lap of a pair of great Spartan ends, Barney Roskopp and Vince Mroz. These two boys have caused no little comment from opposing coaches in their hard driving, aggressive tactics. With Roy Fraleigh and Bob McNeil ready for action, State can present a quartet of the finest flankmen in the midwest.

Insurg here—None other than conscientious, efficient, dependable Bob Shedd, senior football manager. Bob has done a remarkable job in handling the management duties of Spartan football since his freshman year. His part may be overlooked by the average spectator but not by the coaches and players. They realize how important his function is to the success of the team.

Likeable guys—Pete Fornari, star halfback and the Spartan baseball team's leading hitter... Bill Beardsley, rugged fullback who has just come into his glory

Michigan State's bid for all-American honors, Dick Kieppe, who remains his same down-to-earth likable self... Bill Montee, spare football center, who hails from Three Rivers.

Tough to take—Big John Schlueter, from Chicago, might have been a Michigan State football star but a bad knee forced him out of play in his freshman year. John was rated close to Bill DeCorrevant as the Windy City's outstanding prep star. Yes, it's tough to take, both for Big John and Michigan State.

Rambling Notes from Former Spartans—Marty Hutt, basketball star of a few years past, flying bombers in India... Former Fullback Art Brandstatter, who is taking a special course in military intelligence in Austin, Texas

Lew Smiley and Bud McKitchan starring on the Fort Riley football team... Likewise Ed "Stumpy" Pearce at Fort Knox, Ky.

Phi Kappa Tau '7' Tallies 21 Points in Frat Grid Win

By PAT MCCARTHY

With the mercury hovering around the freezing point last night, the fraternity touch-league gridgers found it plenty tough to keep warm, let alone play football—that is, all except the Phi Kappa Tau seven which rolled up 21 points while holding the Alpha Epsilon Pi club scoreless.

Everybody was a star for the Phi Taus, with George Hackman tossing a touchdown pass to Charlie Kuhlman for the first tally. Bob Donely grabbed a blocked punt and scooted 25 yards into the end zone for the second, and Harry Barnes blocked a kick in the end zone and fell on the pigskin for the final six pointer.

The remaining counts were the result of a safety and one conversion on a pass from Kuhlman to Hackman.

Frat runner-up last fall, Sigma Nu, proved again to be a title contender, keeping its record unblemished by dropping FarmHouse, 8 to 0. Speedster Bucky Walsh was the difference between the two clubs, going for the only tally on a 40-yard sprint. A safety clinched this contest.

Kappa Sigma earned a 7 to 0 victory from Delta Chi on a 30-yard pass from Harold Folks to Elmer Hollanbeck, who was just beyond the double stripe. Eddy Jewel scampered around end for the extra point.

Bruce MacArthur paced his Hesperian club to a 2 penalty to 0 win over the Beta Chi despite the outstanding play of Dick Saxton and Bob Peterson. The latter turned in a fine game at the flank.

Boilermakers Plan Powerful Passing Attack

By TOM RIORDAN
The football clash between Michigan State and Purdue this Saturday may turn into a battle of passing attacks. So far this season both the Boilermakers and Spartans have done most of their gaining by means of their overhead games.

Neither club has done well so far, with Purdue's surprise win over Northwestern and State's win over Great Lakes, their best performances. Incidentally, the Wildcat tilt was the only time the Boilermakers have come out on top this year.

Must Stop McCaffry.
To stop the Purdue aerial attack the Spartans will have to stop Rangy Forrest McCaffry, six-foot Boilermaker flanker, who uses his speed and pass-catching ability to good advantage.

Then too, there's Right Halfback Ed Cycenas who was about the only Purdue man that did anything when the Bluejackets clubbed the Boilermakers, 42 to 0, last week. Cycenas hit McCaffry and the other starting end, Fred Smerke, several times for large gains.

To counter this threat Spartan Coach Charley Bachman will have his ace-tosser, Dick Kieppe doing some fancy tossing himself. Kieppe will aim at Ends

Vince Mroz and Bernie Roskopp, who have proven to be a fine pair of receivers.

Other Receivers
"Bach" will also have Bob McNeil and Roy Fraleigh, who were originally the starters at the flanks, but have been hampered by sickness and injuries, ready to shoot in and grab a few.

With George Radulescu, the only Spartan lineman injured in the Washington State game, back at his guard post, the hard-going State forward wall will be ready to stop anything that Purdue will try on the gridiron.

The injury situation in the backfield causes most worry with Walt Pawlowski and Ed Ripmaster just about definitely incapable of action. This throws the fullback and right halfback duties to Morgan Gingrass and Pete Fornari.

Bill Beardsley, Bill Gaylor, and Jack Fenton will help out Gingrass and Fornari.

Must Stop Him

FORREST McCAFFRY... Purdue pass-catching end...

Warren to Captain Boilermakers Here

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 11 (AP)—Out of action for two games because of a knee injury, senior football Tackle Bruce (Pinky) Warren of Kalamazoo, Mich., will not only return to action in Saturday's game but will captain the Purdue team as it goes against Michigan State. Coach Elmer Burnham announced today.

Burnham put his squad through an extended dummy scrimmage. He said the week's final workout would be held tomorrow, with the team scheduled to leave early Friday afternoon for East Lansing.

Freshman Gridder Lost to Team Due to Ankle Injury

The Michigan State freshman football team, which is in the midst of preparation for its game with the Michigan frosh next Friday, was dealt a serious blow at last night practice when regular Quarterback Dave Sniderman was rushed to college hospital with a badly injured ankle.

The 180-pound signal caller from Culver Military academy was being depended on to handle that post against the Wolverines, but now it is doubtful if he will even be able to make the trip.

Probabilities are that Buell Smith will handle the quarterback duties Friday. Smith saw considerable action when the Spartan frosh defeated Western Michigan, 13 to 0—two weeks ago.

Council Slates Thanksgiving Hop; City Gets Air Raid Posts

The Union board will sponsor a Thanksgiving Eve dance in College auditorium on the night of Wednesday, Nov. 25; it was announced to the Student council yesterday by Phil Althen, board president.

Other than this announcement, the meeting was routine. The council voted to appropriate $60 to equip three first aid stations on the recommendation of Jack Bush, senior class president. The funds appropriated were from the Mardi Gras profits of last year, and will equip the stations, two located in East Lansing and one on the campus.

The council voted to be represented at a meeting of the World Student Service fund, Saturday, Nov. 21 at Peoples church, when Miss Wilmina Rowland, secretary of the organization, will be present for discussions with delegates from several other Michigan colleges.

Ted Ross was named to head a committee of three, also including Vera Deaner and Frank Izzo, to make plans for a program celebrating International Student day, Tuesday.

The council failed to report any recommendation on a proposal to revive the traditions of hay rides, and the next meeting was set for 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Nov. 24.

AFRICA

Field reports indicated the Germans had about 1,000 airmen, with dive-bombers and fighters, in Tunisia, plus some Italian marines. Earlier reports that German air infantry had reached Tunisia, it was indicated, may have been premature.

However, it was believed that German Marshal Erwin Rommel was trying to reach Tunisia by land with what he has left of the army which was beaten in Egypt.

Back in dismal Vichy, Marshal Petain's first shocked protestations against the occupation of the "unoccupied" zone diminished in direct ratio to the general advance of the German divisions to "all objectives" in France.

With high German officers all around him, Petain and his cabinet issued a communique which said the marshal was "counting on" the French army in Africa "to continue the struggle to the limit of its forces." With Petain was Pierre Laval, just back from conference with Hitler in Munich.

MacArthur's Forces Rout Japanese at Oivi and Gorari; Are Setting Traps

GENERAL MAC ARTHUR'S HDQ., Australia, Thursday, Nov. 12 (AP)—Japanese forces have been routed at Oivi and face entrapment while another enemy group at Gorari has been enveloped and destroyed in battles for control of northeastern New Guinea, the high command announced today.

As the climax of a week-long battle of Oivi, 55 miles southwest of the coastal base of Buna, Australian troops which have been battling their way across the Owen Stanley mountains, forced the Japs from their positions, inflicting heavy losses.

But the Japs' only course of retreat is into the hands of American troops which were flown by aerial transport to the vicinity of Buna.

Victory Inevitable, Roosevelt Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP)—Asserting that victory was inevitable, President Roosevelt today expressed gratification that on this Armistice day Frenchmen were rallying to their Allies of 24 years ago and joining the battle against the Axis.

Standing before the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, he spoke of "great events" occurring in France and Africa. The "forces of liberation are advancing," he said, and the "opponents of decency and justice have passed their peak."

When we're out for something big, watch the small things, especially small minds, small details, small temptations.

Fire, Cold Make Nazis Miserable in Russia

MOSCOW, Thursday, Nov. 12 (AP)—Cold weather and a bold parachute fire raid on a German airbase cheered Russians today while their lines held firmly all along the front.

The broad picture was one of limited activity and increasing cold that is counted on to simplify the Reds' defense problems, particularly at Stalingrad, and multiply the hardships of the German invaders.
