Will Bomb Fleet if It Traps Germany to Tolbukin to Escape Pinner Movement

LONDON, Nov. 12—The combined Allied force from West Africa and the British eighth army from the east was ready to move tonight toward probable possible union in the 1,066-mile race. German air-transported fighters were flown out of France to bomb Tolbukin, the battle town, enabling a half-mile-long front to advance toward the Long-Tolbukin power pike.

The Germans went abroad with their swift occupations of both Spain and France, but they stayed off the western area of their movement. There was too much applause among naval men, whether or not the bomb could attack the movement.

OPEN LETTER TO MEN

(This open letter to men in the service is a weekly feature of The Michigan State News and is printed as events on campus. Clip it out and mail it to a friend in the service.)

Dearest Sonny,

With plenty of Pump and Ceremony, the 60th anniversary of M.I.C. formally installed nine new dormitory signs on Thursday night. Meet Whetter is now called cadre. The installation hall will be held tonight.

And last week there was a whole bunch of talk about throw out the women, even the girls before Tuesday is over. I think John A. Hanna killed it quick-like upon his return from Washington State college. He was sick, evidently, watching our boys get past a trip to the cellar, and by Buenos.

Advanced B.O.T.C. students got some more promotions this week. James Poindt will now instruct the students. Joel Dock, the quartermaster unit. Other top men are not yet announced.

Prof. Paul Herbert of the forensics department will be reading this with you all. He will be a captain in the army ordnance branch.

The faculty has been busy planning to handle more women in the Engineering division. They will be given fundamentals of engineering. The faculty also made plans for a continuation of their summer session for 43 with a six-week parallel course to go along with it.

Now one percent having any Thanksgiving vacation, Student council decided to hold a hop the night before. Weekend performer, for reasons, too.

Twenty-two of our campus highjinks got their names put in Who's Who among Students in American Universities and Colleges this week. This time their names were not read in a list. Go ahead now and go out to see our folks take over Purdue this Saturday. Speaking of Purdue, come find us at the Michigan State Friday for the first time in over a quarter of a century.

Love,

Dad H.

RIGHT ACROSS FROM THE UNION
In ten short months we have been hurled into a strange new world—a world battling to determine whether freedom of choice shall survive.

As a people, we have cheerfully chosen to restrict our freedoms now that freedom itself might live. Enthusiastically, we are investing our savings in the greatest cause in history. Eagerly, we have entered into various war works. Willingly, we have chosen to share our riches with those who share our hopes.

For ours is a land of plenty in a very empty world. Making such a choice, we have deliberately limited the quantity of many items essential to the war effort. This is as it should be. But there is a limit to the quantity of many things essential to the war effort. If we are to share our riches with those who share our hopes, we must limit the quantity of our own.

In this empty world, we have been hurled into a strange new world—
