ALONG THE WINDING CEDAR
By Len Barnes

FROM all indications, the defense effort at State has borne fruit. CTC Chairman Clarence Mullen has set up plans for a more cooperative and less intransigent attitude among both the students and faculty. Difficulties that arose during the recent sit-down strike have been ironed out, and students and administration are working together toward common goals.

HAY FEVER (Continued from Page 4)

Hay fever is a common condition that affects many people during the spring and summer months. It is caused by an allergic reaction to certain allergens, such as pollen, dust, and mold. Symptoms of hay fever include sneezing, runny nose, itchy eyes, and watery eyes. The condition can be uncomfortable and affect daily activities. To manage hay fever, it is important to identify the allergens that trigger symptoms and avoid them when possible. Treatment options include over-the-counter and prescription medications, such as antihistamines and corticosteroids. In some cases, immunotherapy (also known as allergy shots) may be recommended. It is also important to practice good hygiene, such as washing hands and using a humidifier, to reduce symptoms. With proper care, hay fever can be managed and symptoms can be controlled.
Bachman Prepares Spartans for Contest With rugged West Virginia Mountaineers

Sophomores Ken Belge and Edo Menecito to Start in Saturday's tilt; Bill Monroe Will Be at Center, Face of Howie Beyer

By Tom Bierbaum

It's going to be a tough one, this way Michigan's State's coach, Charley Bachman, considers his team's coming up against West Virginia and for a good reason.

Last year he Mountaineers fell to the Spartans 14 to 12, and as the boys left the playing field they vowed they'd never run up against a harder working, all-out football team.

The West Virginia grid iron kicked and landed hard. They used the old Snap Rocker and Washington State had mounted a touchdown play.

The last thing the State front was to ever fail for the second half against Purdue holds, to make things easy, but there will probably be some for the eleven Saturday.

Ball in Start

The aggressive play of Ken Belge, who started at end, was one of the key elements. With the Mountaineers leading the score, Belge will be emphasized.

Another end, Ed Menecito, who started at left, may also be in the starting lineup. Menecito is a rugged lineman and sharp tackler, which may put him ahead of veterans, Pete Turcati at left end and Monroe at center.

Now springing a favored flier experienced in the Purdue tilt, 100 minutes to the end of the school year.

Bachman will probably be ready soon to handle the center duty.
This Mountaineer took over the pivot spot and did a fine job against the Boilermakers when Bill Monroe was forced out with a chest injury.

The backfield besides Menecito will be Jack Keene, center, running back and kick-off are, homecoming Michigan Grizzlies, and Bunker Gill of quarterback. Gibb will see his first game since Washington State game when he was injured.
