Grin and Bear It
By Helen Schmidt and Scottie McNeal

...and remember, when you spread tier in a whisper... That way, people believe...

...That the FEARS of fraternity men on this and other campuses... are the enemies of the... fraternity system... were echoed by President G. Herbert Smith, president of Wisconsin, in a speech before the college fraternity secretaries Tuesday...

The symptoms for justifying the fraternity system in the interests of nebulous "war necessities" are as hazy as President Smith's logic when he comments upon the "significance of collegiate fraternities as a war insurance measure," as declared in the Declaration of Independence and "the founding of the United States..."

While the president's assertion that "the fraternity was the best possible laboratory for democratic living" seems a little high-handed in the light of the desperate, not so war exclusive, principle upon which the fraternity system is based, the war record of fraternities on this campus is enough to combat arguments for their abolition.

The contributions of campus fraternities to the war effort, the cooperation of fraternity men with the manpower Corps, and their inauguration of the Homecoming bond drive and the IFC Stunt Show with proceeds going to the National Students' War Finance Scholarship Fund—all of these things add up to considerably more than a "justification for existence..."

Early Winter, Bureau Reports

Did it catch you unprepared this year— that Russian winter? Reports from the college weather bureau show that the cold days came earlier and colder here this year. H. M. Wills in the weather bureau, last night noted that several new recent records had been set and others equaled.

New records show Sept. 29 as the coldest day in the history of this university, the day of the first killing frost, within a month ahead of last year's schedule. November averaged 6 inches of snow as compared to 1.5 last year.

November seems to have tried all sorts of weather. Half of the snow was melted, the other 20% is stored. However, the winds have been about average. Most sandstone students thought plenty about Michigan weather, too.

Women With Scientific Training Needed to Replace Drafted Men

Because of expansion in war work and the drafting of men, the number and scope of jobs for women in industry have increased. President John A. Harbeck has recently recruited letters from the General Motors organization and from the Ford Motor Company indicating their need for women for industrial positions in their organizations.

Ford Motor Company wants women trained in physics, chemistry and other sciences applying to the auto industry.

Kenneth A. Moore, director of the employment service for General Motors, indicated that women and graduates with certain type of training and education in the fields of engineering, chemistry, physics and mathematics are needed.

Also included in the list of interested persons are several female students in the 24 plants of the General Motors organization in the east and middle west are needed. Women interested in further information about qualifications and employment, should communicate with Dr. Ken Moore, Ford Motor Company, or with Mrs. W. W. Key, superintendent of women in the Agricultural Building.

Controversy Arises as Darlan Hands Decision Agitates DeGaulle-Darlan Argument

By James Moore

J. A. Foster is an instructor of English literature who believes something else happened early in Elizabethan England besides the "Parricide." His research has been published in the "Carnegie Journal of Technology," and he is proving it.

Working on the theory that the happenings and ideas of great men are not limited to the written word, Professor Foster has undertaken to verify his ideas by reading the 16th and 17th century "newspapers."

First Studied Printing

Professor all set to be a publisher, Foster attended the Carnegie Institute of Technology where he was trained in commercial printing for two years.

He would give up the idea of being a commercial printer, he decided, if he could not find a course at Western College and later at the University of Michigan.

He first became interested in printing as a fun job when he spent two years at the Laboratory Press in Morgantown, the only one of its kind in the world capable of giving him the expertise by hand.

In fact, these hand-run newspapers were an invention of the modern printing press, which is characterized by the ability to print many copies of a type at once.

He Has His Own Press

The Laboratory Press is so small that the press owner provides most of the work himself and has distributed them to several college libraries.

Foster is working on a printing press for the press. The press is being used to print the 5th edition of a book of poetry.

By reading copies of several old newspapers, Foster intends to work completely on the tradition of printing, as he has done all the work on the selection.

State College History Lectures

The Michigan State College public relations department has been named the "State University of Michigan State College," the name by which the university is more widely known. The university has been building on the tradition of education and leadership in the state for over 100 years. The department, which works to promote the university, is a crucial part of this tradition.

20 French Ships Are Set to Imminent Tauton

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) - The attempt to evacuate all French ships at Tauton, left 20 French ships en route to Italy.

Korea Reports Today

Korea has been reported today as being one of the countries where the bombing raid, involving several battleships, was heavily damaged and might be reinvaded.

A press conference of the press showed the results of a recent visit to Tauton, showing that 75 ships in the harbor, all over 20,000 tons, were damaged or destroyed.

Korea's decision differs sharply from that of the government of Japan, which has already ordered the evacuation of all French ships except for those carrying valuable cargoes.

"Dorm Milk Rationing Meets OPA Request"

Contrary to rumors, the one-milk restrictions on milk in the dormitory have not been instituted. The dormitory is now using milk in the dormitory, according to Prof. P. S. G. (depressed by milk shortage).

"This price has been made since the labor situation is getting worse. We need more at this time, and the demand for dairy products due to the depressed farm market is growing more and more."

The general policy here includes its consumption of the milk produced since the supply of many dairies and farms is reduced.

Union Lost and Found is Hole-in-Wall

Full of Books, Clothes, Jewelry

By BARBARA HOPFORD

Tucked under the stairs leading to the Union balconies is a hole in the wall wherein a treasury of lost articles which R. G. Fulton, Union manager, would like to get rid of.

Therefore, said hole-in-the-wall will be open from 4 until 6 p.m. or later if there is time waiting instead of closing at 5 p.m. as usual, Fulton stated.

Included in articles filed under holes such as leather goods, jewelry, left over from last year, are wallets, fountain pens, pencils, five blanets checked during the football season and never called for; one band uniform; a pair of eyeglasses and roses, gloves, scarves, sweaters, suitcases and laundry bags, gym suit, a Delta Sigma Phi pin, and an Alpha Gamma Delta pledge pin, high school rings and a HBY pin.

Owners may call for items by identifying them. After one year unclaimed goods are given to the Salvation Army.

Clothing or anything else left in Union check rooms is taken to the lost and found, and owners may write to the contest to get it again, Fulton said.

He added that he would like to clean out the room somewhat before next term.

First call over holiday calls

Sending Christmas and New Year's greetings by long distance is a pleasant, heart-warming custom. But this year war is on the wires, and war takes no holidays. Long distance lines will be loaded with vital war messages on Christmas Day, and New Year's, as they are every day now.

That's why we say: Please do not send greetings by long distance Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, and New Year's, especially to points outside of Michigan. Keeping the wires clear for Uncle Sam is another way to help in the drive to Victory.
No 'Lame Duck' Congresswoman Knocks Down Alleged Murderer

WASHINGTON, Dec 8 (AP) — A "lame duck" congresswoman today landed a hammer blow against the paw of an opposing stranger in a capital barber shop and later discovered, to his vast astonishment, that he had captured a man wanted for questioning in connection with a New York slaying.

The switch was taken into custody by police after Rep. William Schirle (D) had a knockdown dream, gave the same body nips, 36, of 1st Terrace, N. Y. Shortly after he was detained, dogsions from New-York told of the finding of the body of Mrs. Emma. Gesine, the wife of Rudolph, Nies, in the shades of her house in 1st Terrace. She had been stabbed 30 times in the chest and the coroner pronounced it a case of homicide.

Last Sunday William B. Ballinger of the crippled police and the man detained here mulled criminally that he had "killed his wife and two children and took the gun told him to do it."

Schirle had had a shave and was washing his hands when the stranger walked in and started "getting tough" with the barber. Schirle tried to quiet the man but the race was one after me with his talks clinched, so I punched him."

Panamanian to Go Back to N. Land After Graduating This Week

Henry Simon, a Panamanian, as a man who spreads the good will of his native home to the youngest counsel in the world, is leaving Michigan State College this week.

As a means of saying goodbye to his many friends, Simon gave an informal reception in the Union ballroom yesterday from 5 to 6 p.m.

The 21-year-old central for Lansing came to the campus three years ago, this fall and since then has been one of its most active students. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and is active in Student's bureau.

Active Speaker

Simon has given 362 speeches all over the state, and he has given 110 piano concerts in this country, his combined audiences total approximately 115,000 people.

Always a believer of the good will between the Americas, Simon showed his diplomatic side when he said, "I believe in our relationship with the United States will be better than ever because of the Pan-American highway. Not only diplomats and business men will visit Panama, but also the average American citizen."

Came Out

On the morning of November 16, when the sun's rays first touched the sky the day, a group of students gathered on the steps of the Student Union to watch the dawn. The sun rose slowly, casting long shadows over the campus, and the students watched in wonder as the sun slowly rose higher and higher in the sky.

Slightly later in the day, the students began to pack up their things and head back to their respective classes. The day was long, and many of the students were tired from the previous evening's activities. But despite the exhaustion, the students were excited to be back on campus, and they looked forward to the new day ahead.

A new day for everyone, the students were eager to see what the day would bring. But for now, they were content to simply enjoy the beauty of the morning and the fresh start it offered.
