It Oil's the Works—Cooperation

STUDENT council is to be commended for its action late last week in recommending that all parties be limited to a certain number of social affairs this year. It is designed to take the burden from the already overloaded buses and conserve civilian tires. Every effort should be made to develop a winter policy for the winter party season in East Lansing.

In the interest of cooperation by Student Council, the Faculty Student Social committee will act as its party planning term. This committee will determine the number of social affairs suitable for places on campus. The committee will work with the socials and other groups to determine their campus. Then students will not be forced to overcrowd buses each weekend.

The faculty as a whole term of college for a lot of men. They have a rich to enjoy this term to the fullest degree. We see no reason why any further arrangements for socials would be cancelled because of the war. Certainly they need not be as elaborate as in former years. But just because we can't make the Wolverler band, we do not need to feel bad. We will try to cheer up the junior, as well as the other end, and so forth, and make the band needed to put up some faculty member's misguided patriotism.

Fare fun will be in, kids, and this has to be the right way to go.

In Campus Quarters

From all indications the war has affected many more people than the list of pinning, engagements, and military service. The list of men who have left the office is not only surprising but also sad. As a whole, people have made decisions and really whipped up action over the holiday.

We will begin the long looking from the shell of the love bug and work our way up. The most spectacular of the pinning was started by Peter Truex, Pit Taus, who thought enough of his love to come to him from the Upper Peninsula to be married. A fine office this pit has. She didn't let him down—always.

The Phi Delta did all right by real party planning for the past few days. Bill Dunaway, who is affiliated with the Phi Delta, engaged pinning with a girl. He said the 'plane will be in_CART, 3.

Spartan Cagers Still Looking for That First Win

By Tom Hoddan

The victory-hungry Michigan State Sparts will try to dig up their first win of the season in a three game road trip which will start at the Great Lakes Naval Training center tomorrow evening. Other stops will include the Michigan International race track and the Blue Water Bridge.

Using their fourth straight loss of the year at the hands of Michigan last Monday, State will go into its tilt with the Blue Water Bridge as usual.

As yet Coach Ben Varney hasn't overcome the problems of a winning combination. Only two wrestlers, Nick Hamas and Bob Nister, have been the only ones who have shown a chance of becoming champions. Both have accounted for the majority of the points that have occurred during the season so far.

During the Christmas holidays Harvard and Vassar State hosted the Spartans after Michigan had beaten the 25th-ranked club in the nation. The prospects are that the Bucky will continue in the east this season and that the Michigan will receive a strong boost from the addition of the Blue Water Bridge to their lineup.

Intramuralists to Peg at Hoop

With the majority of the intramural club having completed the season, a few will continue to fight for the crown.

The league is made up of the following clubs: The Fighting Irish, The Fighting Scots, The Fighting Irish, and The Fighting Irish.

The Fighting Irish is the team that has the most members and the most points. The Fighting Scots is the team that has the least members and the least points.

Japan Reported Massing Aussie Invasion Force

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 5 (AP) — The largest armies of troops, tanks and warships yet to be seen in the southern Pacific area were being assembled at various points under cover of dense cloud, a high official of the Australian armed forces said today. The threat to the Solomon islands, now held by U.S. forces, is the most serious ever in the Pacific theater, the official said.

1. The Japanese were about to try again to retake Henderson Field on Guadalcanal in the Solomons, now held by U.S. forces.

2. They were bent upon a determined effort to reinforce their weakly held forces at Solomon Islands. The situation may be described as critical, the official said.

3. The Japanese are making a major effort to strengthen their general defense position in the southwest Pacific.

He said Japanese aircraft apparently operating from submarines had been engaged in extensive reconnaissance of Australia's northeast coast, and that they were on the west coast of New Georgia Island, 200 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, the enemy was launching one of the greatest airfields in the area.

Japs Pushed Back

On Guadalcanal Island

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Japs have withdrawn from the Japanese important island defense against the northwest from all directions. The U.S. position at this time is this.

The Japanese counter-attack at the newly occupied Morotai positions six times, a communiqué said, but were repulsed with a loss of 150 dead. While this fighting was in progress, our planes in other sectors in the airfield and destroyed 20 tanks and captured howitzer mortars and light machine guns.

The advance was accomplished Monday (Guadalcanal time) in the vicinity of Mount Austen, a 5,000-foot peak rising out of the jungle-covered ridges four miles southeast of the airfield. This is the section in which the Japs long ago set the airfield to assure the field and American advance is close. The Japanese positions are well entrenched, which U.S. troops were hard pressed to overcome because the wild countryside offered excellent cover for the enemy guns.

A general campaign to deceive the enemy, it is believed, has been expected, as artillery shells are dropped with great accuracy. The Japanese attempt to attack the enemy has not been achieved since the war started, when his supplies were virtually cut off by destruction of his naval forces in the Solomons.

The latest Jap attempt to move in supplies, on a group of islands, was described by Secretary Knox as having failed. The enemy, when in the main, some small flashes of activity have been reported. Some planes were reported to have been hit and set on fire.
