Comrades...
WINGS for Christmas came to the Michigan State students, and in the first column of the Michigan State News last week we told you about as many as possible.

Johnny Kane, former Spartan half back, now in the U. S. naval reserve, last month was transferred to Selfridge Field, Michigan, where he received his flight training.

Another varsity football player Charlie Dierenfeld got his gold wings. Pam Penza, of our staff, used to be a guard for Detroit, before joining the air force. These three have been transferred from Selfridge Field. It was a real cock-a-doodle-doodle for the boys.

New Opening Date

Intra-mural Director Lyman L.
Caso has announced that the three ural basketball pep rally will op¬ tend to be held on a date early in February. It was originally that the cheer and stunt gers begin their cards Monday, but "Prim" decided to have the cheerleading get off at the same time so that there would be time for organization and practices.
Independent managers are yet to get their time as soon as possible so that the cheerleading may be ready in time for the pep rally.

Reviews Year

Roosevelt began with a review of 1941.

"The Axis powers knew that they must win the war in 1942, or eventually lose everything," he said. "It would have been impossible for me to tell you that our enemies did not want the war in 1942."

He praised the Russians for their defense of Stalingrad and their present offensive. In the Pacific, the battle of Midway was the most important victory, he said, for it secured the United States' communication lines stretching far in every direction.

"The period of our defensive isolation in the Pacific is past," he said. "Now our aim is to force the Japanese to fight. Last year we stopped them. This year we advance and fight."

In the Mediterranean, the threat is to loosen the pressure on Russia. He said that in the east we will take the successful invasion of North Africa.

"In the North African campaign," the president said, "I cannot tell you what is going to happen in the next strike. But I know that a strike and strike hard."

Giraud and DeGaulle

Nearing Agreement

LONDON, Jan. 7 (AP)—General Charles de Gaulle is expected in "principle" to meet Gen. Henri Giraud of French soil, it was reported authoritatively today, to begin the resumption of the respective armed forces down the line and to apply the next advance of a Fighting French front to the southern part of the country.

While there was no official announcement on a time for the meeting but it was believed that the French high commission- tion in North Africa and the Fighting French leaders were earnestly anxious to terms ever before.

Afraid of Germs? Snowflakes Lack Microorganisms

By BARBARA HAYFORD

An unexplained need, snowflakes and trying to find them out of the air using until very recently, was dropped yesterday for an earnest class of student.

"But you realize how much dirtier you are lying on your couch. The only way to get rid of it is by thorough cleaning of the house."

From the bacteriology department did Maria Malinauskas of the bacteriology de- position, snowflakes are not generally sterile, especially if it has been raining. Ten to twenty snowflakes contain dirt, bacteria and spores from the air; however, in the improbable event of a snowstorm followed by a rain or snowshoe, the chance that they would become sterile would be impractical.

The chances of the snow's con- taining bacteria from between the snowflakes and under oral cavity naturally to carry one cubic inch of it in the mouth. Dr. Malinauskas stated that it was possible that these bacterial spores in a snowstorm would reflect the same influence as in the sea.
