PHYLLIS BLAKE
DEAR SIR:

I read the subject of formal dances at your institution last week at a high school assembly. I was not acquainted with the writer's name, but I was told that he was one of your best students. I am writing to express my admiration for his article.

I have been a teacher for many years, and I have noticed that students often write about topics that are important to them. However, I have never heard of a student who has written an article about formal dances. I think that your student has done a great service by bringing attention to this important issue.

Sincerely,

[Letter Writer's Name]
Story of Cage Find in Chicago Prep Loop

By TOM HORDAN

April 27, 1943

Chicago, Ill.-Several young detectives in a Chicago police station were busy yesterday afternoon hunting for leads in a cage theft. It appears that someone had stolen a cage containing several birds and was trying to sell them.

The cage was located in the basement of a building on the corner of Wabash and State Streets. According to the detectives, the cage contained a parakeet, a canary, and a parrot.

The detectives were searching for the person who had taken the cage and was attempting to sell the birds.

The cage was found to be empty and the birds were nowhere to be found. The detectives believe that the person who took the cage had them killed and disposed of them.

The investigation is continuing and further details will be released as they become available.

State Matters to Face O of M in First Tilt

Recent changes in the Spartan organization have been reflected in the schedule for the Michigan-Ohio State football game.

Michigan's new head coach, Alstyne, has made several changes in the lineup to improve the team's chances of victory.

The Michigan defense has been strengthened by the addition of several new players, including a star tackle and a replacement for the injured quarterback.

The Michigan offense has also been improved by the introduction of a new system of plays.

The Ohio State defense has been weakened by the loss of several key players, including the star linebacker.

The annual Bell-Hop, sponsored by Sigma Gamma Upsilon, was held Friday at 9 p.m. in the Union ballroom, according to Paul Hauserman, L. A. 43, president of the organization.

The cabinet, which has been used in previous years, will again form the setting for the party. Dan Charles and his band will play for dancing.

Tickets for the party will be sold by Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Provea and Mrs. C. F. Driver, Hauserman said. Tickets for the party are on sale now and can be purchased at the Union desk from members of Sigma Gamma Upsilon.

The number of women employed in the manufacture of goods industries increased during our last year of war by 110,000.

Tuesday Night will be "Bowl Night," during which the Alpha Upsilon Dental Alumni League will present the show. The oil painting of the "Alumni League," by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Driver, will be displayed.

The Art department is presenting an exhibition of useful household objects entitled "What Is Good Design" at the Art gallery, Mason building, according to K. B. Brauner, acting head of the Art department.

The show, assembled and circulated by the New York Museum of Modern Art, opened to the public and continued through June 28. The exhibition may be seen Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The show will also be open during the summer at the Art gallery.

Adams says one of his goals is to write such a complete and comprehensive history of literature that it will be impossible for any other historian to write anything comparable.

American Literature: Distinguished Service

We were men who were having a good time, and being peremptory was paid for it. If we happened to come through a night when we were similarly honored, we felt honored, but if we did not, American Literature: Distinguished Service will be most unyielding, and we will be invited to try to "break the trouble." Ample opportunity will be afforded the audience to use the speaker and questions and they will be invited to try to "break the trouble." Students will be admitted to the lecture by activity book.
