Roosevelt, Camacho Meet in Mexico

Presidents Proclaim Mutual Solidarity of Two Neighbors

Dioxsan- War, Future Continental Relations

By Douglas R. Cornell

MONTERREY, Mexico, April 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt and President Manuel Avila Camacho of Mexico met here today to talk of the war and the future of the two Allied republics.

It was the first time since 1960 that chief executives of the two countries had met.

In broadcast speeches they proclaimed the solidarity of their people and their determination to win the war, and to maintain the shaky mutual friendship which the Roosevelt-Camacho peace once promised would end the future war in the Western Hemisphere.

There was no definite basis in the addresses which secret broadcast messages by both statesmen and studies of state the two chief executives may have communicated in their unpublicized meeting in the day.

Points in Common Aims

But Mr. Roosevelt and declared that: "while the United States is on common aims to fight, we can work together for a more peaceful world, however long the war may last, upon which we shall build the future of our children. For the sake of the future, there is no time to lose."

"We are also determined to do our share in affording help to the countries which are being invaded and occupied by the German armies, and in fighting them until they shall have been defeated and made incapable of an attack so long as the United Nations shall continue to be in danger."
