Dance Will Mark End of Stay Here For 300 Aircrews

A dance for the first contingent of 300 aircrews of the 617th CTD to graduate from here will highlight the end of the first day on their way to working their wings, and will be followed by their departure for the classification center at San Antonio, Texas, according to Lt. Commander Elsie M. Miller, chief relations officer.

Playing at the dance in Dorms Room 446 will be a dance orchestra made up of members of the Armed Forces in B Battery, who formerly led an army orchestra, according to a statement from the public information office. The aircrews have been in the area for a number of weeks, but this will be their last chance to work their wings.

Air Force Veteran

Air Force veteran Col. Loren Hilsinger, who was one of the first members of the 617th CTD to graduate from here, is set to leave tonight for the Pacific Theater. Col. Hilsinger has been in the area for a number of weeks, but this will be his last chance to work his wings.

Spartan Hospitality Appreciated

In time of war, so they say, there is little room for sentiment, especially among members of the armed forces. Even so, there are going to be many mixed emotions among the personnel of squadrons A and B, who will be leaving.

The average airman is always anxious to be on the move, and to finish his training as soon as possible. As one of our sergeants aptly stated, "You fellows might be looking forward to your new post, but when you get there you'll wish you were back here."

After our column in "last camp," our slot here has been taken by a corporal of history. But, as our training period draws to a close, we are looking forward to our new station with great expectation, still realizing that State and Nationally, the best army we ever post we shall ever see.

Every one of us is exceedingly grateful for the friendship shown us here, and hopes some day to visit this camp again under better circumstances.
