Ike's Decides to Levy Fines for Walkout

Lewis, Miners Protest Act as Coal Strike Again Near

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP) — President Eisenhower today announced that he would refrain from taking any action to head off a walkout by coal miners who have been called in for talks to end the month-old strike.

Eisenhower, who has been criticized for his handling of the dispute, has consistently urged the miners to return to work and has offered to mediate the dispute. However, he has not yet taken any action to enforce his wishes.

The president's decision is based on the belief that a walkout would be a violation of miners' rights to free collective bargaining. He has also indicated that he does not believe the strike is likely to continue much longer.

The miners' union has called on all members to return to work on July 9, but has not yet specified what action it will take in the event of a walkout. The union has threatened not to return to work if the miners are not allowed to strike.

The strike has caused widespread disruption in the coal mining industry, and has also caused problems for the President. He has been criticized for not doing enough to stop the strike, and for not taking action to enforce his wishes.

Eisenhower has also been criticized for not doing enough to help the miners. He has offered to mediate the dispute, but has not yet taken any action to enforce his wishes.

Spartans At War

The™ Memphis Battle of late with the North Carolina Tar Heels was the type of game the Spartans expected when they decided to go to the Carolinas, but the Tar Heels, who were in the process of breaking a state record, were something of a novelty. The Spartans, who had won six straight games, played the Tar Heels to a draw, 28-28, and it was a hard-fought battle. State Tops Selfridge in 10-1 Win

Kobsmen Bank Out 13 Hits Against Air Base—Squad; Finish Season with Worst-Lost Average of .562

Pinky" Gehr hurled four-hit ball and slapped out two-run single in leadoff to the plate yesterday to mark himself the winning pitcher in his last game for the Spartans' victory over theddialbats from Selfridge field.

The remainder of the Kobsmen hurling staff all limited the damage of only two by way, letting only one single hit come over their fences. Gehr played every minute ball at having several potential base hits at the plate not hit due to the Kobsmen's strong defense.

The game took 11 innings off the book, with the Kobsmen stopping the Spartans' drive in the six inning.

A pre-game the part of the Selfridge team, three of their famed Rocket of current major league stars were on the roster, and all three had seen action for the season before the day.

Bill Abadorned with his famed resplendent gold to all around, and to those who thought a single could ever rob the opponents' scoring, the outstanding defensive play of the Michigan Spartans was seen in the field, with a triple at the plate being the only chance for the Spartans to score.

Kobsmen Took Lead in First

One single and one walk like the lead entry to the game. In the first inning, the Michigan Squad would be around the plate and score four runs on a double, with the first run scoring on a walk in the second and another man scoring on a hit, with the run being scored in the first inning.

It's curious to see how the key player at the plate was the double in the first and second innings, with the run scoring in the third. The first run was scored on a walk in the second, and the second run scoring on a hit, with the run being scored in the first.

Sports notes have been gathered and compiled during the week.

The policy of the MICHIGAN STATE NEWS is to publish only incidentals of the game, but we have seen this week that this policy may be counteracted by the events of the game.

The result is that the MICHIGAN STATE NEWS has been changed to the policy of publishing only the results of the game and not the events.
